Roosevelt Late in Starting His Real Campaign

Declares Moratorium on Political Speeches Until in October—Too Much to Do.

Hyde Park.—A moratorium on political speeches until October was declared by President Roosevelt. The president told reporters he had too much to do to take time to prepare speeches. He has speaking dates at a "green pastures" rally at Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 10, at Washington Sept. 11 before the world power conference, and at the Harvard university tercentennial Sept. 18. But all these will be nonpolitical speeches, the president said.

He has put a trip to drouth states, for which he finished the itinerary, in the same nonpolitical classification. The program calls for him to visit nine drouth states between Aug. 25 and Sept. 5 and confer on drouth problems with Governor Landon and 11 other executives.

On his way east to begin his own political speech making, Landon immediately accepted the president's invitation to a parley at Des Moines Sept. 1, to which the governors of Nebraska, Missouri, Oklahoma and Iowa also were asked.

Conference with Farley.

Taking a hand in his own campaign, the president arranged places at the dinner table and beds for the night for James A. Farley, chairman of the democratic national committee, and W. Forbes Morgan, treasurer and Frank Walker, chairman of the finance committee. The president told news men Farley was merely to report on the current campaign outlook.

When the president mentioned that he planned no more speeches between Sept. 18 at Harvard and the end of the month, he was asked if that meant no political speeches until October. He replied that that is the way it looks now, and reminded reporters gathered in the study of his home that he did not start his campaign in 1932 until September.

When someone remarked that Alfred E. Smith had begun his presidential campaign in mid-August, Mr. Roosevelt grinned, and then remarked that Smith wasn't president of the United States at the time.

At his press conference, the president said he expected Secretary Wallace to be aboard his special train on the drouth states trip, along with Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator; Robert Fechner, CCC director; H. H. Bennett of the soil erosion service, and a representative of the reclamation bureau. He said he expected to contact the great plains drouth committee either in Bismarck or Pierre.

REJECTS EASY MONEY OFFER

Chicago.—Desk Sergeant Daly blinked in amazement as an unidentified little man shuffled into the 27th district police station and calmly outlined to the startled officer a plan to make some "easy money" which he offered to "split" with the sergeant.

"It's a simple plan," the little fellow told Daly. "It goes like this: You send a policeman to my home and tell my wife that I am held in jail for want of $25 bail. Of course she'll hurry right over to the station here and when she arrives the idea is for her to find me in a cell. With a background like that how can she suspect?"

"Now then, after she hands over the $25 you send her home, release me from the cell and we split. You get $10 and I get $15, simple little plan isn't it. Nothing to go wrong." "Aw go on home," said the sergeant easing the unidentified schemer to the door. "You bore me with your brilliant ideas."

GIRL'S INJURIES ARE FATAL

Superior, Neb.—Geraldine Millegor, 15, of Edgar, died in a hospital here of injuries suffered in an automobile accident near Nelson Sunday night. Doctors amputated the girl's badly smashed arm in a futile attempt to save her life.

She was riding in a car with Clyde Peters and Dorothy Blevin, also of Edgar, when Peters, the driver, lost control of the car and it plunged into a ditch and upset. The flegger girl thrust her arm from a window and it was crushed beneath the car. She is survived by her parents, five sisters and six brothers, including a twin brother, Gerald.

See the goods you buy. Catalog descriptions are flowery enough, but how about the goods when you get them?

LAD WILL SEE RUFO SWAIN

Chicago.—Seven year old Jimmy Thompson, who said he saw a "big black man" kill his mother, Mrs. Florence Thompson Castle, was reported to be in Chicago to confront Rufo Swain, 27, indicted as the slayer of Mrs. Mary Louise Trammell, in a similar hotel room case.

Assistant State's Attorney Meyers said he was informed Jimmy was at a north side hotel and would have him view the huge, athletic Negro who, Meyers said, confessed he beat Mrs. Trammell to death with a water pitcher. Handwriting experts also checked Swain's writing with the crude scrawl "Black Legon game" which the slayer of Mrs. Thompson in the previous unsolved case had left on the bedroom mirror. Swain's arraignment was continued until Aug. 24 at the request of Assistant State's Attorneys Meyers and Emmett Moynihan, who said they wanted to keep the Negro in custody for further questioning.

TOO FAST FOR COINS

Omaha.—An attempt is being made by postal clerks to keep all letters containing coins out of mail pouches intended for the new high speed streamlined trains. There are times, however, when one of the letters slips by and gets tossed into a bag that will be snatched from a hanging arm by a stream liner. When the clerk in the mail car empties the mail sack the coin is found at the bottom. The terrific speed of the train at the time the pouch is snatched from the hook sends the coin crashing to one end of the envelope and, according to Mail Superintendent J. H. Musgrave "No matter how tough the envelope, any coin will go thru it as if shot from a gun."

Hotel Murder Victim

Mrs. Mary Louise Trammell.

Basing their search on the slender clue of a worn address book believed left behind by the killer, Chicago police directed their hunt for a Negro prowler in trying to solve the death of Mrs. Mary Louise Trammell, above, fourth woman victim among recent hotel killings in Chicago. Her nude and battered body was discovered by her husband, a railroad employe, when he returned from work.

Laundry Trips Him

James Gray

Police announced the solution of the slaying of Mrs. Mary Louise Trammell, found murdered in her Chicago hotel room, when they reported confession of Rufo Swain, alias James Gray, above. His arrest followed discovery of a note, book and laundry tag which led to his identification and broke down his alibi.

Postman calls on Kindel

Soaring rents and the housing problem are little concern to Abe Kindel, right, of Fort Dick, Cal., whose home is a giant hollow redwood tree more than 26 feet in diameter inside and estimated to be more than 4,000 years old. Kindel has no formal postoffice address, but the mailman knows where to bring his mail!
