RADIO ACTOR HAS NO EASY LIFE

If you think driving a truck or ploughing a field or keeping 9 to 5 office hours is hard work, just try being a radio actor for a week. That, in essence, is the advice of Bruce Kamman, the lovable old professor in the Quaker Oats Company's program, Kaltenmeyer's Kindergarten, to the envious fans who sigh for the "easy life of a radio actor who sometimes works only fifteen minutes a day."

Take Kaltenmeyer's Kindergarten, for example. Before those thirty minutes of delightful nonsense come through your loudspeaker, an average of eight hours have been spent in cast rehearsal alone, in addition to the time spent in script writing and arranging music.

Professor Kaltenmeyer calls his "pupils" to order for their first weekly rehearsal Wednesdays from two to four. Always present at the first reading, to make necessary changes, is Harry Lawrence, pioneer radio writer who has authored all the Kaltenmeyer's Kindergarten scripts. A second reading of the re-written script—again with Mr. Lawrence present, red pencil in hand—is held Friday afternoons and lasts from one to two hours.

Saturdays, however, with Kalten-meyer's Kindergarten on the air from 4:30 to 5:00 p. m. CST over the NBC-Red network, are as grilling for the air pupils as final examinations in any real life school. From 11 to 2 they rehearse steadily. At 2 there's an hour's recess, time for a hasty lunch and for donning costumes for the broadcast. Then back they come, this time to rehearse the music with Harry Kogen and his orchestra for 45 minutes before the final dress rehearsal ending just fifteen minutes before air time.

And so goes the "easy" life of the radio actor. He's on the air just thirty minutes. But he's put in sixteen times that many minutes in rehearsal.

ANNUAL EASTER SEAL SALE

The annual sale of Easter seals for the benefit of crippled children whose parents are unable to provide for their care, begins March 8 to 28. They are one cent each and can be bought in any amount. This is a worthy organization, being international in scope. Seals may be secured from your local representative or the county representative.

Bible School Lesson Study!

Sunday, March 14th

By L. Neitzel, Murdock, Neb.

"Jesus Prays for His Disciples"

John 16:5-7; 17:14-26.

The approach to this lesson is somewhat difficult; many hold that Chapters 16 and 17 were spoken in the upper room, but such is not the case. After the singing of a "Hymn," which concluded the paschal feast, the company arose and left the upper room and between the city and Gethsemane the chapters thirteen to eighteen were spoken. In fact everything recorded in seven successive chapters (13-19) occurred in a period of less than twenty-four hours.

We marvel at the calm and composure of Christ on this last walk as a free man. While we think that Christ needed comfort and cheer, he speaks those beautiful and comforting words to his bewildered disciples; seeing that their persecution will soon follow in witnessing for him after his resurrection; so they must be forewarned and prepared for that ordeal.

It is a sad leave-taking from those so dear to him, and in their sorrow about his going from them, they forget to ask him where he is going. What a wonderful revelation is given them and us at this juncture. "It is expedient for you that I go away . . ."

The work of the Holy Spirit is here described. It was better for them that Christ's personal presence should be withdrawn in order that His spiritual presence might be nearer to them than ever. This would be effected by the coming of the Holy Spirit, when He who was now "with" them, would be ever "in" them. If Jesus remained with them he could only be in one place at a time—in the Holy Spirit he would be multiplied, like on Pentecost; hence it was expedient for Him to go. "If Christ should not depart, the Holy Spirit could not come for never have been two persons of the Godhead dwelling on earth at the same time." (C. E. Stuart).

We turn now to Christ's prayer of intercession. Nothing more dignified, nothing more holy, nothing more fruitful, nothing more pathetic has ever been heard in heaven or earth than this prayer of the very Son of God. Someone has very correctly called the chapter "the sanctuary of the universe." In the first five verses, Christ prays for himself, in the next fourteen Christ prays for his disciples, and in the last seven for the entire church. All through the prayer, Jesus speaks of himself as "the Son." "Glorify thy Son," by accepting the sacrifice of His death and by raising Him from the dead. When this is done, the Son will glorify the Father by converting the world. In Christ's petition for his disciples is included (1) the phrase, "the men whom thou gavest me out of the world"—common, ordinary men; they belong to God, are still in the world, yet "not of the world"; they have received and kept thy word; (2) the work Christ had accomplished for them—he manifested God's name to them—he kept them in God's name—he guarded them. (3) Christ's petition is God shall keep them especially from the Evil one, that they might have Christ's joy made full in themselves. (4) Finally, we have Christ's commission to his disciples. He sends them into the world as God had sent him into the world. Sanctify them in the truth; the word is truth. The eternal truth as to Christ's origin, position, destiny—the truth as to his relationship to God himself and his son Jesus Christ, as to his relationship to his brother men; his place here, his hope for the future. No grain of error here or falsehood. Set them apart from the world for holy living. Christ was sanctified—consecrated—set apart at the beginning of his public ministry. Now he once more becomes the sacrifice in the sense of a priest and victim in the approaching sacrifice.

The prayer of Christ for the church should hold our prayerful attention. The church would be assaulted and persecuted, therefore she needed the assurance of the sustaining power of Christ's perpetual care and intercession. It is the one miracle that has always puzzled the world: "How the church has withstood the terrible persecutions, and has always moved forward and is still advancing." It is because her divine head is interceding for her. He is still praying for unity in their ranks.

As there are many members in a body, so the many different church organizations are but so many members in the church militant, with Christ as her head, ministering to the great masses to bring them under his banner. The unity in the Spirit is the burden of Christ's prayer. In that spirit all churches can worship at the same altar. All pursue the same aim, to bring sinners to repentance and lead them to a saving knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ, and an experience of sins forgiven; and build up an edifice in which God will dwell and "Zion will put on her beautiful garments" and "departing from out of them . . . because they are holy vessels of the Lord." (Isa. 52:1-11).

Where the Lady's Voice Fell In

By IRVIN S. COBB

AS MONTAGUE GLASS tells the tale, a foreign pianist was engaged to act as accompanist for an aspiring amateur singer. The amateur was a lady. She had bounding ambitions but her technique was faulty. This defect became manifest at the first rehearsal. After the poor woman had flatted and flatted until she had flatted practically all her notes, the accompanist waved her to silence.

"Madam," he said mournfully, "it is no use. I gif up der chop. I blay der black keys, I blay der white keys—and always you sing in der cracks!"

(American News Features, Inc.)

Little four year old Lois Gude of Nebraska City, a niece of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Morris, was guest for the week end at the Morris home in Union. Miss Lois also celebrated her fourth birthday while here.

Frank Bauer and sister, Miss Anna, were enjoying a visit at the home of Peter Shroader near Greenwood last Sunday. Frank reports there was much dust falling there in the shape of a dust storm.

Paul Davis who makes his home in Nebraska City, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Lucy Davis and Mrs. Clara James, were in Omaha last Saturday visiting. A sister, Katherine, remained for a longer visit.

Noah Parker, Jr., 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Parker, was celebrating the passing of his fourth birthday anniversary last Sunday. The mother was providing a birthday dinner which was shared by the little friends of Noah, Jr.

Miss Rachel Viers, one of the teachers of the Union public schools was a guest at the home of her parents at Diller for over the week end where she enjoyed a very pleasant visit and returned in time to take up her school work Monday morning.

Friends Celebrate Birthday
The friends of Mrs. Herman Comer gathered at the Comer home last Sunday, where they assisted Mrs. Comer in the passing of her birthday. A most pleasant time was had by all, a splendid luncheon being one of the features. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. George Comer and children, R. D. Stine and wife and their son George, Mrs. Lovina Comer and a number of other friends and relatives.

The Missouri river as it flows past Union a few miles away last Sunday had the ice break up and clear away, thus another step toward the rapidly approaching spring.

Miss Mildred Burbee, a student of the Methodist Bible school, was celebrating the passing of her birthday and deposited her twenty cents in the missionary box.

Mont Robb, who has not been in the best of health has been kept to his home for some time past, but was able to be down town for a short time last Saturday.

Otto Ehlers and wife were guests for the day last Sunday at the home of the parents of Mrs. Ehlers, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Becker, all enjoying a very fine fish for the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Schumacher and their little one were enjoying a visit Sunday at the home of Lester's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Schumacher north of town.

Hon. W. B. Banning and wife who are making their home for this time in Lincoln, where they have been living for many months, were spending the week end at their home in Union.

John Christensen who has been very sick with pneumonia for the past few weeks and has been kept to his home is reported as able to sit up last Sunday and is reported as being some better.

W. H. Marks Improving

W. H. Marks, who has been kept at home from a severe attack of pneumonia for more than two weeks, is reported improving and was able to sit up for short periods of time this week. This will be good news to his friends who hope his improvement may continue.

Mrs. Allison Some Better

Mrs. Mary B. Allison, who was severely burned a short time ago, has been showing good improvement of late, although still far from well. Her daughter, Mrs. Eva Pearson, of Auburn, was here and spent a couple of days with the mother, who was pleased and cheered as a result of her visit. Cora Hathaway has been assisting in the care of Mrs. Allison and doing the household work.

Engaging in Business Here
Edward Midkiff, who has been making his home in Avoca of late, effected a lease late last week where-by he secured the Trunkenholz service station here, taking over the business last Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Midkiff expect to move to Union in a short time and will make their home here again, after an absence of more than a quarter of a century, during which they have lived elsewhere. The older inhabitants will remember this excellent couple and wish them success here.

Discontinues Business

Dean Gillespie, who has conducted a barber shop in Union for some time past, last Saturday night discontinued the operation of the same and has made application for work on the W.P.A., which is expected to require more men in the near future. Mr. Gillespie feels that there is a better opportunity of making a living with outside work than to continue in the barber business, which has been none too good.

Celebrates Passing Birthday

Mrs. Nancy Clarence, formerly Miss Nancy Rakes, who was born in Virginia, but came to the west when a small girl, residing here for more than eighty years, arrived at her 95th birthday last Sunday. In spite of her advanced age, she is in good health and has excellent command of her faculties, being of keen mind and able to get around quite well. She is happy in her advancing years and on the occasion of her birthday was able to sing with much vim the song, "Happy Days are Here Again." She remembers well the hardships and privations that beset the early settlers and recalls numerous experiences with the Indians who were very plentiful at the time her family first located in Nebraska.

She, and others of the old school, have assisted greatly in bringing the country to its present high state of fertility and modern conveniences, and we join with her many friends in extending congratulations.
