Public Works to be Continued on a Limited Scale

Secretary Ickes in the Meantime May Escape Airing of His Attitude Before Senate.

Washington.—A smaller scale continuance of the public works and resettlement administrations, largely under the financial auspices of Harry L. Hopkins' work progress administration, was promised by President Roosevelt. Coincidentally, Secretary Ickes, who had announced he would testify before the senate appropriations subcommittee considering the $2,364,299,712 relief and deficiency bill, postponed his appearance. When the time came it was announced the PWA chief would not appear until Saturday. Finally Chairman Adams (d. Colo.), of the senate subcommittee, told newsmen that it was "unlikely" Ickes would appear at all. He added, "We can find out what we want to know from his records."

In between the first two postponements, the public works administration conferred with President Roosevelt for an hour and a half at luncheon. He carried a bulging brief case, but declined any comment whatever about his white house conversation.

Presumably to talk over the latest turn in the relief situation, the president invited Hopkins and Rexford G. Tugwell, the resettlement administrator, as guests on a weekend cruise, embarking at Annapolis.

Preparing to Fold Up.

Rexford G. Tugwell, whose resettlement administration would be continued but curtailed, as would Ickes' agency, already has testified before the senate committee that his unit would "fold up" on July 1 unless given new money.

The committee has before it an amendment by Senator Hayden (d. Ariz.) to expand the relief-deficiency bill by 700 millions with the money to be given to the public works administration. President Roosevelt has flatly opposed such an allocation for PWA.

Ickes apparently will not present his views personally either upon the Hayden proposal or his own suggestion that if he had 75 millions more he could cancel a projected 25 percent slash in his administrative personnel.

Even as the chief executive made his announcement about continuing PWA and RA at a press conference, senators who have importuned the subcommittee to expand or embark funds directly for the agencies greeted Mr. Roosevelt's assurances that Hopkins would provide the money by asking: "How much?" the question was not answered.

Hayden stated he would confer shortly with PWA leaders to ascertain how much they are likely to get under the terms of the president's promise.

Inflated or ordinary dollars—either kind will still buy most if expended in your home community, where a part is retained to help meet the tax burden and other community obligations.

She Gets Around

Mrs. Phyllis Siler

Although she is only 15 years old and the youngest inmate of the Oklahoma state penitentiary at McAlester, Mrs. Phyllis Siler has twice escaped while serving a five-year sentence for assault with intent to kill. Her husband is in the death row awaiting execution.

PAY OFF SERVICE BONDS

Postmaster Gillaspie of Lincoln, has received notification from the post office department at Washington the Lincoln office has been designated as one of those selected for the payment of adjustment service bonds, it being estimated that 2,169 veterans reside within the district. Of this number it is predicted by the department that 75 percent will cash their bonds within 30 days.

It is contemplated, according to Washington information in the postmaster's hands, to make payment by check with the name of the postmaster to be printed thereon. Checks to be signed by an employee or employees designed for the purpose. Procedure tentatively adopted provides that the clerk will be engaged only in actually signing checks and will not be responsible for verification or names, such verification to be done before check signature.

According to the notice the treasury department desires that checks be mailed the day request for payment is received. This may make it necessary to designate several signatory clerks. The postmaster sent to Washington for approval, a list of six officials and employees recommended as eligible to sign the adjusted service bonds.

SIXTEEN ACCIDENT DEATHS

At least one person was hurt when hot water accidentally was used in a water fight, and another was cut by flying glass when a bottle of shampoo exploded on a stove. A child was attacked by a rooster and injured. The tabulation:

Causes	Accidents	Injured	Deaths

SEES MORE FARM SIGNERS

Washington.—Secretary Wallace said Wednesday reports compiled by AAA officials indicated from 4.5 to 5 million farmers would participate in the soil conservation program this year. The maximum number who signed the old AAA adjustment contracts in any one year was between 3 and 3.5 millions. Wallace said he believed the AAA officials were too optimistic and that his private estimate would be about 500,000 less than theirs.

DRAINING FRANCE OF GOLD

Paris.—A statement of the Bank of France disclosed that there was a drain of 2,739,000,000 francs in gold (about $181,689,000) during the week ending May 8. This loss, the heaviest of the year, followed a leftist triumph in the chamber of deputies election. It brought the loss of gold reserves since March 20, to 7,670,000,000 francs (about $506,220,000). Gold remaining was valued at 58,029,000,000 francs (about $3,849,296,000).

Mother Dies and Baby Born Dead as House Burns

Mrs. Ryvers Gallagher and Babe Victims, Third May Not Live; Oil Explodes in Stove.

Ogallala, Neb.—Mrs. Ryvers Gallagher, 20, and a newborn daughter died of burns suffered in an explosion when tractor fuel was used to start a kitchen fire at the Earl Wilson dairy farm near Lewellen. Mrs. Wilson, 32, also was burned and is not expected to recover.

Mrs. Gallagher, who with her husband, was employed at the Wilson dairy, had gone to Mrs. Wilson's home to bake bread.

Both women were rushed to a hospital, where the shock of the explosion brought on the premature still birth of a child to Mrs. Gallagher. The mother died five minutes later.

The Wilson home was destroyed. Wilson and Gallagher were not at the house when the explosion occurred.

Mrs. Gallagher leaves a 3 year old son who was not with his mother at the time of the blast.

Mrs. Wilson, badly burned about the face and arms as she lay in a bedroom near the kitchen, ran down the road to find her husband. Wilson and Gallagher extinguished her blazing clothes and rushed back to the house.

For a time he was unable to locate Mrs. Gallagher in the flames, but found her in the bedroom of the kitchen. Ambulances were called from Oshkosh and both women were rushed to Ogallala to the hospital.

The Wilson home was burned three years ago and the garage had been remodeled as a home.

Mrs. Gallagher, a lifelong resident of Garden county, is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Fought of Oshkosh, her husband and son. She and the baby will be buried at Oshkosh Friday.
