

Alvo News

S. C. Hardnock was called to Lincoln last Wednesday to look after some business matters.

John Coleman and family moved to Omaha last week and expect to make their home there in the future.

Lyle Miller and wife were in Lincoln Wednesday, where they were visiting with friends and looking after some business matters.

George Dennis and a force of workmen, have been working on a bridge west of Alvo and are getting it well along, so it will soon be in readiness for travel again.

Pat Reed and C. L. Smith of the Dodge-Plymouth agency, of Plattsmouth, were looking after some business matters in Alvo last Tuesday afternoon.

Charles Ayres and Neill Lewis were in Murdock last week, looking after some business matters for a short time and meeting with the corn-hog committee.

Mrs. Lizzie Lewis, who lives a few miles northeast of Alvo, has been ill for some time and still remains in very poor health although everything possible is being done for her recovery.

Little Allen Edwards was so far improved that he was brought home again last week. This is the fourth time it has been necessary to take the little fellow to the hospital for treatment.

Kenneth West, of Elmwood, has been here looking after the barber work at the shop of Carl Rosenow, who with his wife have been visiting with relatives in Wisconsin, and also trying their luck at fishing.

Little Joyce McCartney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted McCartney, who has been sick for some time, continues very poorly and while everything possible is being done for her, she does not show the desired improvement.

Rev. H. R. Knosp, pastor of the Murdock Lutheran church for some years past and who has now been assigned to a charge at Calloway, Neb., with his family, were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schleuter last Wednesday evening.

Earl Bennett, who had a vaccination for the prevention of smallpox, has been in very poor condition on account of the severity with which the vaccination took. It seems to have affected one of his knees and thus prevented him from being at the store.

Grandmother Uptegrove, who lives at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harry Appleman, has been in poor health for some time past and with her ninety years of age, it is difficult to combat the illness. Everything possible is being done to restore her to health.

Roy Stewart has been receiving a good many calls for seed corn, to replace that which has been washed out. Buyers are not only from around Alvo, but Greenwood, Waverly and Eagle as well, and all are seeking a seed that matures rapidly, so the crop will be out of the way of the frost, even if it is planted late.

Mrs. H. M. Wyatt, who has been visiting in Colorado for some time, being detained there a considerably longer time than she had planned on staying, due to the severe floods in that part of the country, was able to get home last Sunday. She was accompanied by two small grandsons, who will visit here for a time.

Harry A. Williams, of Elmwood, who is new with the Cole Motor company, Ford distributors at Weeping Water, was a visitor in Alvo on last Wednesday, looking after some matters of business. Harry is well and favorably known over the county and is a most reliable young man who should make an excellent representative for this auto firm.

Planted His Corn

On account of the illness of Mrs. Jess Hardnock, who is confined in a hospital at Lincoln, necessitating frequent trips there by the husband and family, and the general lateness of the season Mr. Hardnock, was caught without having his corn planted. A number of his neighbors and friends banded together and planted the crop for him last week, so it may get a start under the present favorable weather conditions. This act of true neighborliness and friendship shows the spirit of helping others has not died in this good old country of ours, notwithstanding the depression and the grasping for the last cent by a great many people. Mr. Hardnock is very grateful to his friends for their kindly act and we are pleased to see the co-operative spirit manifested, for it was just such spirit that developed the great middle west into an empire as productive and prosperous as any in the wide world.

Out of Quarantine Now

The homes of Charles Roelofsz and Elmer West, which were under quarantine for small pox, were released on last Wednesday, all those having the disease being over the same. Terminal disinfection was accordingly completed and the occupants released.

Married at Glenwood

Wayne Wiles, of Weeping Water, and Ceva Rueter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rueter, of Alvo, slipped away to Glenwood, Iowa, where they were united in marriage, and then returned to receive the blessings of the relatives and well wishes of their friends. They are making their home for the present at Weeping Water, where Wayne is employed on the buildings of the CCC camp that is being located in the Baker grove just south of that town. Congratulations and best wishes!

Many Attend Movies

The free moving picture show that has been inaugurated by the business men and citizens of Alvo is proving a very good drawing card for the town. The last show was one given by Mr. Gold of Lincoln, consisting of pictures which he took on a trip to the Orient, including many interesting scenes filmed in China. Mr. Gold also gave a descriptive talk of his journey, which was profusely illustrated.

Attended the Alumni Dinner

In years gone by, John Banning was a student of and graduate from the Lincoln Normal school, which has been discontinued for a number of years. An alumni association was organized, even prior to discontinuance of the school and each year there is held an alumni dinner and get-together to talk over old times. This year, the meeting was held last Sunday, June 9, with a large attendance, including Mr. and Mrs. Banning from Alvo.

Very Seriously Ill

Mrs. Jesse Hardnock, who has been so seriously ill, is still at the Bryan Memorial hospital in Lincoln, where she is receiving the best of medical attention and nursing. The husband has been staying in Lincoln to be near the wife in her fight for life and returning health. Friends are hoping almost against hope that she will yet rally from the malady and be restored to her former health.

Held Interesting Gathering

The Brotherhood of the Methodist church held a meeting at the church last Monday evening, having a very interesting program mapped out, and prior to the rendering of the same were also looking after business matters pertaining to the betterment of the community and the welfare of the church. A luncheon was served at the close of the session.

Able to Resume Work

Albert Fairfield, 29, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Fairfield, residing north of town, who is making his home at Streeter, Illinois, has been very sick with an attack of acute appendicitis, for which he underwent an operation recently and is now able to be up and about again and to resume his work this week.

Everybody Working Now

Alvo is pretty well situated at this time with everyone who desires and is able to work, having a job of some sort or other. The farmers are all busy and with prospects of a good crop year, have hired considerable help, thus helping to relieve the unemployment problem that has been with us for so long a time.

Is Kept Pretty Busy

Frank Dougherty was shipping a consignment of stock to the South Omaha market last Wednesday, the same being delivered by R. M. Coatsman with his big truck. As soon as Roy got home, he immediately went to work setting up farm machinery for John B. Elliott, who is disposing of much farming equipment both for corn cultivation and harvesting as well, for the time to start the harvest of small grain is drawing near.

Putting Cattle on Feed

John B. Elliott received a consignment of 27 head of steers last week, which he purchased at the South Omaha market, having them delivered to his farm by Coatsman & Skinner. Mr. Elliott is an experienced feeder and knows well the art of feeding and preparing both cattle and hogs for the market in a manner that yields a satisfactory return.

Married at the Parsonage

At the Methodist parsonage in the presence of a few friends, there was celebrated the wedding that united the lives of Miss Thelma Reynolds, one of the teachers in the Alvo public schools, and Gilbert Hands, both of the participants in the ceremony being residents of Seward. Miss Reynolds had been visiting with friends here for the past week following the close of the school year and was joined here by her husband-to-be, after he had secured the necessary papers at Plattsmouth. The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. McKenzie, pastor of the church, after which the happy couple departed by auto for their home at Seward, to break the news to their relatives and friends of their new state of happiness. The many friends whom the bride has

WHERE THERE IS NO SATURATION POINT

The Insurance Field observes that it is occasionally said that life insurance has reached the saturation point. But statistics paint a different picture.

Life insurance policies have been purchased by about half the people of this country. Their investment in life insurance totals some $22,000,000,000. Yet, vast as that figure is, the average individual policy outstanding is for only $1,670—and the average share of life insurance assets per policyholder amounts to only $364. As the Insurance Field says: "What a field for additional insurance!"

As a matter of fact, there can be no real saturation point in life insurance. No person can have too much security. No one can have investments that are too safe. And there are few of us who don't want more money in old age, both for ourselves and our dependents.

If the average man has only $1,600 of insurance, there is a market for ten or twenty times that amount. By the time that is reached, it is very possible that the average man will want to increase his insurance holdings still further.

Every time a larger part of the national income is spent for insurance, the national assets increase and spending rises. More money goes for the necessities and luxuries that make jobs and investments—and that, in turn, begets still more spending. The potentialities of life insurance as an economic force, entirely aside from its social benefits, would require an Einstein to figure.

TOO MANY CHINS

Omaha.—Thirteen Chins are too many, says Edith Chin, 10, who takes care of her mother's brood of little Chins. The thirteenth was born Tuesday night at county hospital to the Yuen Tuck Chins. "Between dishwashing and baby tending, I'm never thru work," said little Edith as she examined the new sister with oriental tranquility.

In the opening game the Home Dairy started after the beverage team with a vengeance and accumulated seven of their scores in the first frame as Vanlandingham was hit hard and several errors added to the milkmen's scoring.

The Donats acquired three tallies in the first frame and after that both teams tightened and gave the fans a good ball game with plenty of fast work on the part of both teams. Duda in the sixth doubled for the Home Dairy and scored on the hit of Miller, while for the Donats, Hull was walked and later scored on an outfield error.

The Norfolk Packers and Chevies staged a nice battle with the food producers taking a lead in the third inning and which was not threatened until in the seventh inning when the Chevrolets staged a batting spree which with several walks threatened to give them a victory. NO INSURANCE TAX LAW

Although it was reported here and notice to that effect published recently in the Journal, that the legislature had passed the bill making delinquent real estate taxes a lien on insurance claims in cases where properties are destroyed by fire or other causes, the law does not appear in the compiled session laws, approved by the governor and now in effect or to become effective on August 26th.

Whether the governor vetoed this law or it failed of passage in one of the two legislative houses has not been ascertained, but the fact remains that it is not included in the session laws and so must have been halted somewhere along the line.

Plattsmouth and Nebraska City had led the fight to have the measure passed, being aided by the legislative committee of the League of Nebraska Municipalities. Its purpose was to prevent collection of insurance on buildings that burn down, having delinquent taxes against them, and then deserting the property, including the debris left by a fire.

Plattsmouth offers a splendid market for farm produce of all kinds.

Survey of the Recreation Needs of U. S. Favored

Park Service Allotment Request Includes $40,011 for Nebraska; Would Provide Jobs.

Washington.—Asking for $3,444,132 from the work relief fund for a survey of the nation's recreational needs, the national park service estimated that it would provide jobs for 4,696 persons, including 3,872 semi-skilled laborers. Officials said the national resources board had requested the material to help co-ordinate the land program of the civilian conservation corps, the public works administration, and other federal agencies. The resources board, they recalled, "has recommended that, in the readjustment of land use, the area of land devoted to recreational use be increased from 16,000,000 to 80,000,000 acres, including national, state and local parks, private recreation areas, and bird and game refuges."

It was suggested that information gathered in the survey be used in preparing guide books on recreational facilities. The park service announced it planned to use the funds, if allotted, in the various states as follows: Iowa, $71,008; Kansas $53,788; Michigan, $136,447; Minnesota $71,008; Nebraska $40,011; North Dakota $18,221; South Dakota, $18,225, Wisconsin $81,341.

PROSECUTE FOUR FARMERS

Prosecutions from which it is declared there will be no turning back were ordered by the railway commission Wednesday against a quartet of northeastern Nebraska farmers. The four men against whom complaints will be filed are Leonard Clemens of Tilden, Henry Leonard of Osmond, E. L. Roche of Page and Vaclav Malina. County attorneys of Antelope, Pierce, Holt and Butler have been communicated with and have agreed to proceed with the cases.

In the Malina case the records show that he secured a loan from the federal government of $2,900, of which he paid back $716, but the inspector reports that the seal has been broken and all of the corn has gone. The inspectors report no corn found in the cribs of the others named. Attorney General Wright said that he would personally conduct any prosecution where the local authorities refuse to act.

Secretary Miller of the commission said that there would be prosecutions in a number of other cases where the facts are now under investigation.

COC CAMPS PLANNED

CCC camps, 100 men to each one, will be established at Trenton, Cambridge and Oxford, to help with the reconstruction in the flood area, according to Work Director arnahan. The troop will leave Lincoln Saturday morning under Frank Mohler and will be largely concerned with the building of temporary shelters for the homeless.
