FIGHT DIFFICULT FIRE

The Plattsmouth fire department was called out late Monday afternoon to south Lincoln avenue where the residence of Mrs. James Edwards was reported on fire. After the department had been able to get their trucks through the traffic difficulties, it was found that the fire had originated in the basement of the structure.

The fire apparently had been caused by a battery charger and as the basement was filled with many empty boxes and papers it was difficult to handle, dense smoke making it hard for the firemen to combat the blaze. Large holes were knocked in the side of the brick basement and which permitted the firemen to get water playing on the fire and soon getting it under control and preventing it spreading over the entire house. The smoke damage will be quite heavy, but it is fortunate the building was not destroyed as the fire had a good start and only the hard work of the firemen prevented more damage.

Firemen Urge Motorists Keep Out of Fire Zone

Find Difficulty in Getting Trucks to Fires Because of Cars of Idle Sightseers.

The city council at their session last night heard a very strong protest made by representatives of the Plattsmouth fire department against the practice of many persons loading in cars at the sound of the fire siren, racing to the fires and in many cases getting in the way of the trucks and firemen hastening to the fires. Henry Jasper, assistant chief and acting head of the department, was at the meeting to discuss the matter of traffic at the Edwards fire Monday afternoon. The truck had been delayed by a great many cars that had gone on out and it was several minutes later than ordinary in reaching the scene, one car or truck cutting in front of the fire truck and making it necessary to stop. When they had reached the fire it was found to be hard to handle and the delay had made it more so by allowing the fire to spread. He urged that something be done to enforce the state law in regard to right of way of fire equipment. Several of the councilmen stated that the siren could be heard at long distance and no reason why the right of way could not be cleared.

On motion of Councilman J. P. Schütz, of the fire and water committee, a resolution was adopted asking motorists when hearing the approach of the fire trucks to drive over to the right of the road as far as possible, park and wait for the passing of the equipment, also not to park cars in the vicinity where a fire is in progress, but leave the way open for the firemen and lines of hose.

City Attorney J. Howard Davis read sections of the old traffic ordinance that provided that the fire equipment and department had full use of the street in time of fire, that traffic was required to draw to the right curb and remain inactive until after the passing of the equipment. The ordinance provided for a fine of not less than $1 or more than $50 for the violation of the ordinance and also the cost of the case. The ordinance will be enforced in the future if further cases of interfering with the firemen is reported.

Mayor Lushinsky reported that the board of health had been busy in trying to get the Monroe building fixed up, that the owner had agreed to make what changes needed, but getting the occupant out of the building was proving a real problem for the owner.

Mayor Lushinsky reported that the upper floor of the Petersen building was being placed in first class shape for apartments and was under supervision of Elmer Sundstrom of the Recreation Center. So far there had been no rentals.

Chairman Tippens of the streets, alleys and bridges committee, reported that street work was all well cared for but that the workers had been busy in removing leaves from tiles after they had been raked into waterways by those residing nearby or allowed to blow in and obstruct the sewers in cases of accident.

On motion of Councilman Webb the parks and improvement committee was authorized to go ahead and secure the repair of the floor in the lower part of the city hall where the firemen are to have a club room and meeting place soon.

Mayor Lushinsky explained that the Chicago avenue sewer project was approved and as soon as rock could be secured would be ready to start working on. It would require 4,000 yards of rock at six cents a foot for the chief material cost. The engineers had wanted to start the work at the north end of the project near Pearl street, but the mayor and most of the councilmen urged the start at the south end so that it would not interfere with the avenue near as much as otherwise. The sewer will extend from the present culvert at Chicago and Patterson avenues, on north to follow the present old creek and at Tenth street will meet the present opening of the sewer and the new branch then continued north to Pearl street; it will be a five foot sewer.

From Tuesday's Daily— Miss Ruth Ann Patton, deputy county treasurer, who has been enjoying a vacation trip in the east returned home last evening. Miss Patton has been visiting at Evans-ton and Chicago and later at Cincinnati, Ohio, where she enjoyed very much the great Ohio river city so rich in the history of that part of the nation, located on the border of the southland and where much of the atmosphere of the older days and river activities are found. While there she also visited across the Ohio in Kentucky at Newport and Covington, both interesting cities. Miss Patton reports that during her stay in Cincinnati there was quite a snow-fall and quite unusual at this season. The weather was quite chilly until she came into Iowa when the pleasant weather of the last few days proved most delightful.
