Officers Named for Republicans in County Meet

John K. Chapel Addresses Group of Representatives at Meeting Last Evening.

From Friday's Daily
Charles H. Boedeker, II, of Murray was chosen as president of the Young Republicans of Cass county at a meeting in the Methodist church last evening. Mrs. Carl Hoffman of Alvo was selected as vice president and Mrs. Newton Sullivan of Plattsmouth, secretary-treasurer.

John K. Chapel of Omaha was the speaker of the evening. He is a direct descendant of the Kuropatkin family in Russia. He told something of the background of Stalin and Litvinoff. Both were incarcerated in England. Mr. Chapel explained some of the things that have happened under the eighteen years of Communist government in Russia; rugged individualism has been destroyed; prices in the interior have been raised so that one meal costs about $5 or the equivalent of four and a half days labor; a man works one hour and ten minutes for an egg, two hours and five minutes for a cup of thin coffee, and 147 hours for a pair of shoes yet the marriage license costs only 58 cents and a divorce, only 78 cents; the children are the property of the state and home life is completely destroyed.

He warned his audience that communistic forces are prevalent in United States. He pointed to Robert Marshall, Tugwell, and numerous other men as working for the institution. He stated that the main thing hindering the growth of communism in United States is the supreme court and quoted Stalla as having said "What we accomplished in fifty years in Russia among the illiterate, we have accomplished in America among the intelligent in ten years." He believes the government in Russia was responsible for the veterans march on Washington and said that the "U. S. S. R. second five year bonds are held by Americans and are negotiable in the Central Bank of New York City." He criticized Terkin because there has been only one deportation under her term of office. He stated that "United States has a five year plan but we call it the AAA and WPA."

Harry Spencer, state president of the young republicans, conducted the business meeting last evening. Miss Fern Jarrig acted as secretary. Mrs. John Harold Brunson, county vice-chairman of the republican party also acted as chairman during the business session. 60 attended the meeting.

Carpenter Speaks Here Last Evening

Democratic Nominee Urges His Election and Attacks Methods of His Opponents.

Terry Carpenter, colorful figure in the Nebraska political life, was a visitor in the city Thursday evening to address a meeting of the voters held at the district court room.

Mr. Carpenter had finished a day's campaigning in the southeast part of the state with a meeting at Falls City in the afternoon and the meeting here was the last of the program in this section.

Mr. Carpenter discussed in his opening his services in congress where he served from 1933 to 1935 as representative from the fifth Nebraska district. He pointed to the fact that when the Roosevelt administration and the new congress took charge, that emergency measures were necessary and which had entailed spending to aid in saving the people of the nation. He praised the work of the AAA and that it was not a dictatorial measure as those who did not wish to were not compelled to participate in it. He stated he did not favor the reciprocity treaties as the nations of the old world had, taught by the world war, made every effort to raise their own foodstuffs and which was the largest item of American growth for export. He also took up and discussed the Townsend plan as a part of a national security measure. He favored it as a measure to provide for the care of the aged and saving them from want or dependency.

Mr. Carpenter pointed out that the election was one of the greatest importance as the voters in the nation would choose whether to follow the Roosevelt liberalism or to revert back to the old principles advocated by the opposition. If Roosevelt and his ideas were defeated, Mr. Carpenter stated it would be a great many years before any other leader would advocate the measures so largely for the common class of people.

In speaking of his own candidacy, Mr. Carpenter stated that he had in the past been a supporter of Senator Norris, that he had not entered the campaign until the statements had been made that Senator Norris was not to be a candidate in the primary. The speaker had entered the democratic primary and had received nomination by a plurality of the voters in the primary to become the regular candidate. Now a strange situation had arisen when democratic leaders were joined in the effort to secure the election of Senator Norris who had entered the race as an independent. He scored Arthur Mullen for his position in the campaign, when after a controversy with Senator Norris over his services as attorney in the Nebraska power projects, he had taken up the support of the senator. Mr. Carpenter stated his position as un-influenced by political bosses and that if elected he expected to serve in the office with only one object in view—that the best interests of his people as he viewed them.

Plattsmouth Forestry Park is a Busy Place

Workers at Camp of U. S. Forestry Service Fast Making an Artistic Park North of City.

The members of the camp north of this city, a part of the U. S. Forestry service, are fast converting what was once a wild and rugged section of woodland and shrub growth into a very attractive park and which in the future should be one of the beauty places of this part of Nebraska.

At the present time there are 148 persons engaged at the park in addition to the staff personnel, who are engaged in the task of converting the land into landscaped parking, building roads through the park and preparing to also landscape and improve the rifle range, where also in the future there will be an artificial lake constructed to aid in the plans for a game bird preserve where the birds may propagate in safety and which will aid the wild life of the eastern portion of Nebraska.

Through the park the roadways are now being constructed which when completed will permit one enjoying a drive through the entire park and among many beautiful woodland scenes.

The representatives of the park service here, Mr. Gillespie, Mr. Parish and Mr. McKant, expect to have 168 men engaged here in the work in the next few weeks and which will add to the efficiency with which the work is being carried on.

The latest payroll of the park for a two week period amounted to $1,000 and makes a very pleasing addition to the community payrolls.
