Charles Armstrong was a business visitor in Lincoln Thursday and Friday of last week.

J. V. Stradley was shelling corn for Ole Olsen and William Bolder Friday and Saturday of last week.

Gust McNurlin was called to Lincoln on Thursday of last week, where he had some business to look after, and also was visiting with friends as well.

John Mick and Gerald Stewart have been busy with their painting contracts in Greenwood. They report having considerable work ahead.

Henry Wilkens and Harold Mason are working in Nebraska City, where they are painting the residence of Ray Frederick, the seed man, who formerly resided here.

A slight blaze at the home of Rex Peters caused much excitement last Thursday. However, the fire department was there in a short time and extinguished the fire.

Mrs. Fred Etheredge was visiting with friends in Lincoln on Thursday of last week, making the trip via the Burlington bus and returning home in the evening.

This unusual study in contrasting facial expressions of Alvin Karpis, recently captured Public Enemy No. 1, provides a comparison between his appearance in 1930 when he was arrested in Kansas City.
