Rence With Earthly Treasure, and Ave Maria as the first group. Miss Alice Auxier, soprano, was featured. Mrs. G. A. Butts of Burwell, state chairman of the Junior, Business and Professional clubs spoke on the subject of "Drums and Dreams." She told of the necessity of acquiring a far vision—one which sees beyond to the enrichment of life. She spoke of the world as being one of partnership rather than patronage in the present age.

Speaks on Higher Vision.

"The highest thing you can give to life is an ideal," she said. "Formulate one, let it be a wish drenched with emotion. . . . Every man is hapless when he sees his direct ladder of responsibility, then it is he looks a little higher and sees his ideal of life. . . . There's healing in the far look."

Ronald Clark, soloist of Peru State Teacher's college, sang "O Dry Those Tears" and "Mother Machree."

J. E. Lawrence Talks

James E. Lawrence, editor of the Lincoln Star was an able speaker on the subject of "The Powder Keg of Europe." He recalled the declaration of war exactly 20 years ago, then sketched the background of the conflict and finally the formulation of the peace treaty.

In speaking of the treaty of Versailles he said "Never was a nation so dismembered. We, there in 1918, set the tables for another war."

He said the allies were as concerned about bringing about permanent peace as any nations could be but used the wrong method. They made Germany economically bound and "Hitler was born at the peace table in 1918."

Mr. Lawrence also spoke of the present war in Spain and said "Never has there been a Civil war fought with the savagery and cruelty of that in Spain now. . . . Whoever wins, the loyalists or be it rebels, for 25 years Spain will be a sore spot on the face of Europe. Nothing can change that condition."

The editor also pointed to Italy and England as potential powder cans. He stated that the whole program is economic and that the next war would spring from economic conditions. He closed with the thought that there is a place for the spiritual side of life and it has shown itself more brightly during the past few years. He urged that America "Stay at home."

Mrs. E. H. Wescott led the closing hymn.

Retiring Head of Agricultural Department Feels That His Record Will Stand.

Lincoln, April 6.—State Secretary of Agriculture W. B. Banning, whose two-year term ends May 25, declared today "I have nothing to apologize for in my administration and I believe that my record will show a lower percentage of loss than any preceding two years in the history of this office."

Governor R. L. Cochran announced Saturday Banning would be replaced at the end of his term by Louis Buehholz of Barada.

Banning's statement today wrote a new chapter in the current "battle of words" he is waging with Kenneth Wherry of Pawnee City, attorney for Fred Nofsger of Humboldt, defendant in a suit to collect delinquent gasoline taxes.

Wherry charged Monday more than $500,000 of unpaid gasoline taxes became delinquent since Banning took office.

Banning said today "there is always a gasoline delinquency but it doesn't run anywhere near the amount of $60,000." He accused Wherry "of trying to befog the issue."
