The Congressional Globe and Appendix

will contain a report of all the debates in Congress, revised by the speakers, the Messages of the President of the United States, the Annual Reports of the Heads of the Exec utive Departments, the Reports of Committees of Congress on important subjects of general interests, the Laws passon during the session, and coplous indexes to all These will be printed on a double royal sheet, in book form royal quarto size, each number containing six teen pages, averaging 2,897 words per page. The whole will make between 1,700 and 2,000 pages. It is believed that no book has ever sen published at so lew a rate. Last year I advertised in the Daily Globe for six mouths, and in about one hundred other newspapers, in the United States, a reward of $245, to be paid to any person who would produce a book published at so low a rate, and none was produced. The large number of copies subscrib ed for by Congress snables me to afford the debates te subscribers so cheap.

The Congressioni Globe and Approux pass free through the mails of the United States, as will be seen by reading the following Joint Resolution passed by Congress the 6th of August 1852:

DEATH OF BRODERICK.

In accordance with the anticipations of most of the community, the expected duel between the Hon. David C. Brodsrick, United States Senator from California, and the Ron. David S. Terry, Judge of the Supreme Court, took place yesterday morning at a small dell or valley some ten miles distant from Merced Lake. In our laste of yesterday we informed our renders of the challenge from Judge Terry, the attempted duel, the interruption by the police, the examination before Police Judge Coon, and the discharge of the parties reptaced it. on the ground that no offsuce had yet been committed.

We now propose to detail the subsequent olroumstances. The parties went out of town immediately after the decision, and passed the night in separate localities, each preparing for the inevitable event of the morrow. Mr. Broderick was at the Lake House, and slept there. Meantime, the town had been greatly excited all through Monday evening, and at an early hour yesterday morning hundreds were on the qui vive, anxious to witness the rencountre. For a duel between a United States Senator and a State Supreme Judge was no ordinary occurrence, and independent of this fact, the large number of personal and party friends and adherents of each, made it a matter of universal importance Since the days of the Vigilance Committee, nothing equaling this in its effect upon all minds has transpired in San Francisco.

The Dueling Ground.

Vehicles of all kinds were chartered to bear the curious to the ground. That ground, it seems, was not generally known : so many changes had been made that few if any were aware of its location. The instinct, however which draws the vultures to the feast led each and all to the place. This was in a small vallet some two hundred yards in extent.

Arrival of the Duelists

At a quarter past 6 o'clock Messrs. Broderick and Torry arrived on the ground, in their respective sarriages, and attended by their seconds and physicians. These were the same as at the previous meeting, viz: Hon. J. C. McKibbin and Mr. Coulter, (formerly Sheriff of Siskiyou county) as seconds for Mr. Broderick, and Calboun Benham and Thomas Hayss, Begrs. of this city, seconds for Judge Terry. Dra Hammond and Aylett were in attendance as surgeons for Judge Terry, and Dr. Loehr for Mr. Broderick

Preparations for the duct.

On descending from their earriages the parties seemed to be in the best of spirits, neither appearing at all anxious or nervous as to the result. The ermorer proceeded to load the weapons [which were eight-inch Belgium pis-A ready for the TRADM, we respectfully tols, under the inspection of the respective call the attention of the citizens of Dakota seconds. Pending these preliminary operations the spectators were directed to withdraw from the immediate scene of the duel, which they did, posting themselves upon the two hillocks about four hundred yards distant, where they anxiously awaited the issue. Marking out the Ground-The duck.

About half an hour was eccupied in these arrangements. Ten paces were marked off and tested by the seconds, (that being the distance agreed upon,) and the principals placed in their relative positions. Their seconds bad aiready divested them of their outside coats, white collars, and other articles which might present preminent targets upon which to take aim. The shoice of ground now belonged to Mr. Brederick, in pursuance to the arrangements of Monday's meeting. The two principals were divested of their watches and the coin in their pockets. The coin taken from placed in his own vest pecket ; Judge Terry threw his carelessly upon the sod. The man, with the view of ascertaining whether either had underneath his clothing any article salculated to afford protection from a bullet. This is usualy rather a matter of form than otherwise. Mr. Benham, who examined Mr. Brederick, felt his breast, abdomen and sides with scrupulous care. Mr. McKibbin on the contrary, but formerly touched the vest of Judge Terry with his hand, bowed and withdrew.

One of the seconds then read sloud the code durilo from a written Manuscipt which escupied but a short time. Mr. Coulter thou addressed the two gentlemen, saying in effect that he wished to be understood that he should count "One, two," after the word ' Fire," after which he should say "Stop." No shot must be fired after that. During this time, the two principals maintained their positions, and listened with much composure to these details. Judge Terry stood with his head thrown slightly back, looking towards his antagonist. Each held his pistol in his han d pointed to the ground. Each was dressed in black clothes, and wore a slouched Palo, Alto hat. Mr. Broderick stood erect, but with his head rather down. He pulled the rim of his hat down about his eyes, as if to shade them from the light. The position of the two were somewhat different. Judge Terry maintained that of a jeft hand and shoulder well behind him. Mr.

rather awkwardly, and seeming to feel this himself he once or. twice turned the wrist of his platool arm to the right with his left hand as though sudeavaring to comply with some prescribed directions previously given him --He tack one good look at his antagonist, ran his eye rapidly siong the groud from him to his ewn position, as if, drawing a hee-live between them. From that time he did not raine his eyes until the word was given to fire, Once his right foot got a fraction beyond the line, when Mr. McKibbin stepped forward and

The rumor of Mr Brod erick's nervousness is based upon his oscasional motions to observe those prescribed positions of hand and arm, which his seconds had enjoined upon him,--The bearing of Judge Terry, though he assumed a more practiced and motioniese attitude, was not one jot more that of an iron-nerved man than was that of Mr. Broderick. At a quarter before seven o'clock, Mr. Coulten prenounced the words-"Are you ready !"

" Ready," responded Judge Terry, and Ready," was uttered by Mr. Broderick imme diately after.

Fire!-One! Two! prenounced in moderately quick time. ton gave the word, the principals raised their pistols, which they held pointed pointed to the ground. On the rise, Mr. Broderick's weapon went off, striking the ground a few few inches and braced himself for a moment ; then gradually lowered himself down to a re. clining position on the ground, and then felover at full length. He did not speak a word with his arms folded till his seconds, advanced known place, to await the news of the result of the shot. The surgeons who were present, Drs. Louhr Hammond and Aylett, together with Mr. Broderick's seconds, advanced immediately upon breast. The ball had entered near the right though subsequently extracted had produc-

He was placed in a wagon, and carried around the hills until the main San Jose road was reached; article upon the Presidency, says: We North and soon afterwards he was transferred to an express wagon, which had gone out at his request. In this he was brought into the city, and cenveyed to the residence of Loonidas Haskell, at Black Point. While coming in he sat men. Seme are for Douglas, some for Breckup a portion of the way; but, nevertheless, suffered much pain. Upon reaching Mr. Haskell's residence, he was carried into the house and placed on a bed where he was propped up with helaters and pillows. He was fully conscious and complained of the great weight-1,000 pounds as he expressed it, weighing upon his breast. This feeling was caused by the internal hemmorrage which had become very great, and dissolution was expected to take place every few moments. Drs. Lochr, Sawyer and Rowell, were present. and afforded all the aid in their power; but Mr. Broderick, his second Mr. McKibbin, Mr. Broderick continued to sink, and momentarily become weaker. At half past two o'clock he was still living.

How Mr. Broderick Lost his shot.

The circumstances of Mr. Broderick losing his shot is accounted for in the fact that the cheice of wespons fell to Judge Terry, who selected his own dueling pistols. Those have the hair trigger so sensitively set that a sudden jerk of the weapon would serve to onusc touch of his finger produced the discharge .- one silver dollar. A similar cause produced the accident which occured to Henry Clay is his famous duel with John Randelph.

Judge Terry's Flight. Judge Torry with his friends, loft the field driving rapidly into town and started at once from North Beach where a boat was in waiting and proceeded to Oakland where he took private conveyance to Martinez. A telegeaphic dispatch, received late last night from that point states that Judge Terry, on his arrival at Martinez, he found some difficulty in tions: getting ferried across to Benisla. Both in Murtines and the latter place flags were raised at half must caused by the false report of Mr. tucky. Broderick's death.
