Cass County Receives More Corn-Hog Checks

The second shipment of final payments on 1935 Corn-Hog contracts, due Cass county farmers, was received last week. The checks totaled close to $30,000 and completes the payment to about 90% of the contract signers. Payment on a number of contracts still remains due, but all effort is being concentrated toward getting these contracts through the check-writing division of the Washington office.

County 4-H Clubs Represented at State Fair

Cass county will be well represented at State Fair next week in the 4-H club department. Judging teams in dairy, animal husbandry, poultry, girls room and foods have been entered for competition and the various members are hard at work practicing for the coming contests. Foods and rope demonstration teams will also compete, and the county health champions will vie with other county champions for the privilege of entering the national health contest in December. A group of eight or ten 4-H club girls have been practicing diligently on the numbers which they will sing in the state 4-H club song contest during State Fair. In addition to singing as a group, the girls will compete as individuals in a music identification contest. This part of the contest will be based on identification of twenty-five numbers selected from the numbers used in the 1936 National Music Identification contest.

In addition to the above representatives of the county, there is a large group of exhibitors in clothing, canned, baked foods, girls room, rope, poultry, baby beef and swine.

Field Meeting at Auburn Corn Test

The corn variety and hybrid field day to be held at the Arch Hoster-mann farm, six miles east of Auburn in Nemaha county, on Friday morning, September 4, will be of interest to farmers of this county. This test is the only one, of seven planted by the Agricultural College last spring which survived the drouth well enough to justify a meeting and harvesting the crop.

The test includes 27 commercial and experimental hybrids planted in comparison with 9 farmers' open-pollinated varieties. Some large fields of hybrids in the neighborhood will also be visited.

The meeting will start at 9:30 a. m. with a discussion of hybrid corn by Prof. T. A. Kieesselbach who is in charge of corn breeding at the Nebraska Experiment Station. A brief report on hybrid seed corn production in Nebraska, as well as a survey of the seed corn situation in the state for 1937, will be given by P. H. Stewart of the Agricultural College. Visitors will then be conducted over the test plot where they may see for themselves how the different lots have withstood the drouth and will yield under adverse conditions of this season. The yields are estimated to vary from a failure of some varieties to 20 bushels or more for some of the better hybrids.

4-H Club Tickets Half Price

A concession has been made again this year by the State Fair Board in allowing 4-H club members and leaders a 25c admission to the State Fair grounds, provided club members and leaders procure their tickets at the Students Activities Building on the day in which they are to use them for admission into the State Fair.

Individuals taking part in the fair, such as club members who are exhibiting and caring for their livestock, members of demonstration and judging teams, participants in meat identification, health and fong contests, will be admitted free, and their tickets are obtained through the Agricultural and Home Extension Agents.

In arranging for their admission to the Fair, the State Fair Board recognizes that the participating club members and leaders are actually a part of the State Fair activities.

Heigh Ho! Come to the Fair!

Preparations are going forward for holding the sixteenth annual Cass County Fair, at Weeping Water, September 15, 16, 17, and 18th. Important issues were discussed and taken care of at a meeting of department superintendents and fair officials last week. Premium lists have been mailed to all parts of the county and the detailed program for the fair is very nearly ready for the printer.

Interest in county fair is very keen this year and all indications point toward a very successful one. While exhibits in agricultural products may not be as large as in former years, it is expected that exhibits in clothing, foods, fancy work, educational displays, cattle, poultry, horses, swine and sheep, will be as large if not larger than last year.

The 4-H club department promises some very interesting exhibits by both Home Economics and Agricultural Clubs and all who can are urged to make entries.

A new feature at the fair this year will be the horse and mule team pulling contests. A dynamometer with a man to operate it, is being furnished by the Cass County Agricultural Society, to determine the maximum pulling capacity of each team, and attractive cash prizes are being offered the winning teams.

Wardrobe Tips

"Toy soldier outfits," which are jacket-frocks and suits combining two contrasting colors, have been given their name by Rochas, famous Parisian dressmaker. Since wrist length swagger coats are very good style, why not try something like this: Frock or skirt in navy blue all wool flannel and a boxy, wrist length swagger coat in red wool flannel. Or a green coat with brown skirt or dress. Red buttons trimmed the navy dress—blue buttons were carried out in trim of the jacket. The two-tone idea was also used in the brown and green ensemble. Perhaps you might like to make the dress of all wool crepe with the jacket in flannel.

In case you prefer a fittel jacket, mannishly tailored suits with soft dressmaker touches are still very "new season." It is a fashion that you may wear under a winter coat later. Tailored white or colored blouses with round, boyish collars are nice with suits.

Concerning colors, the most popular ones for fall are all the deep, rich woody tones: Wines—influenced by the deep coronation reds which will be worn in England this coming year; greens, rust, brown—because they naturally blend in with the fall season of turning leaves and lovely forest colors; and blues—perhaps because of the many fetes and society balls now being held in Paris, including that of Gainsborough, the master of the famous painting, "Blue Boy," which plays up this color. Or, again, the bluebonnet blue of Texas' state flower may have been an influence, there being a big Centennial going on down there. Of course, black is still popular, as it has been for many seasons. White is one of the smartest accents. Green, red, yellow and bright blue are also excellent as accent colors for black.

Regarding color accent, or accessory colors: With wine—brown is the best combination. Black may also be worn and you will figure out others. With dark green—either black, rust, London Tan, brown or wine shades. With rust—brown or London tan are most effective. With brown—red, green, gold, London tan, wine or rust.

Save the Swine. With Nebraska hogmen "on the spot" due to drouth conditions and facing heavy liquidations of breeding stock, the Nebraska Livestock Breeders and Feeders Association and authorities at the University of Nebraska college of agriculture this week advocated a 7-point program for the benefit of the swine industry.

Dan M. Hildebrand of Seward, president of the livestock association, and Prof. Wm. J. Loeffel of the Nebraska college of agriculture joined together in putting forth the program. Both are concerned whether sufficient breeding stock will be retained by Nebraska farmers to re-establish their herds next year.

The 7-point program includes: (1) planting rye for pasture as soon as moisture conditions improve. It will make fall and winter feed and reduce grain requirements in maintaining breeding hogs. (2) Replace old sows with gilts. (3) Keep a few of the best gilts as well as a pig or two for home meat supply. (4) Market pigs at lighter weights. Well finished light-weight pigs are selling at very good prices now. (5) Use protein supplements liberally. (6) Farrow 1937 spring pigs as late as possible. (7) Small grains will be exceedingly important from the standpoint of pork production next year. Rye and wheat seeded this fall will be available for feed by mid-summer. The same will be true of oats and barley planted next spring.
