REV. McKELVEY TO LEAVE

It is with much regret that the residents of this portion of Cass county learn of the fact that Rev. H. A. McKelvey, pastor of the United Brethren church at Mynard, is not to return to that charge this coming year. Rev. McKelvey has been assigned to the church at Pickrell, Nebraska.

During the pastorate at Mynard Rev. McKelvey has made a host of friends in all walks of life among the people of Cass county, by his ability in his calling and his fine conduct of his church as well as by his delightful personality and interest in the community welfare.

Rev. W. Beasley has been assigned to the Mynard charge and will soon come to take over the work at Mynard where a live and active church organization will be found to assist him in the work of his church.

The conference at Lincoln returned Rev. Otto Engebretson to the charge at Nehawka where he has served as pastor of both the Nehawka and Otterbein churches for the past several years and has had a fine success in his work there for the church.

A navigable channel by 1937 is the promise of Missouri river development boosters.

THINKS TALMADGE VIOLENT

Governor Cochran explained that he did not care to invite Governor Talmadge of Georgia to speak in the capital city of Nebraska because such action might place him in the attitude of endorsing what the Georgia governor has been saying about the new deal administration at Washington.

"The Kiwanis club officials," said Governor Cochran, "extended the invitation in the first instance and I was not asked to join in it until after the club had received a courteous note from Governor Talmadge that he would not come to the capital to speak without an invitation from the governor. Then I did not join. For me to make the speech I did on Labor day and then ask some one to come with opinions just the opposite would not be consistent. The governor of Georgia has been more violent than the most radical republican. I did not care to be placed in the attitude of endorsing his utterances."

Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Colman of Omaha were dinner guests at the Fred J. Drucker home Sunday. Mrs. Colman is a sister to the late George Grebe.

Timothy (A Christian Worker in Training)

(II Tim. 1: 1-4.)

The Christian ministry is a many-sided one. He must not only know that he has a positive call for the work, and is filled with a holy zeal for the salvation of immortal souls, he must have common sense, know how to sell what he has to offer, know his goods, know the proper approach to people. All this is part of his equipment. He needs all of this and more to be a successful minister.

On his first missionary tour, Paul found a young man at Derbe, converted probably at this time, 45 A. D. Here was a fine prospect for a Christian worker with an excellent background; from his Greek father he had the culture and refinement of Greek learning and art; from his grandmother and mother the deep piety and religious training of the Jewish race; now combined with his Christian experience, here was a promising candidate for a great career in the new church. Did he fulfill the expectations of Paul to become his probable successor? Some think he came short of reaching the mark. If he did miss the mark it was not the fault of his teacher; the lesson of today is ample proof, how earnestly Paul tried to make of Timothy a fine representative of the gospel of Jesus Christ.

This is the last Epistle Paul wrote; he is now "Paul the aged"; awaiting execution, lingering in the Mamertine prison in Rome, forsaken by all his family. He writes this last message, to have his adopted son with him for comfort and consolation. Paul here pours out his soul in such endearing terms, that it must have set Timothy's heartstrings vibrating. This shows the attachment that exists between pastor and convert, equal to the feeling between mother and child. Paul knows this young man, what possibilities and potentialities lie hidden in the inner recesses of Timothy's heart: "Unfeigned faith" without hypocrisy, undisguised, first in Lois and then in Eunice, transmitted to Timothy also. We think of other mothers, Hannah, Elizabeth, Mary, Monica, Wesley's mother. Paul wants to bring out the best that is in Timothy.

"Stir up the gift of God!" Did Timothy need this admonition and why? It is possible that Paul's imprisonment had a depressing effect on this young preacher, hence the admonition: "God gave us not a spirit of fearfulness; but of power and love and discipline."

The remedy, says the apostle, is to cast yourself upon God, and remember the gift imparted at the ordination, which was spiritual power.

Was Timothy a timid soul? It would seem so. That is why Paul says "Be not ashamed . . . of our Lord." Jesus said: "Whosoever shall be ashamed of me and my word, etc." Luke 9:26. Paul said: "I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ." Rom. 1:16. Timothy! Have the courage of your conviction. The Christian must be a cross-bearer. Too little is said about the cross bearing, hence so many fall away as soon as tribulations overtake them, they were not told that the cross precede the crown.

"Suffer hardship with the Gospel." See Matt. 16:21 where Jesus said he must suffer. Luke 24:26-46, Conversation of Jesus and two disciples at Emmaus, etc.

"Who saved us"—to serve—"according to his own purpose and grace"—all without merit—it is the free gift of God; showing Timothy, since all is of God, he cannot fail, if he trusts fully in God. What wonderful insight is shown by Paul into the deep things of God! What a magnificent instructor. The young preacher and worker is made acquainted with the revealed gospel of Christ. His coming out of Galilee (John 7:4). Showing himself after resurrection (John 21:1) "Who abolished Death" made it inactive, deprived it of strength, introduced us to spiritual life. "Brought immortality to light through the Gospel"—The gospel opened the future for us, gave us a glimpse of our future home.

"Future life was not an image before the Gospel; the Gospel made it an image. It brought it out of its implicit form, and from its lower residence within the bosom of the great fundamental doctrine of true religion, into a separate and conspicuous position as a truth."—J. B. Mozley.

Born anew of Christ, we enter into a sphere where time has no existence, where one day is as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day; we lay hold on eternal life. The foregoing knowledge is an absolute necessity for a preacher to have.

Paul knew that without the proper indoctrination, Timothy would be a failure as a preacher and teacher; it requires all the wisdom, learning and knowledge man can acquire to preach the unsearchable riches of Christ—Jesus Incarnate, sacrificed, risen, ascended, reigning, saving, coming. Timothy's misfortune was in all probability that God chose him for service, while Paul destined him for distinction. Timothy had the courage to undertake a huge task because there was no one else to do it. And there will, we doubt not, await the young Galatian a crown of glory, that fadeeth not away. Teacher and pupil did not meet again. Timothy was a faithful bishop as Epheesus, when crowned a martyr.

How soon the movement is to start is not stated beyond announcement by Mr. Williams that "a major part of the transient program is to be liquidated during November." Centers will remain open until this change is completed.

Nebraska listed 2,703 transients at the last census, August 15, of which 1,827 were in Omaha.

Business Changed Hands.

The drug store which has been owned and operated by J. A. Chapman for the past year and which has been a success, as it has enjoyed a good business and has been a place where all items in the drug line could be had and one need not traverse to some other city for what was needed, was sold to a druggist from Lincoln, Mr. Gerlach, who has come and is taking charge of the store. Mr. Chapman will remain for a time until his successor shall have become acquainted with the people here and the trade. Mr. Chapman will then remove to Lincoln where he already has interests and will after a time make a trip to California to look after some business matters.

There's lots of room in the FORD V-8

EVERY ONE who steps into the Ford V-8 for the first time is surprised at its roominess. There's exceptional seat room, leg room and head room in all body types—the whole car gives you a feeling of substantial size.

The Ford gives you extra body room because of the compact design of the V-8 engine—an exclusive Ford feature at a low price. This V-8 engine takes up less space in the hood and permits more of the car's length to be used for passenger comfort. Many a car selling at a higher price does not give you as much interior room as the Ford V-8.

Rear seats are wide and restful . . . three people can ride comfortably in the front seat of the Fordor Sedan, Fordor Touring Sedan, Convertible Sedan and Phaeton, and in the Coupes and Roadster. The seat of the Ford V-8 Roadster is 52 inches wide. A ride in the Ford V-8 will show that it combines unusual body room with fine-car performance, safety and comfort.

It is expected there will be some 300 in attendance.

Making Substantial Improvements.

A. L. Becker who has gotten along with a home made bridge across the creek passing through his land and while it had been a substantial structure, with the coming of the large truck for the hauling of heavy loads of stone something more in keeping with the requirements had to be brought into service.

So Mr. Becker devised a way of making a substantial crossing for the trucks which will be a stone mott reinforced by steel interspaces concrete. During the latter part of last week Mr. Becker had a half dozen young men and an engine for mixing the concrete on the scene, which is being very largely used for the manufacture of the passageway over the creek. The mott will afford the passage of trucks or any other vehicles over the creek at a rapid rate and be as solid as any pavement. Besides the crossing Mr. Becker expects to build a dam for the holding of water for the use of the stock of which he has a large number at all times.

Has Horse at Fair.

Ray Becker who is the owner of the celebrated stallion which he has had for some time, is exhibiting the horse at the county fair. All who are admirers of a good horse better step around and take a glimpse of it.

E. E. Leach and Art Pearley have been very busy during the time they are not otherwise engaged, and have demonstrated that they can manufacture anything which is desired in this line. They have made a trailer much like a street car with built-in compartments with drawers, cupboards, secretary and writing desks, making it a veritable home and office and which is being built for W. H. McAllister, who will use it for an office for his work for the Western Union Telegraph company.

Union Schools Much Larger.

The enrollment of the Union schools is much in excess of former years and in fact there are so many more than heretofore that another teacher has been employed in the grades for the proper teaching of the students.
