AT OUR CAFE

Powell & Pope

Joe Kelley, chairman of the Omaha Market Week committee, announces that March 4-6 have been selected as the dates for the annual spring market week. Omaha wholesalers have gone into the leading buying centers of the world and gathered together hundreds of carloads of merchandise in order to be ready for the retail merchants of the mid-West who look to Omaha for their supplies. Now that the war is over, and with the biggest winter wheat crop in history growing a spirit of optimism prevails in business circles.

THE ONLY DEMOCRATIC PAPER IN WEBSTER COUNTY

Don't be a quitter. Be a patriot. Buy another War Savings Stamp!

Farmer-owned packing houses are suggested as a solution of the question before the house.

Senator Norris is forging to the front with his bill abrogating the seniority rule. The dry bones are rattling in the old standpatter ranks.

It is stated that the government has 400,000,000 pounds of wool to put on the market. This with the new crop coming in should make a warm market.

Without expressing opinion for or against the Mooney case we call attention of organized labor to the fact that "the fruits of the policy of force are bitter."

The opponents of government ownership might get a new viewpoint on the situation by studying New Zealand statistics which show a profit of $8,000,000 on government-owned railroads, for the past year.

The London Daily Express states that Wm. Hohenzollern is "going insane." Yep, we're wise! Every once in a while we have a case like that in criminal court over here.

Again Nebraska scores! This time as one of the thirty-six states ratifying the constitutional amendment for national prohibition. The die is cast. A year hence the moot question of interstate commerce as regards intoxicating liquors will have gone into the discard.

President Wilson was chosen to address Russia relative to bringing about a conference for solution of problems confronting that nation. Literally our president has become a leading Director-General in world affairs—one of the world's greatest men! And some little senators said he ought to stay at home!

Regardless of what may occur in regions where manufacturing industries predominate, Nebraska has a year or two of prosperity as nearly guaranteed as is possible. Crop prospects are good, prices are good, markets are good. There are two things to do. One is to start looking ahead. The other, to stop looking back.

A man who is clean both inside and outside; who neither looks up to the rich nor down to the poor; who can lose without squirming and win without bragging; who is considerate of women, children, and old people; who is too brave to lie; too generous to cheat, and who takes his share of the world and lets other people have theirs, is a gentleman.—Ex.

The Chief desires to go on record as favoring what is known to newspaper publishers as the zone system. Emphatically in favor of it just as it stands. Next to the second class mail privilege we believe the zone system means more to the country newspapers than any other postal regulation on the books. We ask our exchanges to take notice of the matter and oppose any change or repeal.

Barring the unforeseen, Woodrow Wilson will be president of these United States until March 4th, 1921. In accord with established precedent and without doubt, by personal desire he will not compete for a third term. Wherefore, then, all these attacks, both open and insidious? One can easily imagine a bolshevik element working underhandedly to upset Peace Conference plans by throwing discredit upon a powerful advocate.

There is an opportunity for some member of the legislature at Lincoln to get into the spotlight by looking up the exemption laws of an adjoining state and introducing a bill for adoption thereof in Nebraska. Take

Iowa for example. There is a great inducement for the newcomer in the fact that personal property within normal limits is exempt. The increase of population and industry is a tenfold offset for the loss of a comparatively small source of revenue.

Well authenticated reports from Russia are to the effect that crowds in Petrograd parade the streets clamoring for bread; that there are large quantities of wheat available but conditions prevent its distribution; that at the Silesian station Bolshevist troops were using butter to grease their boots. We may take these reports for what they are worth, but in any event it would seem proper to be somewhat conservative in matter of sympathy.

Three thousand years ago a Chinese emperor issued an edict that all vines in his kingdom be uprooted. There is no question about his striking at the root of the evil yet the world has whirled through three decades of centuries before attaining practical prohibition. Twentieth century events move swiftly. One need not look across such a vast stretch of time to note progress. If the grandfathers who were with us but yesteryear could wake from their last long sleep they would look in amaze seeing a movement which was in their day maintained only under great difficulty in mere townships, now become statewide, nationwide and promising to be worldwide.

During the years 1919 and 1920 more than 200,000 acres in Western Nebraska will be put under irrigation by government constructed projects.

The sugar campaign in Nebraska is practically closed, but one factory remaining in operation and it will close about Feb. 1. During the campaign the four Nebraska factories made approximately 125,000,000 lbs of sugar and paid out upwards of $5,500,000 for beets and labor. Contracts for the 1919 crop are now being made on the basis of $10 per ton for beets at the factory, with the unrestricted delivery after October 5th, and $1 per ton extra for siloed beets, siloing being optional with the grower. The indications are for a greatly increased acreage.
