

Timely Christmas Suggestions

Do you realize it is only ten days until Christmas? And the longer you wait in selecting your gift the smaller the assortment is to choose from. I have a good selection yet to choose but do not wait too long. If you do not care to take gifts with you, will lay them away for you.

Furs

In furs I have carefully selected the styles and quality. There is nothing one can get more good out of than a fur shoulder piece. It can be worn alone, as a wrap, with a suit or in real cold weather with a coat. Come in and look the stock over before you purchase elsewhere.

Hand Bags

A hand bag is always a useful as well as a necessary article for a lady. Just received a new assortment in the tooled leather in the beaver and browns. Have some nice ones in black leather. Prices from

$3 to $9

Come in and see the new things in leather handbags which came in this week. It has been a long time since we had so good a grade in a leather hand bag as I am now showing. In the tooled leather from

$4 to $7

Handkerchiefs

One never gets too many handkerchiefs. A nice handkerchief is always appreciated by any one. I have chosen my line very carefully as to grade and price. Have a nice line in whites and all the dainty colors so much in use now. From

6c to 75c

Blouses

Just received a new lot of blouses in Georgette Tricoletta and Crepe de Chine. Also a few in the more practical stamped wash silk. From

$3.25 to $11

Silks

It goes without saying, a waist or dress as a gift is always acceptable to Miss or Matron. They never get to many. When you buy silk here you can be assured that the quality is the best and the price as low as good silk can be sold for. Have Beldings silk in most all the wanted shades.

Blankets

Have only eight pairs left. Three in part wool at $6.50 and the all wool from $9.75 to $16. These are all new bought this fall, and priced as low as a good all wool blanket can be sold for. Infants blankets from

95c to $1.60

The above are only a few of the good practical gifts I have in stock. I have a good line in the following items I will be glad to show if you will only come in. The prices are as low as a good grade of goods can be sold for. In buying the first thing to consider is quality.

Sunday School Convention

The Sunday school convention of the North East District met in Room 1111, Sunday afternoon at the M. E. church. It was well attended and an enthusiastic crowd of young people led the exercises for the afternoon.

There are thirty-two Sunday schools over the county and there were some five ones represented there.

Mrs. C. C. Street of Bladen read a paper on Sunday school organization, which was so good that it is going to be published by the County Secretary in the newspapers.

Webster County is divided into five districts, North East, North West, South East and South West with Red Cloud a whole district by itself, and each has its own set of officers and holds separate conventions annually.

An important question was asked in the question box, "Are our Sunday Schools serving this county?" Are they serving the people and their needs?

We are not as eager to help build up the Sunday School it seems nowadays, as a long time ago when it was a popular society. We do not find many young men and women making it their special work. The Sunday School in the rural districts are mostly deserted of the young people. You can travel a distance of ten miles in the North East district and not find one Sunday School—and as a contrast, for a stretch of ten miles in the South West district you find eight Sunday Schools therein.

Every important line of Sunday School work was discussed from the Cradle Roll to the Home department. The special singing was splendid, especially the male quartet from the Rosemont Sunday School.

It was a profitable afternoon for all who attended.

Dr. Wells Lectures Here

Friday evening proving very stormy, the lecture of Dr. John Mason Wells, at the Baptist church, was not very largely attended, but those few dozens who braved the storm, were greatly pleased with the fine thing they heard in his talk on "The Hopes of Humanity."

Mr. S. J. Davidson played a beautiful selection on his violin and answered queries by a vocal party on "Auntie."

Rev. J. J. Newland introduced the speaker of the evening in a few well chosen words.

In the lecturer's introductory remarks, he spoke of how he liked Nebraska, and its people having come out of the East but three months ago, and in that short time had been used to speak fifty times.

In the hopes he mentioned for humanity, he stated that he realized these came from, and were expressed by the thoughtful men and women of every nation. Or from the thinkers—wise with the wisdom which comes with deep reading, lonely meditation and fervent study, who realize that there is on, a great crisis in the world's history.

His first hope was that of peace. That this argument conference now in session was demanded or really forced to come to pass by the cry of the whole world. That it is really imperative that the great expenditure of money for armament and munitions of war, should be turned for constructive rather than destructive purposes.

The second hope was for Temperance and righteousness to rule the world. What an advanced step the best and present generations have made in abolishing the public saloon. An obligation rests on every law abiding citizen to cooperate in all ways to see that the prohibition law is enforced.

The third hope was that of liberty. Liberty for all peoples within our bounds.

The fourth hope was for cooperation. Co-operation in all walks of life—religion, schools, business, and all the nations of the world can work in accord with a League of Nations.

The fifth hope was that of neighborliness. We should not divide ourselves off into social, business, religious and political groups to out rival each other, but be neighborly, let the community spirit grow and with something in common, the recreation and amusement problems, and the peoples in need, will then all be looked after

Democrats to Meet in Omaha, January 14th

Omaha, December 23, Democrats of the state are to initiate the 1920 campaign with a big meeting here January 14th.

On the afternoon of that day the members of the State Committee will gather, in the evening, there will be a banquet with both ladies and gentlemen of democracy participating. There will be national speakers present, including United States Senator G. M. Hitchcock, who will be back from Washington to attend the affair. Everybody is invited. The doors will be wide open.

Decision to hold the meeting was reached at a conference of executive committee here. Those in attendance were hopeful of the future and report a gain in democratic sentiment in various parts of the state. Ex-Governor Keith Neville, following the meeting, on behalf of the executive committee issued a statement in which he said:

"The democrats of Nebraska are 'par'ia to go."

"Government of the people, by the people, and for the people, has got to be restored in Nebraska. It is the purpose and duty of the democratic party, if again entrusted with power, to restore it."

"Nebraska is hard up. There is no use trying to dodge the fact. Conditions affect not alone the farmers, who are the backbone of the state but every line of activity and business. Banks are passing dividends, business houses big and little are struggling to keep out of the red ink column, many workmen are unemployed, and the farmers are desperates."

"It is an impudent outrage, a travesty on the forms of popular government, that at such a time the state administration should be collecting unheard of taxes and pouring the proceeds out like water. It is a calamity that state legislation has been largely responsible for forcing a like policy upon the minor subdivisions of government."

"Democrats demand and will pledge themselves to retrenchment and reform."

"The first and imperative duty is to cut down taxes to a point where the people will be able to pay them without going into bankruptcy. The next is to reduce appropriations accordingly. The government of Nebraska has got to be put on a poor man's diet for a while, and compelled to get along without champagne and ruffles. It has got to learn to do without."

"Nebraska taxpayers are loaded down with job-holding leeches they don't need and would be better off without."

"Government has gone off on a drunken tear of new laws and new officers to enforce each new law, till every citizen is carrying an official on his back. The people are not only taxed to death, but they are beset and directed and meddled with and tormented till the situation has become both ridiculous and unendurable. The result is the laws we do need are losing their force and effect, and even our indispensable officials have grown lazy and indifferent and inconsequential."

"The democratic party of Nebraska, if I am any judge of democratic sentiment, is going to make a fight for a return to first principles next year."
