Estimate of the State's Wheat Crop Lowered

Rust Damage Is Principal Factor in Seven Million Drop—Corn Outlook Better.

Washington. — Nebraska's 1935 winter wheat crop was officially estimated Friday at 33,320,000 bushels, a drop of approximately 7 million bushels since the July 1 forecast. Rust damage was the principal factor. An improved outlook for corn was reported in the Cornhusker state as the production was estimated at 108,852,000 bushels, compared with a 163,628,000 prediction a month ago. The condition of Nebraska corn was placed at 72 percent of normal. Last year's corn crop in the state totaled only 21,363,000 bushels, but the normal production is 225 million bushels. Nebraska potato crop was given a 76 percent rating and estimated at 10,400,000 bushels.

Reporting "radical changes" in crop conditions during the last thirty days, the agriculture department estimated that since July 1 the corn crop had increased by 228 million bushels while wheat decreased 124 millions. The Aug. 1 crop estimate placed the total 1935 wheat crop at 607,678,000 bushels, compared with 731 million bushels forecast July 1. George E. Farrell, director of the AAA division of grains, said "there is still plenty of wheat." Farrell said the reduction in the wheat crop would have no effect on the 15 percent acreage reduction to be required next year. Neither, he said, will the report affect the new four year wheat adjustment contracts.

On July 1 the department forecast a spring wheat crop of 273 million bushels, but said that some fields that "looked promising" in June are now a complete failure.

Winter wheat was said to be threshing out "substantially below earlier expectations." The estimate was for 431,709,000 bushels, compared with 458 millions on July 1.

"Corn, which was so late that farmers were afraid it might be caught by an early frost, grew vigorously during July and is now expected to produce a yield nearly equal to the average during the last ten years," the department said. The corn estimate Friday was 2,272,147,000 bushels, compared with the July 1 estimate of 2,045,000,000 bushels.

The wheat carryover at present was said to be about 165 million bushels and domestic consumption about 625 million bushels annually.

Estimates for other crops, the department said, show less important changes altho with favorable growing weather over the larger part of the country the estimates for potatoes, sweet potatoes, sugar beets, tobacco, beans, rice, hay crops, pears and percent.

MAYOR IS SUSPENDED

Muscatine, Ia.—Judge D. V. Jackson suspended Mayor Herman B. Lord from office pending hearing of a removal suit filed in district court by five Muscatine residents. The suit charges Lord with habitual neglect to enforce ordinances against gambling and declares he has been negligent in enforcing liquor laws.

Cass county has no bonded indebtedness, like the state, having paid as it went. That is a worthwhile record considering the predicament many counties are in, that have not followed such a wise course.

PERKINS RELEASED ON BOND

Omaha.—James C. Perkins of Omaha, chairman of the striking street car employes' executive committee, Wednesday was charged in police court with malicious destruction of property. The charge was filed after L. O. Hineman, non-striking tram operator, told police Perkins had thrown a brick at his car here Aug. 6. Perkins was released on $25 bond.

Perkins was convicted in police court several weeks ago on a charge of throwing a brick at a street car. He appealed the decision and is to have a hearing in district court within the next week.

Police charged Ben Short, Omaha, with throwing a brick at a street car. Ray L. Peterson, student operator, pointed out to police an automobile from which he said the brick was thrown. Police found Short in the car and reported he held a brick in his lap. The arrest was made Tuesday. Short is not a striker.
