HOW TO TREAT CALAMITY HOWLERS.

The Lincoln News, a staunch republican paper says: "Nebraska can be saved to republicanism without her fair name being defamed. The man who will preach calamity in whatever guise and attempt to create the impression that ruin is the state's future in a certain event should receive the same treatment we accord to the man who slanders his wife or mother and attacks her good character."

H. D. TRAVIS has the reputation of never having had a case thrown out of court and of never having lost one through any fault of his. He should be elected by all means.

By all accounts of the great debate between Bryan and Thurston it was a good thing for Thurston that the debates were confined to two, because his inferiority would have been made apparent to so many more people throughout the state. Up to this time a great many people, and we may say, all republicans, have had an idea that Mr. Thurston was by far the better speaker and greater debater of the two, chiefly, we suppose, because of the reputation he has been twenty years in building up, while five years ago Mr. Bryan was almost an unknown youth, and even four years ago it was said he was too young to send to congress; but today the most partisan republican must admit that the honors are with the young man. "Thrice armed is he whose quarrel is just."

CORPORATE RULE.

Hon. John D. Howe, of Omaha, in an address to the people of the commonwealth, deals some trenchant blows at existing conditions that deserve attention of all—from the preacher to the humblest laborer. Here is a part of what he says:

What about the railroads? Go to the sittings of our legislature, and what do you find? You find their lobby organized to corrupt. Who stood behind Mosher and his guilty crowd? Who stood behind the corruption in the penitentiary ring? Who defends all the public plunderers and thieves? The railroad ring. They are co-partners in corrupting the public service. And banks trot in their class. They did not dare to have Mosher open his mouth! He knew too much! Mosher, liable, as indicted, to sentence for an hundred years, got off with five! He was "confined" in our county jail instead of being sent to the penitentiary—and such scandals arose in that regard as were never before heard of in connection with a convict incarcerated in prison! The wrongs that these banks and railroads have countenanced and encouraged in conspiring against the common people of Nebraska is a foul list. The true and lofty citizenship of this commonwealth will not tolerate the rottenness in our public service that these banks and railroads stand for any longer.

The people are slow to anger and to move. When public affairs get so rotten that they stink then the people clean their house. Nebraska, under railroad and bankers' rule, is so rotten that it stinks. It is time to move! The banks and railroads raise the cry to deceive us that it would hurt the credit of the state to elect a populist. The credit of the state! The credit of a million people! Who made these corporations the guardians of the public credit? Of our good name! When rottenness and corruption stand for purity and soundness, then will they stand for honest government. They tell us that if we elect an honest man governor it will ruin the credit and fair name of the state, and that if we elect a dishonest man governor it will preserve the credit and fair name of the state!

The election of county commissioner seems to have awakened considerable interest in the mind of the editor of the News, and that paper comes to the rescue of S. W. Dutton in fine style. Considering what he has said of him in private in Polk's News it is rather extraordinary. Of course it is all right to praise a man for all he is worth, but when one goes beyond that it is questionable. For instance, the News says:

"Mr. Dutton has saved the county thousands of dollars by the careful incite he has made into every case before relief has been granted."
Possibly, but we have heard of one case where he didn't save the county any money. A case in which he was solicited to support Mr. Falter, but said

(although he is a democrat) he couldn't afford to do it, because Mr. Dutton had done him favors. Asked how that was, the man said: "He gave me the contract for a bridge to move for $30. -I did the work in two days. Of course you can't expect me to go back on him." Mr. Dutton may possibly save some that way, only to help men whose votes he needs. Mr. Falter has the reputation of being a very careful, diligent man in his own business, and there is every reason to believe he will work just as carefully for the county and without favor. Vote for Falter and you will not regret it.

THERE is time yet for the democrats and populists to organize and win a victory in Cass county. Decent republicans are disgusted and demoralized at the candidates and course of their party, and see that a victory for it stands for a renewal of the plundering of the state and a placing of the railroad magnate in politics on horseback and in the saddle to ride over the heads of the people rough-shod for the future. Now is the time for honest, patriotic men to unite and by their votes rid the state of the combine of corruptionists, put an honest man at the head of affairs of state and an honest legislator in the capitol to give the people wholesome laws. Strike while the spirit of liberty lives!

A LOT of so-called "business men" of Omaha, who are under the control of money sharks and railroad politicians, have issued a circular and sent it to everybody in the state, endeavoring to frighten men into the support of Tom Majors. It is a sight to place the mantle of shame upon the face of every honest man in the land. There is nothing but the foulest rottenness behind it, and the men who originated the movement know it. No man who respects himself will pay the least attention to it.

"ETERNAL vigilance is the price of liberty" is a saying which loses none of its force because the nation has grown to be the greatest power on earth. The very strength and power of the government makes it a source of danger to the citizen, because it has a tendency to lull into careless indifference the minds of men. It was the power swayed by wealth that destroyed the liberty of Rome, and if American liberty is destroyed it is now certain that the aggressive power of concentrated wealth will be the chief cause. It is, therefore, proper that the people should look with distrust and suspicion on any effort of corporate capital to get its chosen agents into the control of affairs of the state and nation. Therefore Mr. Majors should not be elected governor, because his election is largely promoted by one railroad, while John M. Thurston should not be chosen U. S. senator because he is the attorney for another railroad and their trusted agent. "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty" and "eternal vigilance is the price of despotism."

Notice to Tax Delinquent.
