

Interview with Globe Trotter- Frontiersman

Capt. Jack Lloyd Relates Thrilling Story—Now on His Way to the West Coast.

Captain Jack Lloyd, 69 year old soldier of fortune adventurer, veteran of many wars and revolutions, international headline hunter, who is hailed the world over as "Burning Daylight" was a visitor in Plattsmouth over Monday night. While in the city the veteran called on the editorial staff of the Journal, giving us the highlights of his colorful life, then showed us his more than a thousand clippings gleaned from the leading papers of the country, then announced that he was heading for the "west coast" where he hopes to spend the summer months before returning to Florida where he has spent his winters for the past 20 years.

Captain Lloyd arriving here Sunday paid a visit to the Flower Show and was delighted with the beauty and charm that he found there. He was given a trip over the city and states that from a natural beauty and the wonderful views from the hills, that this section has it on all communities that he visited on his way north.

According to Lloyd, booms the world over have been his "meat" and he tells you that he has never missed a good boom in any section of the world for the past 55 years. He adds that while chasing the cry of new oil, gold, silver and diamond fields, he has visited in 57 countries and has written copy for more than 6000 newspapers. In America the Captain is still pounding out copy, and is considered front page "copy" whenever he hits the metropolitan centers.

In Diamond Rush
When the "little bits of glass" were found on the Vedits of the Kimberly he was one of the first Americans that made the rush to the South African section of the world, then he tells you that after getting a few rocks, he returned to America, where he wrote many interesting articles about the world's greatest diamond rush.

It was during the days of the great rush to the Alaskan country when the cry of gold was heard round the world from the Yukon and Klondyke that he broke into the limelight, for it was after his colorful life there that the late Jack London wrote the famous story of Burning Daylight, a story of the north country that will never be forgotten as long as a sordough lives to tell the daring deeds and adventures of Daylight.

Recalls Old West
All of the greatest gold and silver camps of the "Old West" knew Lloyd, and he recalls the best of them as he keeps telling you his yarn. In Montana he was at Butte when the Million Dollar Hill was at its height. In Idaho he made the Couer d'Alene rush, down in Colorado he was at Cripple Creek, Leadville, Victor, Colorado City, Silverton, Boulder, Longmont Ouray and many of the smaller camps of that famous mineral state. Over in Nevada he tells you of the days that he spent in and around Goldfield, Carson City, Tonopah, Ely, Death Valley and many other hectic camps. In Arizona he was at Tombstone, then adds that he took in several more camps in the rest of the western states that never "made page one."

Starting out in the West he tells you that he first remembers being in Dodge City, Kansas, when the slogan of the day was... "No Sunday west of Kansas City. No law west of Fort Smith and Hell west of Dodge City."

Is Wide Traveler
He knew and met the best of the old western characters, and he recalls a few of them for us here. He hobnobbed with Tex Rickard, Jack London, Rex Beach, Wild Bill Hickok, Calamity Jane, Poker Alice, The Virgin, Doc McCall, Captain Bill McDonald, Tom Mix, Will Rogers, and many others.

Like all good soldiers of fortune, he did his hitch in the French Foreign Legion, knows what it means to be sent to the Last outpost. Down below the Rio Grande he was with Pancho Villa for 3 years; in Nicaragua he was with Sandino; in Cuba he was fighting for McCado; over in China he did a bit for Wing Fu Chau; in Russia he joined the Legion of death; in South Africa he fought with Lord Robinson in the Boer war; when "Teddy" organized his Rough Riders he joined that outfit. In the World war he was with the British Intelligence Department, then adds that he served in so many small affairs that he can't remember them all at once.

Nebraska Is Bright Spot
The veteran has been in a dozen states since leaving Florida, and he tells you that since he entered the state at Omaha that he has noticed a vast difference in the conditions. He found the stores crowded in many towns, farmers are active, farm machinery is moving, and he adds that in most of the sections that he has traveled through the small grain is really in fine shape. Many of the farmers tell him that in some places the stand at this time is better than it has been since back in 1914. The conditions in the industrial centers are not good, says the Captain, and he also points out the fact that the greatest point of interest he sees, is that there are very few idle men on the streets in any of the Nebraska towns that he has visited.

While in Iowa the veteran appeared over the Henry Field radio station in Shenandoah. Regarding our own little city, he told us that the activity was more than he had seen in towns down in the deep south several times larger, then as he closed his interview, said that he had never visited so many modern metropolitan small town newspaper offices as he had visited here in the famous "white spot."

APPEALS FOR FUNDS FOR CHINA
Word received May 23 by Cass county chairman American Red Cross from National Chairman Norman H. Davis appealing to the 3700 chapters for contribution to the Red Cross in China.

The following resolution, unanimously adopted at the recent national convention in San Francisco placing a responsibility on us all:
"Whereas our chairman has brought most vividly to the chapter delegates assembled at the 1933 convention of the American Red Cross the indescribable suffering of millions of civilians in China who, thru no fault of their own have been deprived of their homes, are threatened with starvation, and are suffering from disease; and

"Whereas, the president of the United States last January made public appeal for a fund of at least $1,000,000 for relief of these sufferers, and the American Red Cross has been requested to receive and transmit to China all subscriptions to this fund; and

"Whereas, only $170,000 has been received from the public for this purpose to which the American Red Cross has appropriated $200,000 from the national treasury, now therefore "Be it resolved that the convention fervently express the hope that all Red Cross chapters will urgently obtain further contributions for the relief and suffering people of China. "Be it further resolved that the delegates hereby pledge themselves to do their utmost to accomplish this result before June 15, 1933."

NORMAN H. THOMAS,
Chairman.

The Cass county quota is $40. If all communities will help it will not be a burden on any one.
China is at most a poor country and a dollar of American money will go far in China. The Chinese have and are doing all they can for their own people. In Shanghai alone, a total of $1,428,000 has been raised for the Red Cross relief up to March 26.

One million dollars is the goal set for sending as soon as possible. This money will be distributed to existing agencies functioning on the scene by a committee of American business men appointed by Nelson T. Johnson, American ambassador to China. The money will be used for food, milk, medicine, hospital supplies and bedding and shelter because of the rain and cold. Because of lower living costs in China, $1.00 will feed, clothe and house one refugee for a month.

Forty dollars is a small amount for the 16 towns and rural communities which make up the Cass county chapter, to contribute. Give a dime if no more. I appeal to you to help relieve such suffering.

Give your offering to your own local Red Cross representative who will forward it to the chapter treasurer, Mr. Henry A. Tool at Murdock, Nebraska.

C. AUGUSTA ROBB,
Chairman Cass County Chapter, A.R.C.
