

Farmer Jones Syrup is Better

First, last and all the time we maintain the quality! Its excellence cannot be duplicated. It's wholesome, economical and delicious. Nature helps us. The cane is grown under our supervision from seed chosen under direction of our own agricultural experts. By an exclusive process of manufacture we keep the purity and goodness which come from the sweet juices of the sorghum. We include sugar syrup with an addition of corn syrup to prevent fermentation.

She Knew a Way.

A Terre Haute school was trying hard to get a new flag for one of the rooms. The children were denying themselves candy and other luxuries in order to bring their pennies to school to add to the flag fund. But little Pearl had brought any.

"My mother gets my candy for me," she explained her delinquency, "so I can't bring that money. But I'll tell you what I will do, teacher, I'll not give anything at Sunday school next week and bring that penny to put in on our flag."—Indianapolis News.

Planned a Surprise.

After being married a short time I decided to surprise my husband with some of my lovely bread. So I baked five loaves, which felt and looked more like brick than bread. In a panic I buried it, thinking that would end my mistake.

But next morning came Mr. Neighbor with a loaf of my bread which he had plowed up in his field, and handed it to my husband, saying it surely came from a newlywed, and we being the only newcomer in some years I had to plead guilty. I can never forget how I felt, as I certainly did surprise my husband. A dog had carried it from my hiding place to his for future use.—Chicago Tribune.

Easy.

The most miserly woman in Indiana has again turned up. She is comfortably wealthy and "save at the expense of the other fellow" is her middle name. The other day she went into the bakery at which she usually gets stale rolls because they cost just half as much as the fresh ones do. But this day there was none. "Sorry," smiled the salesgirl, "but we sold them all while they were still fresh."

"When you know I'm coming every morning why can't you keep over a dozen and let them get stale for me?" complained the woman.—Indianapolis News.

Man's Foot in the Shoe.

Henry, aged nine, had tried to sneak into the circus free, but was put out by the sharp-eyed ticket man.

He returned home bawling and told his mother that the man had thrown a shoe at him, at which his mother exclaimed: "He did!"

Henry replied: "Uh, hub, an'—an'—an' his foot was in it, too."—Baltimore Evening Sun.

FEARING FATHER, LETS MOTHER DIE

Son Explains Why He Did Not Answer Plea of Dying Woman.

IS SLAIN BY HUSBAND

Boy Contradicts Story of Father, Who Insists Spouse Tried to Kill Him by Administering Witch Poison.

Detroit, Mich.—Mrs. Anna Bobrowski, hands and feet bound, fatally wounded by the blows of her husband Martin, lay on the floor of her desolate Sumpter township home and begged her son Theodore, seventeen, to untie her.

Before Assistant Prosecutor Popiel Theodore admitted he had not answered her plea because he was "afraid of the old man." Theodore and his sister, Colla, fifteen, made formal statements against their father, a prisoner in the county jail.

"And you let your mother lie there without helping her?" repeated the prosecutor.

"Sure," said Theodore. "I started to do what she asked me, but the old man came in and I ran upstairs. I was afraid of him."

Slayer Describes Death.

The remaining moments of Mrs. Bobrowski's life were described to Mr. Popiel by the slayer.

"I took her in and tied her down on the floor and sat with her," he said. "She asked me: 'Martin, why do you kill me?' I told her: 'That's just what you wanted to do to me; you put the witch poison in my bread and tried to kill me.'

"She said she didn't, but I know she did. Then she kept still till she died."

Bobrowski said the witch poison was a decoction known in the old country and used by women to poison their husbands. Women can eat it without harm; but if a man eats it he becomes palsied and dies, he explained.

Bobrowski said his wife fed him the poison after they had quarreled about possession of $300. He said he became ill.

Boy Contradicts Father.

Theodore was brought in to confront his father. The boy, who evidently did not know what a sheriff was when Sheriff Coffin visited him had learned something of the protection given by the law.

"You weren't sick, either," he declared, looking his parent in the eye. "Mother did not have any poison, and you know it."

A coroner's jury at Sumpter returned a verdict that Mrs. Bobrowski died from blows from a poker in the hands of her husband. The battered body was taken to Belleville for burial.

Investigation showed he first had washed the body, put on the dead woman's best dress, placed her hands across her breast and then made his son drive him to Detroit in quest of a burial permit.

MOUSE SAVES THE BURGLAR

Got Into Trap and Delayed Armed Man Who Was Pursuing.

Fort Dodge, Ia.—A wounded negro, now under arrest in a Cherokee hospital, is believed to be the man who entered the A. H. Woodard home here, and at whom Woodard fired one night.

Woodard was awakened by the sound of someone in his room and saw a man standing near the foot of the bed. He grabbed his revolver from under the pillow and fired at the intruder.

The thief started to run, with Woodard after him. A mouse probably saved the thief's life. While Woodard was following the intruder a mouse got into a trap in the Woodard kitchen. The noise led Woodard to believe there was another robber in the kitchen and he hesitated long enough so that the man made his escape.

NOT SO GREEN, AFTER ALL

Man About Town Need Not Have Wasted His Sympathy On Seemingly Unsophisticated Youth.

"During the state fair," remarked the man about town, "I was riding north on a High street car. Yes, it was crowded. As we approached the Union station a gaunt youth, with shoe-top trousers, green suit, red necktie and unzipped lips, leaned over, as we stood together in the front vestibule, and asked me if that place up yonder might be the depot. I assured him that it was, wondering to myself if he would be able to get through the mob at the station without having his pocket picked.

A moment later the youngster, whose innocence had so impressed me, explained that he was looking for a friend from Greenfield on the 11:40 train. "We've come over to take in the cattle show at the fair grounds," he added.

"I prided myself on directing him carefully as he got off the car, but worried, nevertheless, when I thought what an easy mark he would make for a sharper."

"Instinctively I felt for my own purse and—it was gone. My own back would have been a more appropriate place for that green suit."—Columbus Dispatch.

YOUR COLD IS EASED AFTER THE FIRST DOSE

"Pape's Cold Compound" then breaks up a cold in a few hours

Relief comes instantly. A dose taken every two hours until three doses are taken usually breaks up a severe cold and ends all the gripe misery.

The very first dose opens your clogged-up nostrils and the air passages in the head, stops nose running, relieves the headache, dullness, feverishness, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffing! Clear your congested head! Nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only a few cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, contains no quinine—insist upon Pape's—Adv.

REAL THOUGHTFUL OF HIM

Young Man Proved He Appreciated Position Man Who Had Missed Train Would Be In.

"That seat is taken!" snapped the stout old gentleman in the railway carriage when the youth sought to move a handbag from the opposite seat. "My—er—friend will be back presently"

The youth murmured an apology and went out, only to hang about the door. Time passed. Presently the guard blew his whistle and the train started to move.

With a bound the lad was back in the carriage and had thrown the bag on the platform.

"How dare you, sir!" gasped the old gentleman. "What did you do that for?"

"Well," said the lad, sweetly, "your friend has evidently lost his train, and I didn't want him to lose his bag as well!"

Sound Finance.

"Tell me, Ethel, is it true that your husband stays late every night at the club to play billiards for—money?"

There was a sob in the anxious mother's voice as she spoke the last sad words. But her recently wed daughter smiled brightly as she replied.

"Yes, mother, but it's quite all right. He gives me all his winnings!"

"What!" gasped the elder lady. "You—"

"He always plays with Mr. Jones next door," went on Ethel. "And Mrs. Jones makes him give her all his winnings, and she gives me all the money I get, and so we both have twice as much as we could get out of them otherwise."—London Answers.
