HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Georgia Creamer, residing south of this city, was the honor guest at a delightful turkey dinner Sunday, the event marking the passing of the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Creamer.

The home was very attractively arranged in the color scheme of red, carried out in peonies and roses that lent their charm to the settings for the delicious repast.

The members of the party had come with well laden baskets to add their part to the feast that was spread at the noontime in the home.

All of the brothers and sisters were present with the exception of one brother residing in the east and one sister.

Following the delicious dinner the members of the party spent the time in visiting and a general good time until the hour for departure, when all joined in wishing Mrs. Creamer many more such happy anniversaries. Those attending were: Mrs. B. M. Gerlock and children, David and

Bible School Lesson Study!

Sunday, May 31st

By L. Neitzel, Murdock, Neb.

"The Last Supper"

Lesson: Luke 22:7-23.

We would say: "Put off the shoes from off thy feet, for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground." The most solemn act is about to take place, a "new covenant" promulgated; the law and the prophets are at an end. "The law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ." (John 1:17). "The things concerning me have an end." (Luke 22:37).

A memorial is about to be set up that will never be changed. Two parties are about to enter an agreement which will be sealed with blood. The Jewish passover was a memorial of a deliverance from death by the blood of a lamb; Christ, our lamb, has delivered us from death by the shedding of his own blood. The feast of unleavened bread (Lev. 23:6-8; Num. 28:16-17) lasted for seven days, but this and the passover were celebrated as one festival. While the preparation was going on, Judas got busy to find a way to betray Jesus, playing into the hands of Jesus' enemies. It should be observed that the chief priest and scribes were seeking a way to put Jesus to death. At this juncture, Satan entered the heart of Judas Iscariot to make him an instrument for the execution of this frightful plan.

In John 13:2 we find Satan making suggestions to Judas, while here he is said actually to take possession of him. Judas was not a victim unwillingly under the control of a demon. He allowed Satan to come in. ("Resist the devil and he will flee from you." James 4:7). He did not resist him. Jesus must suffer, but Judas need not have become the traitor. Often Jesus had attempted to awaken Judas to his danger, but covetousness had gripped him so powerfully that no appeal from his Saviour ever led him to repentance. For proof see John 6:70, 71; 13:10, 11 Mark 14:18; Mat. 26:24.

"Judas did not betray Jesus because it had been predicted he would do so; it was predicted because Omniscience knew that he would perform that guilty act of betrayal. While the event did follow the prediction, yet it did not follow because of the prediction." (William Evans.)

It is almost certain that this money, given to Judas for the Lamb of God was taken from the temple treasury, from the funds used for the purchase of sacrifices. Thirty pieces (or shekels)—see Ex. 21:32; Matt. 26:15; Zach. 11:12, 13—the price of a slave.

The preparation to celebrate the passover are completed; a place is secured, Peter and John are on the committee. They had overlooked nothing—night is drawing near. It is after six p. m., almost dark—April 6. Slowly Jesus leads the twelve to the sacred place. Space does not allow us to follow all the events of those hallowed hours—the strife between the disciples—the washing of the disciples' feet—pointing out the betrayer—Judas leaving the room and it was night—all these follow the instituting of the Lord's Supper. The paschal lamb had been eaten, all twelve apostles being present. Now Jesus takes "the cup of blessing" referred to by Paul (See I Cor. 10:16). The Hallel is sung (Psalm 113, 114). The fourth cup, the "cup of joy" is drunk and the second part of the Hallel is sung. (Psalm 115-118). Now Jesus took bread and after giving thanks, proceeded forthwith to break it, giving of it to the eleven, saying: "This is my body, which is given for you; this do in remembrance of me." This is not a part of the original passover. It was entirely new, and belongs distinctly to the Christian church. That the bread was actually the very body and flesh of Christ is asserted by some divisions of the church, but the idea cannot in any reasonable way be substantiated. Christ's body was in that room with the disciples. It cannot be that his body was present both in his own being as he sat with the disciples, and in the bread which he broke. The bread at the communion table, after being broken, is no different from what it was before it was placed on the table. There is no change in the bread. No magic words will change it. If Christ's body were actually broken at every communion table, then there would be a continuous sacrifice for sin, which is what some people believe. In our opinion, that is contrary to the word of God. (Heb. 9:28; 10:12.)

The bread is a symbol and type of the body of Jesus. Note the word, "given." Christ is God's unspeakable gift to us (II Cor. 9:15; Lev. 17:11; Matt. 20:28; Gal. 1:4; 2:20; Eph. 5:2). The wine is symbolic of the blood which he shed on Calvary for the redemption of the race. Without the shedding of blood, there is no remission of sin. Thus the new covenant is sealed. The words of Jesus in verse 21 are pleased by Matt. 26:21-25 and Mark 14:18-21, before the institution of the Lord's Supper. The last words of Jesus in that upper room are very significant: John 14: "Peace and Promise" chapter; John 15: "Abide" chapter; John 16: "Holy Ghost" chapter; John 17: "Prayer" chapter.

A hymn is sung and Jesus leads the disciples out of the city to Gethsemane. Some day we will understand all these things better. "Not now, but in the coming years, it may be in the better land— We'll read the meaning of our tears And there, sometime, will understand. We'll catch the broken thread again And finish what we here began; Heav'n will the mysteries explain And then, ah then, we'll understand."

Door prizes were awarded to: Mrs. John Hobscheidt, Murray; Mrs. Harry Shiffer, city; Mr. Peter Hanson, city. Mrs. Fred Grouseman, state secretary of the Federation of Garden Clubs said that the Flower Show was very unusual and surpassed many flower shows exhibited in the city of Omaha.

Mr. R. E. Barrie, chairman of the Omaha Flower Show Committee for the Flower Show to be given at the Auditorium on June 6 and 7 by the fourteen garden clubs of Omaha and his wife visited the show Sunday and he expressed the opinion that the arrangement and display of flowers at the Flower Show were very fine. His wife said that she had judged a Flower Show in Omaha Saturday and that the flowers and the Flower Show arrangement of the local flower show, are better than that in the Omaha show which she judged. Also that she had a greater quantity and a greater variety of flowers than were exhibited at the Omaha show. She said she thought the arrangement of the displays and the whole setting was unusually fine. She asked for the measurements of the displays and made many notes concerning the display of flowers in the Cass County Flower Show.

Also Dr. F. W. Klusmire of Omaha visited the show and expressed the opinion in the highest terms of the flower displays and the arrangement of the flower show. Mrs. Klusmire said that she was to judge a flower show in Omaha this week but she said that her show was much better than she anticipated that she would have in Omaha.

There were many people from Ashland visited the show. More than were there from the Commercial club of Plattsmouth. There were visitors from Pender, Louisville, Greenwood, Alvo, Elmwood, Weeping Water, Avoca, Nehawka, Union, Murray and Mynard. They all expressed themselves as well pleased with the display of flowers and the quality of the flowers exhibited. The exhibitors were about 50% more than had ever exhibited before in the Spring Flower Show.

The committee want to express their appreciation to all who made exhibits in the show and hope that they will be able to exhibit again next year. The committee and all those who worked in the Flower Show learned very much as well as the exhibitors as to how to make exhibits in a Flower Show. Peonies should not be exhibited with more than one bud and should not be exhibited in full flower but just at a half open condition so that they open before the flower show is over but at the time of entering should only be about half open. In exhibiting irises, they should be exhibited with the top bud on the stem and just ready to open and not yet open at the time it is placed on exhibit so that it will open in the show room.

In the arrangement of flowers attention should be paid to the container to make it harmonize with the color of the flowers exhibited and also with the size of the flowers exhibited and care should be taken so that the flowers are not too crowded but will rest loosely in the container.

The committee desire to express their appreciation to everyone who attended the show and particularly to the entries of miniature exhibits as well as miniature garden displays.

ENTERTAINS AT MUSICAL

The beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Richey was the scene of a most delightful musicale the past week, presenting two very talented musicians who are visiting here, Mrs. Marguerite Walters Johnstone and Miss Olive Strickland, both of Sheridan, Wyoming.

The ladies who are visiting here as guests at the home of Mrs. Johnstone's father, Emil Walters, are planning a tour of the states and later a trip to the old world with several concerts in England as well as on the continent.

Miss Strickland, who is internationally known as a violinist gave a group of numbers, the accompaniment being played by Mrs. J. M. Roberts and Mrs. Johnstone, while Mrs. Johnstone gave several beautiful vocal numbers in her rich voice that was deeply appreciated by the group of music lovers.

Light refreshments were served by Mrs. Richey at the completion of the evening of more than usual charm and interest.

Those invited were Dr. and Mrs. F. L. Cummins, Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Clويد, Mrs. J. M. Roberts, Misses Mia and Barbara Gering, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Capwell, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reed, Emil Walters and son, Edgar, Mr. and Mrs. James G. Mauzy and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Herold.

GOOD RESPONSE REPORTED

A pleasing response is noted in the collection of "150 Club" membership dues the past few days. If the present rate is continued, it will be possible to pay Plattsmouth's quota of expense to the treasurer of the Arbor Lodge district by Saturday.

All collectors having lists out are urged to see the men on their list before the end of the week and turn in dues collected to E. H. Wescott.

With school out, the cabin and recreational grounds are being put to good use as different patrols spend portions of a week there.

A number of new Scouts have been enrolled among the twelve year old boys of the community and others who desire to join are urged to see Scoutmaster Raymond Larson.

The ten year program of Scouting calls for the enrollment of as many twelve year old boys as possible, as the active years of Scouting range from that age to about 17, when diversified interests claim the attention of most boys, although some do stay on in Scouting and make progress up to the age of 19 or 20.

Plans are being made for Plattsmouth's participation in the Arbor Lodge Scout circus at Auburn on the evening of June 9th. This will be held out of doors in the large area opposite the grand stand at the fair grounds. A loud speaker system will carry the voice of the announcer to the large crowd in the grandstand, and a much finer presentation of Scouting can be given than was possible indoors at Nebraska City last year.

A stand of bees belonging to Henry Wessell decided to change their place of abode and swarmed out of the hive. Not caring to bother with them, he called Charles Chappell and had him have them, giving the bees to Mr. Chappell, who was well pleased to receive and care for them.

Granville Heebner, the local implement dealer, was at Plattsmouth to secure some machinery, as he and one of the dealers there had gone together on the purchase of a car-load of machinery which was shipped to the county seat, where Mr. Heebner picked up his portion of the shipment.

W. O. Troop and E. J. Kruger, his assistant on the farm, were plowing their corn for the first time early this week and report a good stand, with the plants growing nicely. It would seem that some of the scare about seed corn was a bit overdone, as many farmers are reporting a normal stand from the seed they used.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lemon were at North Bend last Sunday, where they visited at the home of Mrs. Lemon's mother, Mrs. Emma Chambers. John Chambers and family, of Omaha, were also guests there that day, both the brother and sister enjoying the opportunity of visiting with their mother and partaking of the fine dinner that was served.

A salute to the sleeping comrades will also be fired over the graves of the soldier dead.

Later they will spend some time visiting the parents of the groom at North Platte.

They have a nice home furnished here in Nehawka for their use when they shall conclude their wedding trip. Congratulations are extended by their many friends here, who will be glad to welcome them back to Nehawka later in the summer as they return to make their home here.

Irene Fleischman Dies at Omaha

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Fleischman, and daughter, Irene, age 15, as well as two sons, recently came to Nehawka for a visit and to receive treatment here for the daughter, who had been in poor health for a number of years, having suffered severe injuries when she was seven years old from a cellar door falling on her, found it necessary to take the daughter to Omaha for hospital treatment when she became much worse last week. She was taken to the hospital on Sunday and early Monday morning passed away. At the time we were in Nehawka Monday forenoon, definite arrangements had not been concluded as to the time or place of holding the funeral. The many friends extend sympathy to the family in the loss of the daughter and sister.

HOLD SCORING SPREE

The kittenball game Tuesday night between the Hank Donat's Falstaffs and George Conis' Cardinals proved more of a track event, as both teams scored freely with plenty of hits and errors combined to make a hectic battle.

The Falstaff's, however, proved to have more luck as they annexed the contest 22 to 16, after the Cards in a ninth inning threat amassed seven runs to make it look tough for the beverage team.

Both teams started a melodramatic first inning with becup errors to open the fireworks and when the last runner had crossed the plate both teams had annexed four runs to their credit.

The Donats in the sixth staged a five run scoring spree when a handful of walks with a triple by Ed Kalina added to the rout.

Hennings of the Cardinals took one of Porter's slants for a home run ride in the third inning and which scored Stoch and Glen Kaffenberger, Brizendine of the Donats also stepped into the home run class.
