Best Whiskey

Is cheapest in the end. Poor whiskey is not only disagreeable to the taste, but undoubtedly injurious to the stomach. A little good whiskey is a fine tonic, and helps instead of harming. Such a whiskey as our Kentucky Yellowstone for instance, will do you just as much good as a doctor's prescription. If you don't how good it is call in and try it at Injunction Denied.

The Lincoln News says: If Judge Cornish's opinion stands the test of the higher court, the dead body of Edward P. Cagney will repose where it has lain for many years, in Mount Calvary cemetery in this city, notwithstanding the demand of his mother, Mrs. Catherine McEntee, of Plattsmouth, and his brother and sister, David and Marista McEntee, that it be given to them for interment in Cass county.

The decision was given verbally at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning. The suit was one in injunction brought by the Cass county relatives to restrain Mrs. Mary Fitzgerald, an aunt, and Bishop Honacum from interfering with them in the removal of the body.

The court deplored the fact that the effort of the mother and other near relatives was resisted by those in whose custody the body had been, and expressed the belief that if Cagney were conscious of what was going on here he would say that he would rest better if the wishes of his mother, whose footsteps now totter toward the grave, were complied with—in effect stating that Mrs. Fitzgerald ought to find out if the mother really desired her boy's remains to lie beside hers when she goes to her eternal rest and if she does to grant her that request. It had been maintained, heretofore, it may be explained, that the sister was the really active party in the controversy, and that she was actuated by a dislike of the Fitzgeralds.

Yet the court said the law and logic dictated that he should deny the injunction and hold that the body should remain where it is. He was moved to this determination by the fact that the testimony disclosed that the expressed wish of the deceased was that he should be buried in the Fitzgerald lot. There was no denial of this by the other side, save a disposition in the argument to disbelieve that such wish was expressed. The fact, however, said the court, that the deceased had willed all of his property to Mrs. Fitzgerald, a wealthy woman, and excluded his near relatives, comparatively poor, would seem to corroborate the contention that it was his wish to be buried in the lot of the family with whom he had lived for many years, and which was in his later years home to him. As a trial judge, however strong his sympathies with the aged mother might be, he could do no other than follow what seemed to be the last wish of the dead man.

Successful Feeding.

On December 12, 1900, R. A. Young, of Cass county, Neb., bought in South Omaha, forty-eight head of branded Colorado steers that appeared to be Shorthorn grades. They were weighed out of the yards at 875 pounds average. They were put into the feed yards and had their choice of alfalfa hay in one rack and clover and timothy in another, and all the shelled corn they wanted after they were got on full feed by the usual careful methods. On June 27th these cattle were returned to the South Omaha market, and weighed out to packers at 1,322 pounds average, a gain of 447 pounds. These cattle ate alfalfa in preference to all other feeds. They had no salt in cold weather, and no condiments or stock foods at any time. They made their feeder fifty cents per bushel for all the corn they ate, and paid $300 on the hay bill, and there are 120 head of fat hogs in the feet lot to be marketed the first cool period.—Nebraska Farmer.

June Mortgage Record.

Mrs. E. K. Parmele expects to leave on Monday for California, where she will make an extended visit with a sister whom she has not seen for many years.

J. N. Howland, who is now in the employ of the B. & M. as a machinist at Deadwood, has been in town during the past week visiting with relatives and friends.

Don't forget that Ptak & Bajek are manufacturers of several lines of fine cigars, which have just been put upon the market. Try them for a fine, sweet smoke.

Elegant? Well, I should say! That's what every one says of the line of baby carriages, go-carts and sleepers at the Sattler Furniture Co.'s big store on Sixth street.

The Tigers ball club went to Have-lack on the 4th, where they met a club from that place. The game resulted in a score of 17 to 0 in favor of Have-lack in a five inning game.

The heavy wind which accompanied the rainstorm Monday evening played havoc with the electric light wires around town, and many people were without lights on that night.

L. E. Myers, an old-time resident of Plattsmouth and formerly in the drug business at Cedar Creek, was in town during the week renewing acquaintance with his Plattsmouth friends.

The funeral of Vera Salvage, a six-year-old child, who died on Monday at her home in the Union block, was held from the Methodist church Tuesday afternoon. Interment was at Oak Hill.

A train of coaches came into Lincoln from the west this morning from which every window on one side was demolished, the paint beaten off and the roofs battered by a hailstorm through which it had passed last evening.

The shelving on the east side of Arthur Helps' store gave way from a sudden and severe gust of wind yesterday evening, and precipitated the contents to the floor. The shelves were loaded with books, which were very thoroughly "piled."

The B. & M. and rendered one of their popular open air concerts on Main street between Fifth and Sixth on Tuesday evening, and a large and appreciative crowd was out to hear the music. The programme that was arranged for last Sunday afternoon's concert was rendered.

Sheriff Wheeler has sent out hundreds of postals to officials all over the west, offering $50 reward and giving a complete description of C. E. Holmes, the escaped brass thief, but thus far has heard nothing. He has every confidence, however, that he will be apprehended before long.

Peddlers doing business in Nebraska now, other than those selling fruit trees, and products of their own manufacture, will have to secure a license to do business from the county clerk. The walking peddler will be taxed in each county $25 per year, a one-horse rig $50, two horses $75 and four horses $100.

Thomas Whalen, an old-time Plattsmouth boy, now in the employ of the Union Pacific at Cheyenne, Wyo., came in Monday evening. Tom was recently elected a delegate to the Boiler-maker's convention at Buffalo, N. Y., and left for that place Tuesday. He reports that Frank Green, who is also employed at that place, is doing well.

The body of Edna Jordan, the young woman who committed suicide at Omaha Saturday night by jumping into the Missouri river from the steamboat Henrietta, was found Wednesday night at a point just above the mouth of the Platte river. The remains were taken to Omaha, and the funeral held yesterday afternoon.

The much advertised bull fight was the feature of the celebration at South Omaha yesterday. While the amphitheatre will seat about 8,000 people, only about 2,000 persons witnessed the first public performance. There was a parade of Mexicans, headed by a band, at 1 o'clock, but even this did not draw the crowd that was expected. Neither the men nor the bulls was injured.

The increase in the building line in and out of town is well evidenced by the fact that the Brick and Terra Cotta works, which had been closed down for years, were opened up this spring, and is now turning out well-burned brick at the rate of 60,000 per week. It takes a force of twenty men, under the management of Walter J. White, to do the work.

The Lincoln News says: Secretary Royce, of the state banking board, on Monday issued a charter to the bank of Holbrook. The capital is placed at $5,000. J. M. Patterson is president, H. G. Miller vice president, S. C. Patterson cashier, and S. M. Patterson assistant cashier. The latter was deputy state treasurer during the term of Mr. Meserve.

The old settlers will hold a reunion this year at Union, the date set for it being Friday and Saturday, August 30 and 31. This is when people of all occupations, who enjoy an outing, can come together and, throwing off the cares of the present, dwell upon the reminiscent past, and renewing old, form new acquaintances among the home-builders of the county—and much good results.

Never in the city's history have the shade and ornamental trees on the residence grounds and parks and lining the streets of the city presented such a beautiful appearance as they do at this time, and the sight ought to be an inspiration to lead every home and lot owner to plant more trees, to the end that every street shall soon be bordered by rows of shade trees. And, by way of suggestion, in the judgment of experts the hackberry, while not a rapid grower, when properly trimmed, makes about the most satisfactory shade tree that grows.

M. D. Polk was down from the Black Hills last Friday. He is just now enjoying an experience that sooner or later falls to the lot of the average newspaper man. Several months ago, in company with a resident of the hills, he launched the Black Hills World, a daily paper, at Lead City, which flourished in the manner usual with new ventures in the newspaper line, until the sheriff swooped down upon them and gathered in the plant, good will, etc., to satisfy a judgment against Mill's partner. Pending the sale of the property the publication has been discontinued.

Messrs. Chas. T. Dabb, Fred. H. Black and George B. Mann returned on Sunday evening from a trip up the Missouri river to Henton, Iowa. The old river is making a few changes in its course up there, is a very wild and turbulent stream at present, cutting away its banks and doing much damage to adjoining farms. The strong wind on Sunday rendered the trip very disagreeable, but in the evening, when the wind had gone down somewhat the run home was made in the main current of the stream in about an hour. The trip was made in the gasoline stern-wheel boat "Sunset," and the craft worked very satisfactory.
