Cass County Woman's Prize Winning Kitchen

Mrs. Walter Farmer of Near South Bend Receives $200 Check from National Magazine

Because Mrs. Walter C. Farmer and her husband did most of the work themselves, the total cost of Mrs. Farmer's improved kitchen that won first prize of $200 in Successful Farming's prize-winning kitchen contest, was only $182.85.

The Farmers, whose address is RFD 1, Ashland, reside on a farm northwest of South Bend, which they purchased several years ago.

"It would be hard to measure the satisfaction and genuine joy my improved kitchen has brought to me," Mrs. Farmer wrote to the magazine that sponsored the contest.

Describing the changes made, she said: "One entered the old kitchen from a boarded-up shed-porch which hid most of the light. One small, long and narrow window greeted the visitor. To the right, poked off in the corner, stood the range with its black pipe running full length, diagonally across the room to the chimney on the opposite wall. The reservoir was in the corner, dark to see and hard to fill—from the windmill, with a bucket in your hand, it was up six steps and a turn or two to the corner. To the left of the window a sink (no running water—we did the running). In the east wall a small door led to a pantry—a very small pantry—from which doors swung open into the dining room. The floors, unpainted pine, had to be scrubbed every day. The walls, once a brilliant blue, were blackened with smoke and there were large areas where the plaster was missing and lath grinned thru. The woodwork was painted brown.

"Perhaps, because I was born and raised on the prairie and do not care for city life, I longed for vision—windows, plenty of them, for fresh air, light and view. We live on a hill from which we can see for miles. We have a beautiful picture of our state capitol against a sunset sky, 25 miles distant. We can see other towns, too, the trees, a river, and the trains as they leave their long threads of smoke on a frosty morning. Could you see any of this from our old kitchen? You wouldn't have known it existed!"

And from this inconvenient and unattractive kitchen, Mrs. Farmer goes on to tell the magazine readers how she and her husband drew the plan to change the room about, closing a door here, and putting a window in its place, providing built-in cabinets and cupboards and a double tub sink right in the center, under a double window, and surrounded by every sort of built-in convenience. When the work was completed (and they did practically everything except the plastering) it was redecorated and pictures taken and sent to the magazine. The project closed December 31 and the pictures and story of Mrs. Farmer's improved kitchen appear in the May issue of Successful Farming.

NOT TO BUY ANIMALS
Frank Cramer of the Plattsmouth Rendering Works, was at Omaha the first of the week to attend a meeting of the operators of rendering plants in this section of the state, some seventeen being represented. The members of the group attended the meeting held at 26th and L streets and where a program was outlined. While the members of the group had been engaged in close competition for the securing of the dead animals and prices had been high. It was decided, Mr. Cramer states that hereafter the plants will haul off the dead animals free of cost but will pay no price for the dead animals.

Viaduct Causing Many Changes.
Some houses have been moved back from the front of the lot and others are in process of being moved. This changes the topography of the town. The Joe Martis place has been moved, while a house which was purchased by Fountain Will is to be transferred to the lot he recently purchased. The new grade will come to the door of the old livery stable

Murray

W. G. Boedecker has purchased a new 1939 Buick four door sedan.
Mrs. W. O. Troop was a visitor in Plattsmouth the greater part of last week.

Dr. R. W. Tyson, wife and their little daughter were guests for the day last Sunday at the home of the mother of Dr. Tyson, Mrs. L. A. Tyson.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Nickles were in Omaha last Sunday visiting and Mr. Nickles went back to Omaha the following day to look after some business matters.

Joseph Martis, Sr., who has been conducting the service station at the old livery barn site, with the beginning of work on highway No. 1 moved his business to Plattsmouth.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Lewis were entertaining last Sunday and had as their guests Bud Fitch and wife of Union and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Merritt of Murray. All enjoyed a very fine visit and an excellent dinner.

Earl Merritt has accepted a contract to paint and decorate the home of the father of Mrs. Will Minford, W. W. Coble of Omaha and will get at the work as soon as he completes the work which he now has on hand.

George Wiles of Weeping Water and a grandson were in Murray last Monday morning looking after some business and while here Mr. Wiles was enjoying a very pleasant visit with his old time friend, Wm. Sporer.

J. D. Lewis, father of Mrs. Earl Merritt who makes his home with a son, Lloyd Lewis, over near the river with the son were visiting in Murray at the home of his daughter and calling to see his physician, Dr. R. W. Tyson. Mr. Lewis has high blood pressure and it is with difficulty that he is able to be about.

Old Livery Stable.
The building of the overpass on highway No. 1, which has put the old livery barn into the discard, recalls the time when the Lockrice blacksmith shop was on the east side of the railroad and Joe Shaw also had a blacksmith shop on the south side just east of where Henry Heebner now lives and Jack Shaw had a livery stable where the post office now is and following same was occupied by Dr. B. F. Brendel as stables for his horses when he was practicing medicine in Murray years ago.

Fix Up Detour Road.
The road leading north from Murray one mile and thence east to the pavement near the home of Frank Scott has been selected as a detour while work on the overpass is in progress. It has been given a coat of gravel to protect it in bad weather. Going south the old highway will be used until one has gone a mile, then the road leading east has been graded, but as yet not gravelled. The main road was closed a few days ago in order that there shall be no interference with the work when it is started. A road has been provided for Herman Richter and Joe Martis which allows them to get to their respective places.

Detour Means Detour.
Since the detour and the closing of the road leading from the Murray corner service station, that work on the road may not be hindered, W. L. Seybolt who is endeavoring to care for the station himself, has to explain to the traveling public that the detour sign really means that the road is closed to travel. There are many who come thinking they can get through, not taking the sign at its face value, but after continuing on the road find it really means what it says.

Mrs. George Troop Poorly.
Word comes from Kearney that Mrs. George Troop who is there receiving treatment for tuberculosis, is in a very serious condition. The and leave a high bank just in front of the door, making the place untenable. This building was erected more than forty years ago by James Flemming, who operated it for a long time and then disposed of it to Will Crosser who later sold the building to David Amick who operated a livery stable for a time, who in turn sold it to D. C. Rhoden, who operated it until he passed away when it was leased to A. D. Bakke who operated a garage there for a time and later was used by George W. Rhoden for a service station and in turn a number of people used it, until Joe Martis took it over and with preparations for construction of the overpass has moved his service station to Plattsmouth. Thus it would seem during the near half hundred years the building has served its purpose and is destined to go the way of the world.

To Work in New York City.
Herman Breadenkamp, who has been for the past more than a year with the W. L. Seybolt service station has a friend in New York City who secured a job for Herman in a bakery and last Friday he departed for the east, stopping in Chicago for a day before continuing to New York City.

Change Light, Telephone Lines.
A crew of workmen have been changing the electric light wires into Murray that it may not interfere with the new overpass on highway No. 1 and now have the lines changed so that there is no interference. Likewise the telephone company is changing their lines. Radio listeners in Murray were very much disappointed because they were unable to hear the program being broadcast from Shenandoah by a group of Murray entertainers.

Arrived at Coast City.
Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Lewis who a short time ago departed for the west, having in view as their destination Pacific Grove, California, where they formerly resided and where there was a bit of employment awaiting him, while they arrived there at night and that they would write again soon.

New Store Has Opening.
The new store which has been located in the building formerly occupied by Tutt and Brubacher, after having placed their goods on the shelves, held their opening last Saturday at which coffee and lunch was served. They also gave away some present, the three highest in the contest being Ivan Deles Dernier who received a break box; Miss Josephine Fitch who received a glass service; Mrs. Margaret Todd, third prize.

Visited in Omaha Sunday.
Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Brubacher and daughter were in Omaha last Sunday, guests at the home of an uncle of Mr. Brubacher, Alex Bisanz. They stopped in Plattsmouth and took Gussie's mother along. A very enjoyable visit was had by all and an excellent dinner.

Celebrated Passing Birthday.
Mrs. Anna Rhoden, formerly Miss Anna Troop, was born near Davenport, Iowa and came when a small child to Plattsmouth was passing her 74th birthday anniversary Sunday and was quietly enjoying herself at her home in Murray when the relatives began to arrive and she realized there was something going on. The folks made merry and provided a wonderful dinner in honor of the occasion. Among those present were her brothers, W. O. Troop and wife, C. R. Troop and wife; A. D. Rhoden and wife and daughter, Lester Shradder and family, D. C. Rhoden and wife, Harry Albin and family, Victor Wehrlein and family, Maybelle Gorder, Mrs. Sarah Jane Brooks, a sister and Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Bestor and son.

Visited With Friends Here.
Mrs. Lester Long, formerly Miss Frans and with their little daughter were in Murray over the week-end visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Long and with other friends. Mr. Long did not accompany them as he is employed by a company transporting gasoline from Kansas refineries to Auburn and other Nebraska points. He drives one of the company's trucks.

Make Changes at Garage.
The Murray Garage which has maintained a hall for meetings and amusements down stairs, has been changed materiallly. The cafe and amusement parlor have been moved to the basement and the dance floor reduced in space but still plenty large, and placed in first class condition. This change was made to permit moving the office where the cafe was formerly, while the room formerly used as an office will be used as a show room for new cars.

Honored on Birthday.
Mrs. N. C. Deles Dernier of Murray entertained at a 6 o'clock dinner last Sunday evening in honor of Mr. Deles Dernier's birthday.
Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Armstrong, Gerald and Charles of Omaha; Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow White and little daughter, Sandra Ann, Miss Pearl Deles Dernier, Lincoln; Mr. and Mrs. Dick Applegate and little daughter, Dixie Lee, Miss Lau Rene Applegate.
The beautiful birthday cake was baked by Mr. Deles Dernier's youngest daughter, Mrs. Woodrow White of Lincoln.

As the shades of night approached the guests departed for their homes, wishing Mr. Deles Dernier many more happy birthdays.
