And that city sets the world's fashions—

"This year's styles demand that the dress be lifted when Milady steps the curb or stair or enters her car. Hence, her hosiery becomes a fashion essential."

The Eighth Big Bargain Day was held yesterday, and the bargains offered by our merchants, for this event, was taken advantage of by more people than the previous ones. The day was an ideal one, and the farmers and town people are fast awakening to the fact that our merchants are offering bargains of such a nature as to merit their patronage. Here's hoping that the Ninth Big Bargain Day may be the banner one of all. It is a good thing, if properly pushed, as it convinces the farmer that the road leading to Red Cloud leads to the place where he can secure the most for his dollar, thus helping him, the merchant and the community. Again do we repeat Bargain Day is a good thing, and trust to see it become a permanent occurrence.

The Adventures Of Kathlyn

The Garden Of Brides

In Two Reels

Umballah, having paid the ransom to the brigands takes Kathlyn's father back to Alaba, trusting that the hungry tiger will finish the heroine and her friend Bruce, who are bound to its frail cage. Fate, however, wills differently for Kathlyn and Bruce have outwitted the brigands and escaped from the tiger, follow Umballah. They arrive in the city happily unobserved during the excitement of the Coronation ceremonies. Col. Hare is chained to the throne compelled to do the bidding of the arch-villain. Kathlyn disguises herself like one from The Garden of Brides, and thus gets into communication with her father, the unwilling occupant of the throne. The artful suggestion of Ramabal, that he be made to select a royal consort, gives Kathlyn the freedom of the throne room.

What Booze Will Do in a Printing Office

A printer who had imbibed too freely of the cup that both cheers and inebriates was given the account of a swell wedding to set into type. Near by the manuscript which bore the society editor's best effort lay a sheet of paper which contained copy for an auction sale bill. The result of the inspired printer's exertions ran as follows:

"John William Jones, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Jones, was disposed of at public auction to Laura Adams, at my farm three miles east of Melrose at 10 o'clock sharp, in the presence of seventy guests, including the following, to-wit: Seven mules, twelve head of cattle. The nuptial knot was tied by the Rev. Josiah Anderson, weighing over 1,200 pounds. The beautiful home of the bride was tastefully decorated with 1 Deere plow, 1 sulky rake, one set double harness. Just before the ceremony, Mendelsohn's wedding march was artistically rendered by a muley cow, 1 Jersey cow coming fresh in April, carrying a bouquet of the bride's and wearing a gown of 500 shocks of corn, three sacks of oats and other feed stuffs. Congratulations followed the ceremony and there was a free lunch at noon. After the wedding feast was served the happy couple was driven in a three-inch wide tire wagon to the railway station, where they took the train for the city to spend a week visiting relatives among whom are three calves; and six colts. They will then return to their home in the handsome residence recently purchased for them by the bride's father at 10 per cent off for cash, or one year's time on bankable paper at 8 per cent. The bride's going away gown was of blue serge, with hat to match, trimmed with ten bales of hay and other articles too numerous to mention. Mr. and Mrs. Jones were recipients of many beautiful gifts, among which were one set silverware, two sets silver spoons, three sets knives and forks, 1 threshing machine, 1 McCormick self binder, one sewing machine, one washing machine, one baby carriage. The groom is a young man of good character and standing in society with 12 Berkshire pigs and 4 geese. The bride is the handsome and accomplished teacher of a fine herd of sheep including one pedigreed ram. The wedding was a recherche affair. The only out of town guests were F. E. Minnette, auctioneer and A. F. Strehel, clerk.—Exchange

$10,000 Gift to Nebraska

Several more specialists on different agricultural subjects will be added, temporarily at least, to the Agricultural Extension Service of the Nebraska College of Agriculture on account of the passage of the Lever bill by congress. Nebraska will receive $5,000 next July 1 and an additional $5,000 next January 1. Additional contributions will be granted if the Nebraska legislature will appropriate an equal amount. The money is to be used for agricultural demonstrations and lectures only and is intended particularly for persons not having an opportunity to study agriculture in the schools and colleges. None of the money may be used for the purchase or the upkeep of agricultural school buildings. If the Nebraska legislature makes it possible for the additional federal contributions to be received, a much more generous amount of agricultural information may be sent directly to the people than is afforded at present.

Raise Feeders at Home

Raise feeders at home, was the advice of Dean E. A. Burnett at the recent Beef Producers' Day meeting at the Nebraska College of Agriculture to the 450 cattle men in attendance. The statement was offered as the only solution for the scarcity of baby beef. Even tho the present day land values are high, it was argued that if the best use is made of all roughage and if other good business management is exercised, beef may be grown at a profit on high priced land.

Prepare for the Fair

If you have an idea of being an exhibitor at the county or state fair this fall, commence now to prepare. If it is in the line of crops, do not lose time in getting a good start. If it is in live stock, the animals to be shown must be in the very best of condition, and this cannot be acquired through the hot days of summer when the flies are a pest and annoyance. Fix up now; do not wait. The fleshy animal is the demand in the present-day show ring. Remember this.—Twentieth Century Farmer.
