Makes Trip Out State.

George A. Sties, the elevator man, received an order for corn to go to Clay Center and took it out last Monday morning, and going rather early was accompanied by the rain last Monday which while a very nice shower, got heavier as he went west and at Eagle he found the storm very heavy, but even more so after arriving at Lincoln and out in Saline and Clay county almost amounted to a cloudburst with the water standing in the fields. The people out that way were pleased as they have had a minimum of moisture in recent years.

Interested in Apple Growing.

The pretty apple blossoms which adorn the trees covering the hills where W. B. MUSIC AND LIVING

One need but reflect a moment to realize the truly natural and important part music plays in our lives. Consciously or unconsciously each of us contribute our share toward appreciation of music at some time in our life.

Sweet music to the ear of every parent is their baby's first coo and gurgle. The mother's hummed, sung or even whistled lullaby is every baby's comfort and a mother's pleasure. The tiny child hums at its play, imparting contentment and happiness to the mother. A hymn or a game song may be the child's first musical rhythmic effort but how earnest and sweet.

No child need be deprived of the pleasure of music, even though he may not be fortunate enough to be trained in the art of making music, he can easily be trained to appreciate the beauty of music so easily accessible about us.

Our churches, our schools and our homes abound in an opportunity for every individual to share in the enjoyment of an art that will inspire, console, cheer and satisfy the desire of any person in any language.

it. The materials for the construction are being purchased locally. No pains or expense is being spared to make this building the last word in excellence. When this building is completed it is hinted that two other buildings will be constructed, one for the telephone company and another occupant is ready for the fourth building. This speaks well for Weeping Water who is again getting back on her feet. It looks as if the business section of Weeping Water will be better than before the devastating fire.

MUSIC

Music hath charm to soothe the heart How truthfully hath been spoken, And it brings "Content," "Joy," "Peace-serene," To a heart that is sadly broken.

It takes you back to your childhood days To scenes you have left behind you, Just one sweet chord of a lilted song Of your care-free youth,—remind you.

It brings the "Good" in your calisthenic soul To the surface to radiate joy, All your evil thoughts and intentions One melody will destroy. And when it seems in the "Battle of Life" Your struggles have been in vain, The zest to "fight" is restored to you, By the notes of a sweet refrain. —Charles Franklin.
