Death of J. H. McMaken, Long Time Resident

Passing of Man Who Had a Very Active Part in Community Life Occurs Saturday Night.

Joseph H. McMaken, 71, a lifetime resident of Plattsmouth and Cass county, a community leader down through many years, died Saturday evening at his home in the north part of the city after a lingering illness that has covered a number of weeks and followed two years of failing health.

Joseph H. McMaken, some of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. McMaken, was born in Cass county on December 11, 1867, where he has lived out his life as a useful citizen and a man whose every thought was for the upbuilding of the community.

From his early boyhood days Mr. McMaken has been a tireless worker and no task was too severe to undertake if he felt that it was necessary to be done. This he demonstrated in the years that he was associated with his father and later when he operated a general contracting business as well as draying and trucking lines.

Reaching manhood's estate he was married in November, 1891, at Plattsmouth to Miss Emma Busche, who survives his passing, as well as four sons and one daughter, Henry C., and Fred McMaken of Omaha; Rae and Joseph G. McMaken of this city and Mrs. Gladys Taylor of Wyoming. There is also to mourn his death one brother and two sisters, Edward McMaken and Mrs. Walter Scott of Sheridan, Wyoming and Mrs. Eva Reese of Hugo, Colorado. There are also a large number of grandchildren to share the sorrow of the passing of this good man.

Mr. McMaken will long be remembered by those who had the privilege of knowing him best, of realizing the great sympathy that he held for his fellow man and his many contributions made for the comfort or aid of others, carried out in his quiet and unassuming way.

To the community in which he had lived he was an untiring worker and actively identified as long as his physical condition would permit with the Chamber of Commerce and other civic bodies. He was also a member of the Plattsmouth city council for several terms and to the last maintained a keen interest in the business of the city government.

Funeral services for Joseph H. McMaken were held at the Sattler funeral home at Fourth and Vine streets, very largely attended by the old time friends and associates of Mr. McMaken in this city as well as many from Omaha.

Rev. J. C. Lawson, pastor of the First Methodist church, conducted the services and paid tribute to the long and useful life of Mr. McMaken in the community.

During the services Mrs. E. H. Wescott gave two numbers, "Sun of My Soul" and "Nearer My God to Thee," with Mr. Wescott as the accompanist for the numbers.

At the conclusion of the service the body was borne to the Oak Hill cemetery where it was laid to the last rest, the pall bearers being selected from the old time friends and neighbors and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, S. S. Davis, Fred I. Rea, C. C. Wescott, County Treasurer John E. Turner, William C. Tippens and William I. Howland.

Boy Scout School Patrols
Boy Scout patrols will be set up, clothed with plenty of authority to handle traffic situations. They will wear white police belts, similar to those worn by Scout patrols in Omaha and other cities and will carry hand "Stop" and "Go" signals to halt motor traffic at the intersections they patrol while the students make a safe crossing.

The boys (many of whom are assisting in patrolling side streets during the Korn Carnival this week) were given explicit instructions on their duties by Chief Barclay, Supt. Devoe, Scoutmaster Larson and Scout Committeeman E. H. Wescott, who resides in the vicinity of the school grounds and has observed many narrow escapes among children who cut across the street in the path of autos passing up and down High school hill.

Least cautious of all the groups, it was said, are the High school students, themselves, who should set the example for younger pupils, instead of taking the reckless chances they frequently do.

Throughout the school system this week, discussion is being engaged in by the teachers and pupils looking toward a more orderly exit from the school grounds.

Next Tuesday, after they have received further instructions, the first Boy Scout patrol will begin operation, and, it is expected, continue throughout the school year. Boys serving on this patrol will be rotated from week to week and dismissed from school a few minutes in advance of the regular group, so they can reach their respective intersections ahead of the student body.

Their efforts the first few days will be applied in front of the school grounds, advising pupils not to cross the street between intersections. As soon as pupils have been given a few days in which to break themselves of this dangerous habit, the rule against "jay-walking" will be rigidly enforced.

Then, the Scout patrol can devote its entire time to patrolling intersections, halting motorists while groups of students cross in safety, and likewise holding back students when cars have the right-of-way.

The whole program is inaugurated in the interest of safety and as such should receive the support and commendation of parents, teachers and student body, as well as motorists, whose first duty is to safeguard the lives of the hundreds of pupils who twice daily go to and from school.

Plattsmouth Boys to Start Tarkio Season

Armstrong, Porter and Falk Will Be in Starting Lineup Against Warrensburg Friday Night.

TARKIO, Mo., Sept. 21—Three former P. H. S. stars will be in the starting lineup for Tarkio Friday night when the Tarkio Owls meet the strong Warrensburg Mules in the opening game of the 1938 season. The game will be played at Tarkio before a Parent's Day crowd.

Kenneth "Toar" Armstrong, 242 pound tackle, is expected to have his greatest year in four seasons of play in the Missouri conference. Stuart Porter, his team-mate for three seasons at the other tackle, has been moved to the fullback position. Carrying 215 pounds, Porter is expected to clear the way for a trio of lighter Owl ball carriers. This will be his first attempt as an offensive back though he has backed up the line on defense for two seasons.

Wayne Falk, 170 pound sophomore, will take the place left vacant at guard by the graduation of George Adam. Falk has shown promise and will get the starting call Friday night.

Joe Case, sophomore back, has been hit by the injury jinx and is now nursing a bruised ankle. It is doubtful if he will be in shape to play Friday night but he hopes to be ready for the Simpson game next week.

Thursday of next week, the Owls will meet Simpson at Red Oak in the second game sponsored at Red Oak, Iowa, by the Chamber of Commerce.
