

Weeping Water

Louis Bauer of Manley was looking after business matters in Weeping Water last Tuesday.

The Binger Lumber company has added a radio line to the numerous household specialties they carry.

Mrs. Leo Rikli of Murdock and Miss Pauline Stockwell of Kansas City, Mo., were visiting friends in Weeping Water Tuesday.

Frank Farnham and Otto Uhling, residents of the Nebraska Masonic home at Plattsmouth, visited relatives and friends in Weeping Water Tuesday.

A new pump has been installed at the Standard Oil station that is just about the last word in gasoline dispensing equipment. The old pump has been painted to correspond with the new one.

Mrs. Mathilda Marshall entertained at her home in Weeping Water the members of the Foursome to which she belongs. After a most pleasant session at bridge, a delicious luncheon was served.

Mrs. Hobart Blake of Murray and the family of Lester Christian of Elmwood have been in Weeping Water assisting with the care of the father, Thomas Christian, who is seriously ill following a third stroke which he suffered last Monday evening.

Earl Oldham made two trips to Omaha in one day this week, taking up a load of produce in the morning, while in the afternoon he took up a load of stock. His wife looked after business at the produce station during his absence.

Visited in Plattsmouth.
Postmaster Sterling Amick, Elmont Preston and Fred Wechem composed a committee of rustlers for the Fourth of July celebration to be held Saturday, who went to Plattsmouth to distribute advertising matter for the big event, which is being sponsored jointly by the Legion and the volunteer firemen.

Visited Here Sunday.
Guy Buchanan and family, who reside south of Nehawka, were in Weeping Water last Sunday, where they were guests for the day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Askew, parents of Mrs. Buchanan.

Wheat Harvest General Here.
The wheat harvest is becoming general in and about Weeping Water and all over the county for that matter. The grain is looking very fair, although it has been damaged some by rust, which will reduce both the yield and the quality.

Mr. Sprague Doing Better.
S. C. Sprague, who was so seriously injured last Saturday when the team with which he was plowing became frightened and ran away, is improving as well as could be expected according to reports from St. Mary's hospital at Nebraska City, where he was taken after the accident.

In the mixup, Mr. Sprague had one leg broken and the other badly lacerated by the plow shovels, with dirt being ground into the wounds as he was dragged along before being able to extricate himself.

Cousin Killed in West.
Gardner White, of California, son of W. L. White, of York, and a cousin of Mrs. Dr. Truck of Weeping Water, suffered serious injuries in an auto wreck in the west last Friday, from which he died a few hours later. Funeral and burial were held out there.

Besides his parents in York, Mr. White is survived by his wife and two daughters, all living in California, as well as several more distant relatives.

Attended Picnic at Crete.
Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Michelsen and the family of Weeping Water, and Carl Anderson and wife, of Louisville, the latter a daughter of the Michelsens, went to Crete Sunday, where they joined a group of friends in a picnic at Horkey's Park, one of the leading picnic places along the Blue river.

Visited Father Here

Don G. Weichart, who has been making his home in Great Falls, Montana, concluded his stay there and arranged to go to Kansas City to engage in business. He made the trip by plane, stopping off at Omaha en route, and drove down from there to visit his father, John Weichart, a day or so before going on to his destination.

Busy as Bees Now

With the harvest now under way, Billie Ash and Walter Lovel are putting their threshing machines in good condition to handle the work. While the wheat yield will not be as good per acre as last year, the acreage is considerably larger and the straw very heavy, making, in all probability a greater amount of threshing to be done, unless the combines take away enough to more than make up for the added acreage. There have been a large number of combines sold in Cass county this year.

Home from Vacation

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Shields arrived home last Friday from a three weeks' vacation trip through Indiana. They traveled the new modern gipsy fashion, with a trailer house attached to their car, in which they lived during much of the time they were gone. While visiting relatives at certain points in the Hoosier state, they confined their time to the trailer home to sleeping there nights and preparing their breakfasts there early in the morning before their hosts were accustomed to get up, while they ate their other meals with the folks.

Speaking of the crops in that part of the country, Mr. Shields says in Indiana corn and small grain are about the same as in Nebraska. In Illinois the crops appear much better than here and in Iowa about midway between Illinois and Nebraska in contemplated yield and quality.

Here from Dakota

Mrs. Ernest Purdy and the children, accompanied by A. R. Birdsall, father of Mrs. Purdy, arrived in Weeping Water last Friday, for a visit with Mrs. Purdy's sister, Mrs. McCarty. They will return to Gordon, Nebr., where they all reside, the latter part of the week.

Not Feeling the Best

Clinton Wilkinson, who operates the notions and news store, assisted by his wife and son, has been in poor health of late, having had considerable trouble with his stomach. He is considerably better now and able to be up and about the house, but not so as to come down town. His friends hope he will soon be able to be back on the job.

Thomas Christian Very Sick

Thomas Christian suffered a third stroke Monday evening of this week at his home here, where he has been ill for some time. The first stroke came upon his several months ago, followed by a second a few weeks later. He was then taken to the University hospital in Omaha and remained there a short time for treatment, but was advised he might as well return home, as no cure could be effected and he would be as well off at home as anywhere. This third attack has left him in very serious condition.

DEATH OF BABE

Sunday the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Lewis, passed away at the family home on South 6th street. The little one who had lived but a few brief hours, was taken to Tekamah where the interment and services were to be held. The Horton funeral home had charge of the services.

J. H. McMaken Given Contract for Sewer Inlets

Work to Be Started at Once—City Votes to Cancel Compensation Found Unsatisfactory.

From Tuesday's Daily—The city council moved rapidly in the matter of securing larger inlets to the box sewers on Sixth street from Vine to Pearl, meeting last week to authorize the project, and last night let the contract for the work was awarded to J. H. McMaken.

There were three bids made, that of Mr. McMaken for $211.90; Everett Pickens for $495; and Kief & Son for $246.86. These bids were opened and read by City Clerk Olson and submitted to the committee composed of E. A. Webb, W. H. Puls, William C. Tippens, councilmen, and E. J. Weyrich, consultant. The bid of Mr. McMaken being the lowest he was awarded the contract. The selection of W. C. Tippens as inspector of the work was also made and the other members of the committee and Mr. Weyrich to co-operate.

Smoke and Tourist Cabins.
A communication was received signed by the residents of the Coronado apartment house, protesting the smoke from the Plattsmouth Steam laundry and asking that the owner be required to place a higher stack on the chimney to avoid the smoke getting into the dwelling places of the petitioners. City Attorney Davis stated that the smoke was a very great nuisance at times and especially when the residents had their washings out in the court just north of the laundry building. The matter was referred by Mayor Lushinsky to the claims and planning committee and the chief of the fire department, to get in touch with the owner of the laundry and try and secure a new stack from fifteen to twenty feet higher. This committee is composed of Councilmen Hall, Vincent and Brittain.

A communication was received from the Modern Tourist Cottage Camp, to be located on Chicago avenue between Rock and Marble streets, Mr. C. D. Sullivan, the owner, asking permission to connect with the storm and sanitary sewer as well as to cut the curb for driveways, the petitioner posting bond for the performance of the obligation to the city. On motion of Webb, seconded by Rebal, the permission was granted.

A petition was received signed by the residents of block 57, city, in which it was asked that the alley in this block be closed, this being the block where the new tourist camp is located. That the ordinance be published without cost to the city. On motion of Webb, seconded by Rebal, the ordinance, No. 726 was passed and the alley ordered closed.

Committee Reports.
The report of Fire Chief Sandin showed one fire, that of the Golding building on Sunday, June 20, the value of the building $5,000, insurance $2,000, the value of the contents $7,000 and the insurance $3,000.

Police Judge Graves reported for the week ending June 14th, that there had been three arrests and fines and costs of $13.25 collected.

Councilman Rebal, chairman of the judiciary committee, reported that no recommendation had been received from the Ad club regarding the proposed bill prohibiting ordinance. On the suggestion of the mayor City Attorney Davis read the Green River, Wyoming, ordinance regarding peddlers and hawkers, which has been suggested as a model for the ordinance here. Councilman Rebal also reported that his committee had not had a meeting in regard to the proposed closing law for the beer taverns.

Councilman Webb reported on the recent property sales, that several more had been closed, that purchasers of vacant lots were arranging to erect homes with governmental home loans. He also reported that the prospects were that the properties would all be handled and disposed of to good owners. The councilman also stated that no homesteads had been sold for taxes where they were occupied by the lawful owners and only the cases where attempts were made to avoid or chisel on the taxes had the city taken action.

Chairman Tippens of the streets, alleys and bridges committee, reported that the workmen had been busy in trying to get the dirt roads back in shape after recent rains. The larger washouts were being handled as fast as possible to reach them. The chairman had interviewed the county commissioners and found that while they were willing to supply the material for the bridges washed out, that the city would have to have the work done.

Chairman Vincent of the license committee reported that the committee had conferred with the applicant for a miniature bowling alley permit, setting the license at $50 and no further communication had been received.

Chairman Schutz of the fire and water committee, reported that there had been complaints of the residents of the South Park territory not being able to secure an adequate water supply. Mayor Lushinsky stated that he would take the matter up with the management of the Plattsmouth Water Corporation.

The finance committee reported a resolution for the transfer of $225 from the general to the road fund to cover emergency work that had been forced to have done.

The Insurance Muddle

The council received a communication from Attorney A. L. Tidd as to the compensation claim of John Hatt, Jr., who was injured some time ago while serving as a member of the fire department. The communication stated that it had been understood that the company carrying the city compensation policy, had declined to pay owing to the fact that it was claimed that the injured man had not been confirmed as a member of the department by the city council. While the statute required confirmation, Mr. Tidd pointed out that the Turk-Summerville company had accepted premiums for policies covering the firemen over a period of years, that this action was in view of the opinion of the state supreme court, a waiver of the statutory provisions.

Mr. Summerville, representing the company was present and stated that a check was being made as to when and how the members of the department had been confirmed or whether this had been allowed to ride for the past years. If the firemen had not been certified, then the company was ready to refund the premiums that might have been made in the past, this under an Iowa decision in which the city of Creston was involved. In this case the court held that if the certification had not been made that the insurance company had no liability and therefore no right to collect the premiums. The insurance company was ready to make the refund of the premiums paid over.

Councilman Webb pointed out that Hatt had been certified to the county assessor as a member of the fire department, that he had served as an active member of the department. If the insurance company did not wish to make a fair settlement of the case, then the city should cancel the present policies. Mr. Webb also took up the matter of the police of the city and their protection and was informed by Mr. Summerville that under the compensation law they were not covered, but a special civil contract was made to protect the police and which had been attached to the Plattsmouth city policy.

Mr. Summerville stated that the

Cass County Farm Bureau Notes

Copy furnished from Office of County Agent Wainscott

Mothers Vacation Camp.

How would you like to participate in three days of mingling with other women who enjoy playing as you do, others who have the same problems to solve and associating with others who have much to offer in the way of inspiration and entertainment. Three days with no worries about meal planning and preparation, dish washing, dusting, cleaning and all of the many odd jobs that ordinarily keep one so occupied.

If this type of experience has an appeal, plan to attend Mothers Vacation camp at Camp Brewster, July 20-23 inclusive. This camp site is located on the wooded hills overlooking the Missouri river, south of Omaha, on the Bellevue road. The fee will be $4.50 and the campers are to bring their own bed linen. If you wish to attend please notify the Farm Bureau office.

4-H Club Camp.

Another interesting round of activities has been planned for 4-H members attending the 1937 district 4-H camp to be held at Brewster, one mile south of Omaha, July 25-28 inclusive. How nice it would be if all the girls and boys enrolled in 4-H clubs might attend this camp. What fun they will have playing with the other boys and girls as well as participating in handicraft periods, swimming and stunts. Other sports available will include tennis, volleyball, kitchball, ping pong, etc.

Camp activities will start at 4:00 p. m. Sunday with a swim for all, followed by lunch and an evening program. The first seventy-five Cass county members to make application will be the ones privileged to attend.

Application blanks and information have been sent to 4-H club leaders and club members should obtain blanks from them.

Eye for Horses.

Cass county farmers intending to feed newly-harvested rye to their horses were warned this week by W. W. Derrick, extension animal husbandman at the Nebraska college of agriculture, to take some precautions in feeding the grain.

Rye, Derrick says, is not especially palatable to horses and may cause digestive troubles if fed as the only grain or if a quick change is made from other feeds to rye. It is best used when fed as part of the daily grain allowance. Mixing with better liked feeds such as oats or other bulky concentrates is advisable.

In getting horses used to rye, the animal husbandman recommends adding only a small amount at first and gradually increasing it until the rye makes up a fourth to a third of the grain allowance. The rye kernel is small and hard and should be coarsely ground or crushed. Feeding rye as the only concentrate or over-feeding should be avoided at all times.

Home Economists Explain Causes of Jelly Failure.

Jelly making has an important place among June's kitchen activities. Fresh fruit is at hand, and with fruit prospects this summer unusually favorable there should be plenty available for jelly making. Berries, both wild and cultivated, have had unusually favorable conditions.

The jelly making technique is sufficiently exacting to put the best cook on her mettle and give her a glow of triumph when her product turns out just right. Something there is about a fine jelly that is peculiarly satisfying. Its clear brightness, its yield-inz firmness, its sweetness underlain with the characteristic flavor of the fruit from which it is concocted, make it highly pleasing to the eye and to the tongue.

Each lot of juice presents its own special jelly problems. The juice of one fruit differs from that of another. Moreover a given fruit of last year may not be quite the same as that of this year. And even this year's fruit may vary if grown under different conditions of weather and soil. There are still further variations because of differing stages of maturity. Too, a fruit juice made as soon as the fruit is picked will behave somewhat differently than if there has been a lapse of several days between the picking and the cooking. You can't blindly follow any procedure, but must meet each new lot of juice on its own ground.

In spite of these vagaries of fruit juices, three fundamental directions are: Work with small quantities at a time—not more than 6 quarts of berries or 8 pounds of such fruits as apples; carry through the jelly process promptly; and use a broad, flat bottomed pan for cooking the juice so as to cut cooking time to a minimum and conserve pectin and flavor.

State Ram Sale.

Cass county sheepmen were notified this week that a statewide ram sale is being planned for Lincoln on July 30. It is being sponsored by the Nebraska Registered Sheep Breeders Association. W. Marshall Ross, Gibbon, is president of the organization and Prof. M. A. Alexander of the college of agriculture is secretary.

Purchased, registered rams will be consigned to the sale and auctioned off. The event will provide a good place for buyers and sellers of purebred sheep to purchase good rams and dispose of registered surplus animals. Details are being handled by Professor Alexander.

Frosty Drinks for Summer Days.

What is summer without good frosts? But what's the use of good frosts if you get all hot and bothered making them? There are short-cuts for making good old favorites, and ideas for delicious new drinks—things you probably never thought of making at home before. To vary the flavor of the old stand-by, iced tea, garnish with sprigs of fresh mint, slices of orange, lemon or lime, or with cherries or strawberries.

Postum can be safely enjoyed by those who cannot drink coffee or tea; for Postum contains no stimulant of any kind. It is a cereal beverage made of roasted whole wheat and bran. Iced Postum made with milk is particularly delicious. You can drink all you want of it. Another advantage of Iced Postum is that you can prepare a quantity of it in the morning and store in the refrigerator for later use without its losing its mellow, satisfying flavor.

Chocolate may be utilized in many ways to flavor frosty summer drinks. Milk shakes, malted milk, and egg-nogs are particularly delicious with the flavor of chocolate. The following basic recipe may be used for cocoa syrup for iced drinks: 1 cup cocoa; 1 cup sugar; ¼ teaspoon salt; 1 cup cold water; 2 teaspoons vanilla. Combine cocoa, sugar, and salt in saucepan; add water slowly and place over low flame, stirring until smooth, then boil 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Add vanilla, turn into a jar, cover tightly and place in refrigerator. Use 2 tablespoons cocoa syrup to a cup of milk in making iced drinks. Makes 2 cups syrup.

The following recipe for frosted chocolate will aid you in your battle against the thermometer: For each serving, add 1 cup of chilled milk slowly to 2 tablespoons of chocolate syrup, stirring constantly. Then add about 3 tablespoons chocolate ice cream and beat or shake until ice cream and chocolate mixture are blended. Serve at once in tall glass.

Treat Tree Wounds.

Oozing out of cell sap from trees through wounds and split branches which has been noted locally is not a disease. It is a result of a break in the wood tissues.

Such was the essence of a report received from Clayton W. Watkins, senior extension forester at the Nebraska college of agriculture. He says the wound should be treated to prevent weakening of the trees. It has happened particularly on American Elms this year. The loss of the sap comes after branches have been partially broken loose by wind or from wounds resulting from improper pruning.

Here's how Forester Watkins recommends treating the wounds: "Cut out all saturated and discolored bark and wood tissue with a wood chisel or gouge from the top and sides of a union between the branch and trunk or from the entire wound in the case of a rotted spot in the main trunk of the tree. In the case of a broken union between large branches and the trunk of the trees, all discolored wood should be chiseled out over the top of the union and down the side far enough to permit good drainage.

"Make the edge of this notch uniform and smooth even though it requires the removal of some sound tissue. In case of a wound resulting from previous pruning, the area should be completely chiseled out down to sound wood bring both the bottom and top of the opening to an acute angled point. Next, weather proof the entire area where live wood has been exposed with an asphalt roof paint or a tar creosote compound. If the area is large, requiring considerable material, mix sawdust with the roof paint or tar.

"If there is danger of further splitting of the large branch from the main trunk after these corrective measures have been applied, tie this branch to the main trunk or to another branch on the opposite side of the trees by the use of eye bolts and heavy wire or cable placed far enough above the union to support the major part of any strain."

All such wounds, says Watkins, should be checked three or four times each season. Additional compound should be supplied if there are cracks or openings where insects or fungus can enter. Removal of all injured or diseased tissue to keep out moisture and allow the trees to heal the wound is the objective of the treatment.
