Married Forty-six Years. C. C. Boldin and wife were passing their forty-sixth wedding anniversary on the last day of last year, December 31st, some three weeks ago.

They had intended having the marriage ceremony take place as the old year was passing, with a portion of the ceremony being in the old year and the other part during the early part of the new year, but on the day set for the wedding some unforeseen circumstance favored nine o'clock in the morning of the last day of the year, 1890 and so the novel idea went glimmering and they were married some fifteen hours before they had planned. They now have but four years to wait until they are permitted to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary. However they are entitled to congratulations for their 46th wedding anniversary, although a few weeks late.

WOULD BAR AUTO RADIOS

Boise, Ida.—A bill to outlaw automobile radios in Idaho was introduced in the legislature by a big, outspoken ex-Bostonian who once aspired to William E. Borah's U. S. senate seat. The measure was drawn up by Senator Ralph E. Whitten, the veteran republican Idaho lawmaker and electrical engineer, would make it a misdemeanor to install or operate a radio in any motor vehicle with one exception, police cars.

Whitten says it's his own idea. He knows of no similar law elsewhere. "Excepting those receiving sets used in police vehicles, these instruments constitute a public nuisance and are a menace to life and property," he declared.

A HALF CENTURY EXISTENCE

York, Neb.—Several York county towns will celebrate the 50th anniversary of their incorporation during 1937. The towns are Waco, Gresham, Thayer, Henderson, Benedict, McCool and Lushton. Incorporation of these towns in 1887 followed establishment of branch railroad lines. York, the grand-daddy of towns in the county, was laid out in 1869. It was located on a cutoff of the Oregon trail. Arborville, an almost forgotten inland village, lays claim to being the second oldest town in the county while Bradshaw, laid out in 1880, is third oldest.

Frank Darrow Chief Engineer of Burlington

Engineer in Charge of Work for Lines West of Missouri River Receives Fine Promotion.

F. T. Darrow of Lincoln, assistant chief engineer in charge of Burlington lines west of the Missouri, has been appointed chief engineer for the C. B. & Q. Railroad company, with headquarters at Chicago. It was announced Monday. Darrow has had headquarters in Lincoln since 1905. Darrow succeeds A. W. Newton, retiring, and the change is effective Feb. 1. Darrow's successor has not been announced. Darrow, who is now in New York City attending a meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers, will take up his new duties on that date. His family will move to Chicago some time in February.

Darrow came to Nebraska in 1897, after graduating from Allegheny college at Meadville, Pa. He did engineering work under I. S. P. Weekes, then assistant chief engineer in charge of lines west. The first five winters he spent in a tent, moving about in Nebraska, South Dakota, Montana and Wyoming. In 1902 he had charge of reconstruction of the Burlington bridge over the Missouri at Plattsmouth, and also worked on other bridges in the state.

He spent five months in 1905 with the Fowler Contracting company at Seattle, but rejoined the Burlington in September of that year as maintenance engineer for Nebraska. After a year he was made assistant to Mr. Weekes, and in a short time Weekes retired and Darrow became assistant chief engineer.

Mr. Darrow is well known in Plattsmouth where he has been frequently on business and his wife formerly Miss Alice Davis, was a Plattsmouth girl before her marriage.

and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Rood and a granddaughter, Miss Catharine Rood and Mr. Andrew Anderson of Grifton, Vermont.

The funeral was held at the home on Tuesday afternoon at 1:30, conducted by Rev. B. Beckner, with interment at the Mount Pleasant cemetery northeast of Nehawka.

Mr. Anderson was a very fine citizen and always willing to contribute to the welfare and happiness of others. Lydia Hobson sang at the funeral, accompanied on the old family organ, which has been in the home for over thirty years, by Mrs. Melvin Sturm, while Mrs. Vilas Sheldon had charge of the flowers, which were a great testimony to the friendship of the donors.

FIND DEAD BODIES OF TWO

Petersburg, Pa.—A baby's cries attracted investigators to a shanty on Warrior Ridge, high in the Huntington county mountains, where the bodies of a man and a woman were found. Sheriff Wayne Steele and state police said the couple was identified as Mrs. Grace Port, 23, and Winton R. Hamm, 39. The baby was found crying at the woman's side. Police said they believed the man stabbed the woman and then shot himself with the rifle that lay at his side. The baby, ill from exposure and undernourishment, was taken to a hospital.

SAVED FROM SENTENCE

Albany, N. Y.—The population of Sing Sing prison's death house was reduced by one as Gov. Herbert H. Lehman commuted the sentence of Herbert Russell, a Negro, to life imprisonment. But four of his companions are scheduled to go to the electric chair Thursday night. The action was the eighth commutation of a death sentence granted by the governor since Jan. 1. In that time, the all time high of the death house population, 26 men awaiting execution, has been reduced to 15 by executive clemency and the electric chair.

Included among those awaiting death Thursday night is John Florenza, convicted of a killing strikingly similar to that with which the Negro, Major Green, is charged in the death of Mrs. Mary Harriet Case last week.
