Chamber of Commerce Circulating Petitions. In Nebraska City the Chamber of Commerce has sponsored the circulation of petitions to call an election to vote bonds for the erection of an auditorium under PWA sponsorship and partial grant.

President Thompson (who operates Credit Bureaus in Nebraska City and Plattsmouth) says the fact that the C. of C. is having the petitions circulated does not mean that all or even a majority of the members are in favor of a bond issue, but there has been much clamor for a project that will provide work and the C. of C. attitude is to let the voters decide for themselves at the polls what they want.

That is what the Journal has on several occasions called to the attention of our readers. The only way any sizeable amount of money can be made available for PWA projects is through a vote of the people.

To bring about such a vote, the council could lawfully call an election on its own initiative, but will probably not do so unless the demand therefor, as expressed on petitions, warrants.

The holding of an election costs a considerable amount of money, but in cases where the election carries, the government's 45 per cent out-right grant also applies to money spent on the election, together with other preliminary costs incurred in the presentation of applications for grants.

Since the deadline time for filing applications is now little more than a month off (September 30) it behooves those towns desiring to get a portion of the free money being put out under the 45-55 ratio to speak up promptly, or forever hold their peace.

The Journal has faith in the abiding good judgment of Plattsmouth citizens to do what they as a whole deem best for the city, and like the majority of the councilmen and the mayor expects to assume no part in favoring or opposing a bond issue—should one be proposed.

Our interest, and that of city officials, should be centered wholly in seeing that the voters are given authentic and truthful information—without camouflaging the issue.

Then, if the people want proposed improvements and are willing to stand their 55 per cent of the cost, their votes in the ballot box will so indicate.
