ALL THE PHONES - McFARLAND BUILDING

1916 A National Park Summer

This is going to be a gala season for Rocky Mountain Parks—Glacier, Yellowstone and Estes Parks—all on the Burlington's through-service lines. These Parks, with their wealth of scenery, their magnificent "out-of-doors," have gotten their grip on Eastern people.

They have nearby, the Black Hills with their forests and Hot Springs, the Big Horn Mountains about Sheridan, with their picturesque old ranches given over to modern tourists, also the ranch resorts beyond Cody in the Absarokas.

The whole Rocky Mountain country has so many vacation spots to offer, and the Burlington has so many attractive circuit mountain tours, that it is impossible here to describe them in detail.

Send for booklet of the locality and the tour you have in mind. Shall it be Yellowstone, with its ninety-mile auto scenic tour via the Cody Gateway? Shall it be Glacier Park, the climax of the scenic grandeur of the Rockies?

The Burlington is Essentially the Circuit Tour Route of all Rocky Mountain Park Travel. Let the May Show You.

SOME GOOD IN VIVID COLOR

Frenchmen Found Their Red Caps Useful in Signaling to Their Alert Comrades.

The French have, with the oncoming of winter, put into use the recently adopted great coat for infantry. It is not, as heretofore, a dark blue, but a blue-gray. The French have left to their British allies the khaki color, and they could not adopt the gray-green hue which had already been chosen by the Germans. So they accepted a blue, which is neutral and from a distance scarcely visible. It blends with the fog of the morning and the smoke of battle.

As for red, it is now definitely prescribed. The vermilion military cap is covered with blue. So the foot soldiers hereafter clothed in shaded foggy wear will attract less attention from the enemy. "But," says Le Crieur de Paris, "if red offers in time of war greater danger to the wearer, it may on occasion present some advantages. The other day a wounded soldier recounted how he and several of his comrades wandered into a position in advance of the French lines. As they were taken for Germans every time one stuck his nose above the trench they drew the fire of our soldiers. All at once an idea came to them. They put on the ends of their bayonets their red caps from which they had removed the cover. The firing ceased and they were enabled to return to their countrymen. This time it was the red that saved them."

PROPER CARE OF TIMEPIECE

Delicate Mechanism Will Give Better Service if Never Wound Up to Extreme Limit.

Thousands of excellent timepieces are damaged by being wound too tightly or permitted to run until they are almost run down.

The mechanism of a watch or clock will wear longer and render more valuable service if not placed under a strain.

The best timepieces will be more nearly accurate if they are wound not too tightly and never allowed to run completely down.

The most satisfactory way to wind an eight-day clock is to wind it twice in that many days, and to wind it only half or a little more than half way each time. This keeps the machinery free from any unusual strain, and the works will continue to render efficient work much longer than when the clock is permitted to run the time limit and then wound up to its utmost capacity.

A watch that is wound twice in twenty-four hours will give more perfect satisfaction in time than if the watch is wound up tight once every twenty-four hours, as most persons do.

Do not permit the watch to run down, and only wind it a part of the amount needed to wind it up completely.

Famous Woman Inventor.

Miss Margaret E. Knight, who died recently, is an example of woman whose brain could work as readily on mechanical lines as on household lines. It is said that Miss Knight patented 87 inventions and that her picture has been hung in the patent office in Washington.

Miss Knight may have been the youngest inventor among women, as she invented, when she was twelve years old, a stop-motion device for preventing the steel-tipped shuttles of mill looms from falling out and injuring the operators.

One may invent hourly, and yet produce nothing practical, but the true test of Miss Knight being a successful inventor is answered by the fact that most of her patented inventions were taken up by manufacturers. A machine she invented for making and folding square-bottomed paper bags in 1871 is still in use, and a tin can which she invented only a few years ago was at once taken up by several canners. Most of her inventions related to rubber, cotton and shoe machinery.

Gone Two Years, Dog Reappears.

The happiest fox terrier in the world today is Gyp, but he isn't any happier than the household of his owner, Edward Sayre, of Orangeburg, N. Y. If the family had been given, to wall mottoes it would have hung up one that read: "What is home without Gyp?" but after the call of a thief two years ago the home was, without Gyp.

The family was at dinner the other day when a whining and scratching was heard at the door. Dorothy Sayre, six years old, opened it and in walked Gyp. The dog was gaunt and too weak to bark in his joy. He wore a license issued in Mechanistown, 63 miles from there.

Europe's Population.

People are in the habit of thinking of China as the most densely populated land in the world. The great loss of life which usually attends floods in China helps to maintain this idea. Few people realize that Europe's population is slightly denser than that of China.

According to census, the inhabitants of China number 439,000,000. As China is about one-tenth larger than Europe, the density of population of the two slightly favors Europe.

Flagrant Dishonesty.

A nugget of gold has been found in the crop of a Maryland chicken. Will it never be possible to keep dishonest farmers from weighting their fowls in this manner?
