The Publication of "MODERN ELOQUENCE"

[10 Handsome Library Volumes.]

Is an event of premier importance. For the first time the best After-dinner Speeches, Lectures, Addresses, Anecdotes, Reminiscences and Repartees of America's and England's most brilliant men have been selected—edited—arranged—by an editorial board of men themselves eloquent with word and pen—men who have achieved eminence in varied fields of activity. These gems of spoken thought were fugitive from lack of proper preservative means, until the Hon. Thomas B. Reed, upon voluntarily retiring from the Speakership of the House of Representatives, gathered about him these men of mark and experience in literature, his friends and co-workers in other fields and began the task of preparing this great work. North, East, South and West, and the Mother country as well, have been searched for gems in every field of eloquence.

Here was a lecture that had wrought upon the very souls of great audiences; there an after-dinner speech, which "between the lines" was freighted with the destinies of nations. Here was an eulogy expressing in few but virile words the love, the honor and the tears of millions, and there an address pregnant with the fruits of a strenuous life's work. Or perchance, a reminiscence, keen, scintillant repartee, or a story, potent in significance, and aflame with human interest. Matter there was in abundance, for English speaking peoples are eloquent, but the best—only the best, only the great, the brilliant, the worthy to endure, has been the guiding rule of Mr. Reed and his colleagues. Their editorial labors have been immense.

While libraries and musty files were being delved into in a hundred places—while famous men were putting into manuscript their brain children—while reminiscence, repartee, and story were being reduced to type, and speeches, addresses and lectures, which money could not buy, were in friendship's name being offered, Mr. Reed was preparing for this work, his most ambitious contribution to literature—his piece de resistance—"The Influence and the History of Oratory." Prof. Lorenzo Sears, beloved and honored in many lands for his critical and contributory work in literature, was writing "The History of After-dinner Speaking." So with Champ Clark, Edward Everett Hale, Senator Dolliver and Hamilton Wright Mabie—each was producing a special contribution, which of itself is a gem of thought, a monument to research, study and observant experience.

Whatever the viewpoint, this work is without precedent. It has no predecessor, no competitor. Speeches that have been flashed across continents, lectures that have been repeated over and over again to never-tiring audiences (but never published), addresses that have made famous the man, the time and the place—these are brought together for the first time, and with them a large number of the wittiest sayings of the wittiest men of the nineteenth century.

For an hour—for a whole evening in the easy chair at home—for the study of style and diction that have electrified brilliant assemblies, for the man ambitious to become a successful or popular public speaker, and for the one who has to prepare a toast or an address, this work is a never-failing source of charm and inspiration. Nor is this solely "a man's work." "The tenderest tribute to woman I have ever read," said Senator Dolliver, when he read the manuscript of Joseph Choate's after-dinner speech, "The Pilgrim Mothers."

"MODERN ELOQUENCE" is sumptuously published, but moderately priced. To properly present this eclectic library, Portfolios comprising Table of Contents, fine Photogravures, chromatic plates, sample pages and other interesting material have been prepared. One of these Portfolios, with full particulars regarding bindings, prices, terms, etc., will be mailed free on application, if you mention The Commoner.

MR. WEBSTER DAVIS' BOOK.

This work is the outcome of a visit to the Transvaal, made by Mr. Webster Davis while he was Assistant Secretary of the Interior, under Mr. McKinley's first administration, and as a result of which he broke his relations with the Republican party and affiliated himself with the opposition. The author vehemently arraigns the British government for the Transvaal war. Whether the reader agrees with the author or not, he will be interested in his presentation of the Boer side of the case. Milton said that truth could not suffer so long as she was left free to combat error. The illustrations were all taken on the spot, either by Mr. Davis or by some of his friends, and they certainly form a unique collection of South African pictures. Cloth, large octavo (6x9), 400 pages altogether, printed on coated paper, beautifully illustrated by over eighty full-page half-tones, attractively bound. Two dollars, carriage prepaid.
