CLOTHES DEFINE NUDISTS' CASTE

SANTA CRUZ, Cal. (UP)—A caste system for nudists has been introduced into the Elysium colony near Holy City, according to Arch McDowell, its manager.

The system, McDowell avers, has one great advantage over all other caste systems in the world. A person who starts in one caste is not condemned to remain there for life.

The topography of the Elysium colony does much to make this possible. In the center is a hill with an altitude of 1,128 feet. It is here that the system approaches its highest form—that of complete nudity.

The hill has been divided into a series of horizontal barriers or zones. At the base nudists can wear all the clothes they want. Then, if they wish, they can pass on up into the higher zone by shedding a few clothes.

However, those who attain the highest caste (and altitude) of nudity may descend only by putting on their clothes.

The great advantage of the system, McDowell explains, is that it keeps those who are not confirmed nudists separated from those who are.

Feed Conserva-tion Urged for Nebraska Farms

Feed Crop Conservation Asked to Build Up Greater Livestock Units on the Farms.

Proper conservation of feed crops is of utmost importance on Nebraska farms in view of the present crop conditions, declared L. A. White, state farm security administration director. He pointed out that rehabilitation loans made by the FSA have been based on farm plans emphasizing a definite trend toward greater livestock and livestock product enterprises as stabilizers of farm income and away from too much dependence on cash crops.

"The value of such farm diversification is more apparent than ever at this time," White said. "It is imperative that all available feed be conserved just now to insure the development of an adequate livestock subsistence unit on every farm. Subsistence and foundation livestock units must be re-established on every Nebraska farm if the farmers are going to be able to meet their present obligations and build for future security."

The bulk of repayments on FSA rehabilitation loans are originating from farmers who have followed diversified farming practices, White stated. He added that as a general thing the farmer with a good feed crop and some livestock to feed it is to be ahead of the farmer who depended on a cash grain crop this year.

Trench silos, White said, are being stressed by the farm security administration staff in all sections of the state as a method by which the present available feed crop can be preserved.

STUDY SEA COLORATION

LA JOLLA, Cal. (UP)—"Red water" which has appeared in the Pacific ocean off points 2,000 miles apart during the past months, has started scientists of the University of California's Scripps Institution of Oceanography on a study of the phenomenon.

The coloration is known to be caused by the presence of vast masses of marine microscopic organisms, called diatoms, but there still is much to be learned about the cause and nature of red water.

Early last June Dr. W. E. Allen of the institution found a particular manifestation of his phenomenon—the water was so red it seemed the color of blood and became so dense that it interfered with fishing activities near the Coronado Islands. It was estimated that the area of "red water" was 25 or 30 miles long by 10 miles wide.

The phenomenon, it was determined, was caused by the same form of marine life which was responsible for wholesale destruction of inshore animal life along the Southern California coast in 1901. Earlier in May, a similar manifestation was noted off Seaside, Washington, north of the Columbia river. Here the coloration was attributed to a Plankton diatom which had been previously noted in northern waters but never before in such abundance.

Another type of diatom was responsible for a similar coloration off Copalis Beach, north of Gray's Harbor, Oregon, the previous day. It extended some distance out to sea.
