

Legislature Pays Tribute to Judge Kieck

Resolution Introduced by Carsten, Armstrong, Dafeo, Johnson and Norton.

Resolution
"Our whitest pearl we never find;
Our ripest fruit we never reach;
The flowering moments of the mind
Drop half their petals in our speech."

Judge William G. Kieck, Plattsmouth, Nebraska, Judge of the District Court for the second judicial district of Nebraska, died suddenly on Tuesday, March 30, 1937, at forty-five years of age. On the threshold of what promised to be a brilliant and useful judicial career, truly it may be said that he never reached the ripest fruits of his work as a jurist. But perhaps, the Judge's friends can find solace in the thought that "All farewells should be sudden, when forever"; and "A sorrow's crown of sorrow is remembering happier things."

Born in Omaha in 1892, William G. Kieck moved with his parents to Springfield, Nebraska, in 1894. He was graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1914, after which he taught in the Springfield and Imperial high schools. In 1917 he was commissioned a Lieutenant of Infantry at Fort Snelling, Minnesota, but his overseas service in 1918 and 1919 was with the Aviation Corps. Returning in 1919, he was elected, while attending Creighton University at Omaha, a delegate from Sarpy County to the state Constitutional Convention, the youngest delegate to be chosen. He received his LL.B. degree from Creighton in 1921 and engaged in the private practice of law at Plattsmouth until elected Cass County attorney in 1924. He served in that post until his election as District Judge last November. He was married and leaves a widow, two children, his parents and two brothers to mourn his loss.

This Legislature pauses to record the death of one who devoted the short years of his life to the study, improvement and administration of the law and while we so pause in our deliberation this morning, we cherish the thought that it was that experience of serving in the capacity of legislator in the Nebraska Constitutional Convention of 1929 during those impressionable and formative years of his life which gave him a clearer insight into the philosophy of the law which must always seek adaptation to our ever changing civilization.

Life for Judge Kieck was full to the brim. In turn teacher, soldier of the World War, legislator, lawyer, county attorney and District Judge, all crowded into a little more than two score years. His life worthily spent was measured by deeds, not years.

Now therefore be it resolved by the Nebraska State Legislature in fifty-second regular session assembled:

1. That the life of William G. Kieck be such that a permanent record of his qualities as a man, citizen, legislator, lawyer and District Judge should be preserved as a part of the records of the history of this state.

2. That the clerk of this Legislature be directed forthwith to forward a copy of this resolution, properly authenticated and suitably engrossed, after the same shall have been spread at large upon the Legislative Journal, to the widow of the deceased as a mark of our affection for him and our appreciation of the work he did, so that his widow, children and family may always know that he has left to them a name and reputation written high on the scrolls of Nebraska public service.

The rules were suspended and the resolution adopted unanimously.
