Labor Federation Has Plan to Halt Recession

Labor Group Would Check Recession by Increasing the Mass Buying Power of People.

By C. L. SULZBERGER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (UP)—The American Federation of Labor proposed to the administration today a six point program intended to halt the business recession by strengthening mass purchasing power.

The proposal closely parallels suggestions made by President Roosevelt to restore the nation's economic equilibrium. It seeks harmony between capital and labor and their cooperation with proposed federal stimuli to industry.

Mr. Roosevelt is accelerating efforts to aid business. He will send to congress a message outlining ways of stimulating the lagging construction industry and alleviating a shortage of homes.

He has ordered lieutenants to continue efforts toward an accord with private utilities and free a backlog of capital estimated at $2,600,000,000 (b). He has directed federal agencies to place orders for necessary materials as soon as possible to give industry a $245,000,000 shot in the arm through governmental purchases.

The president said yesterday that he would be glad to see congress revise taxes as soon as legislators desire, and worked toward a balanced budget by suggesting a reduction of federal highway expenses by approximately $120,000,000. A message to congress suggesting methods of accomplishing this will be dispatched Tuesday.

The A. F. of L. program was announced coincidentally with several of these developments. It suggested:

1. Maintenance of wages and employment at the highest possible level with firm determination to avoid wage cuts.

2. Raising of wages in any industry where sustained demand and profitable operations make it possible.

3. Stimulation of production and employment in heavy industries by encouraging plans for plant expansion and equipment purchases; Encouragement of building in all classifications. The federation recommended "special measures—to make credit available to business."

4. Improvement of labor's buying power by prompt payment of unemployment compensation when it begins in 22 states next January.

5. Action on "measures to promote business confidence."

6. Improvement of employer-employee relations through management recognition of unions, and union cooperation "to cut costs by improving efficiency."

The federation's plan to aid industrial recovery was the most extensive to date to originate in labor circles.

John L. Lewis, chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization, in a copyrighted interview with the publisher of the Washington Herald yesterday, said that he favored a broad scale housing program to be financed with social security reserves.

The proposed program of the A. F. of L. was announced coincidentally with a report from Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins that construction activity had slumped further in October.

Regarded as one of the best barometers of economic health, the industry slackened four per cent from September, as measured by permit valuations. And was five per cent under that of October, 1936.

Other significant statistics included the continued downward trend of revenue freight loadings and the maintenance of steel operations below 35 per cent of capacity.

But the A. F. of L. was optimistic about the general long-range outlook. It described the present business setback as temporary.

"This fall's unexpected recession in business activity," the federation said, "follows the longest production rise since 1929."

"The present decline appears to be a temporary check in our progress toward larger production volumes and higher standards of living, while business waits for accumulated supplies to be bought off.

"Whether it will be of long duration depends to a very important degree on our ability to maintain buying power close to its present levels, so that inventories of clothing and household supplies may be quickly consumed and a strong market provided for durable consumer goods such as homes and automobiles."

The analysis categorized consumer buying power in three groups which it estimated would have the following values for 1937: (1) wages and salaries—$47,000,000,000; (2) investors' income—$11,000,000,000; (3) profits of businessmen and farmers—$12,000,000,000.

MUST KEEP WITHIN BUDGET

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (UP)—President Roosevelt today advised Senate Majority Leader Albin W. Barkley, D. Ky., that expenditures for the new farm program must be kept within $500,000,000, or new revenues provided for additional amounts needed.

The president in a letter to Barkley said that the $500,000,000 now allocated to the agriculture program is the only amount available in the budget structure for farm purposes.

In his statement that farm bill expenditures must be kept within $500,000,000, the president quoted from senate debate on the measure in which the majority leader and Chairman Ellison Smith, D. S. C., of the agriculture committee agreed that $625,000,000 was available to finance the program.

"I assume that the contingent sum of $125,000,000 referred to by this," said Mr. Roosevelt, "is the appropriation of an amount equal to 30 per cent of the gross receipts from customs, duties collected during the preceding calendar year, for the purpose of encouraging exports and domestic consumption of agricultural commodities by section 32 of the act of August 24, 1935, amending the agricultural adjustment act."

OWNER OF FLAT SEEKS RENTERS WITH CHILDREN

BERKELEY, CALIF., Nov. 27 (UP)—Otis R. Marston, apartment house owner here, reversed the usual order of things when he advertised for tenants with children.

A sign hanging before a brand new apartment house building here said: "For Rent. Children Preferred."

Marston, a property owner for more than 20 years, revealed that he had finally convinced himself that it is more profitable to rent an apartment, flat or home to a family with children.

"It's taken me a long time to realize that children aren't half so destructive as adults, but now I know it's true."

He explained: "In my experience, all the children have ever done was scuff a little paint or plaster off a wall. Adults have cost me a small fortune in one item alone, and that's replacing sink boards they ruined by jabs with ice picks."

Marston added that he might reserve the new building for families with children.

TO HOLD HEARING

LINCOLN, Nov. 27 (UP)—First rate hearings to be conducted under the new truck regulatory act will be held here December 3 when the state railway commission will consider rate schedules for the hauling of petroleum products by truck.

The proposed rate tariff brought up by the commission is based on shipments from Superior to other points in the state. Superior is the only Nebraska point of origin of gasoline and other fuels from the new oil fields.

Commissioner F. A. Good said the commission's proposed rate schedule adheres closely to the schedule prepared by C. M. Sutherland of the Nebraska petroleum marketers incorporated which is based generally on 92 per cent of railroad freight rates.

The rate schedule is on a gallonage basis rather than the hundredweight. The commission said rate hearings on other products handled by truckers will follow.

Border Watch Pinches Flow of Marihuana

United States Customs Agents Extend Sentry Line Into Vast, Barren Area.

NOGALES, ARIZ. (UP)—U. S. customs agents along the Mexican boundary, veterans in wars against international smuggling rings, are waging a battle to halt the flow of marihuana from its native Mexico into this country.

The federal battle lines are moving southward into the tiny villages of the vast, barren northern Mexico country, where the dread "giggle weed" is cultivated and grows wild.

Agents consider their current fight for eradication of the weed a gigantic task, despite the fact that they are fighting "small fry" smugglers instead of "big time" racketeers.

Veterans of wild border forays against gold, ammunition and smuggling rings, these officers, declare their task difficult because of elusive tactics of the narcotics peddlers.

Law Effective in August

The agents' first capture under the new anti-marihuana law of congress, approved by President Roosevelt last August, occurred when they nabbed a cheaply dressed peddler with several marihuana cigarettes in his possession. He was turned over to federal narcotics officers in Phoenix, Ariz.

A few border officers say their job is easy because the marihuana peddlers are petty agents seeking a little "easy money." Their crime is not of sufficient import to force them to shoot their way out of traps.

A recent survey along the international boundary showed the average price of the "weed" cigarettes is about two for 25 cents on the American side. Across the line, in the squalor of Mexican Pueblos and towns, the same cigarettes sell for 10 centavos, or about 3 cents.

Agents have learned the widely sprouting weed generally is cultivated in corn fields where it can be concealed from casual observers by large stalks.

Prohibited in 46 States

Before congress' enactment of the present anti-marihuana law, federal agents on the border turned over peddlers to state authorities because federal statutes had no specific law prohibiting marihuana. Arizona and 45 other states have laws against it.

The agents, during those times were lax in their efforts to curb the ever-increasing flow of marihuana from Mexico to the states.

The nation's medical law-enforcement agencies, on finding many major crimes attributable directly to use of these cigarettes, started agitation several years ago for federal legislation. The Harrison narcotic act was passed in 1914, even when use of marihuana appeared limited to only a few Mexicans in the southwest.

Children Took Up Vice

Soon, however, the authorities learned that marihuana cigarettes were being smoked by school children and college students.

H. J. Anslinger, U. S. commissioner of narcotics, helped lead the fight for stamping out the vice.

The Mexican government has been fighting the use of marihuana for several years. President Lazaro Cardenas, in a decree several years ago, prohibited the sale of cheap liquor and marihuana in an effort to elevate the lower classes.

Most marihuana, border agents report, is grown on the west coast of Mexico in the states of Sonora, Jalisco, Sinaloa and Nayarit.
