

Relics of Saints to Be Placed in Sacred Heart Altar

High Dignitaries to Perform Ritual at Omaha Church Founded 20 Years Ago.

Relics of four saints and martyrs in the Catholic church will be inserted in the marble altar stone of Sacred Heart church, Twenty-second and Binney streets, during the solemn consecration of the edifice to God on June 25.

Rev. F. J. Judge, pastor of the church, received the relics two days ago direct from Rome, together with documents of authentication from the Congregation of Rites in the Vatican. Splinters of the bones of St. Lawrence, martyr; St. Marcellinus, pope and martyr; St. Pantaloon and St. Alexander constitute the mementos to be placed in the marble sepulcher of the Sacred Heart altar when Archbishop J. J. Glennon of Omaha consecrates the church.

Consecration of a church is one of the most solemn and elaborate services in the Catholic faith, and grand exercises are planned for this occasion, Father Judge stated.

K. of C. Banquet.

Among the church dignitaries to be present will be Archbishop J. J. Glennon of St. Louis, who will deliver the consecration sermon; Bishop T. W. Drumm of Des Moines, Ia., and Bishop Edmund Heelan of Sioux City. The past assistant priests of Sacred Heart church and clergy from all parts of the country will also attend the services.

Consecration of the church will begin at 8 on the morning of June 25, feast of the sacred heart, and will be followed by solemn high mass at 10:30.

The Knights of Columbus will tender a banquet to the visiting delegates and Father Judge at 1:30 that afternoon in the Hotel Fontenelle. Evening services in Sacred Heart church will consist of solemn pontifical vespers, Bishop Drumm to be celebrant.

Impressive Ceremony.

The consecration services will be most unusual. A procession of clergy, acolytes, masters of ceremony, Fourth degree Knights of Columbus and church dignitaries in elaborate robes will start from the church pastorate and march three times around the edifice, each carrying a relic. Archbishop Harty blessing the walls and foundation with holy water and anointing with oil six crosses carved in stone at the doors. At the final circuit, the procession will halt and Archbishop Harty will kneel on the front door of the church, with his hands raised, at the same time saying: "Lift up ye gates, ye prince of the Holy Church of God bids to enter." A deacon within the church, will answer: "Who is this prince of God?" To which Archbishop Harty will reply: "The Lord, strong and powerful."

At the opening of the doors, the procession will march inside the church and three times through the aisles, Archbishop Harty blessing the altar walls and 12 crosses with attached candles fixed on the walls. The church dignitaries will then escort Archbishop Harty to the main altar, around which he will march seven times, blessing it with incense. Following the blessing of the floor of the church by tracing the Greek alphabet with blessed ashes in the form of huge crosses, Archbishop Harty will place the relics of the four saints and martyrs in the marble sepulcher of the altar, sealing the lid with cement. Five crucifixes on the main altar then will be blessed, followed by solemn high mass. Persons will be admitted into the church just before mass begins. Archbishop Glennon will deliver the consecration sermon at this mass.

On the feast of the Sacred Heart 30 years ago, Sacred Heart church was dedicated. Father Judge, founder of Sacred Heart parish, considers the coming occasion of the consecration one of the important achievements of his career as a priest.

At the banquet in the Hotel Fontenelle, John Rush will be toastmaster. Prominent persons in this city will be invited. Knights of Columbus have 500 tickets to sell to the banquet. Mayor Dahlman will give an address of welcome to the church dignitaries. William Gurley will deliver an address followed by responses by the visiting prelates. George Merton will talk on the Sacred Heart church and school, and assist to this city and state.

Consecration services of the church will be concluded with vespers in the evening. Bishop Heelan of Sioux City will deliver the sermon.

Railroad-Owned Elevators Plan of Trade Body

Federal Trade Commission Makes Recommendation to Congress in Report on Grain Marketing.

Washington, June 17.—Legislation requiring operating of public terminal grain elevators by railroad companies was recommended to congress yesterday by the federal trade commission in a report on terminal grain marketing, which also urged improved banking facilities for the movement of grain in the northwest. Elimination of the financing of commission houses by terminal elevators, improvement in the methods of marking up cash quotations and the elimination or reduction of so-called insurance charges levied on country shippers at Duluth, were among other recommendations.

The commission was of the opinion that "grain merchandising on the part of operators of licensed public elevators appears to be contrary to sound principle of public warehousing leading to dissatisfaction on the part of growers and millers and to ill feeling throughout the grain trade. This situation, according to the commission, gives large elevator merchandisers a practical control of deliverable grain at the terminal market, facilitates the manipulation of futures and "has doubtless been at times responsible for the failure of the cash and future market to move in harmony."

The commission recommended that railroads be required to operate elevators for the convenience of their shippers. Restoration of a normal situation as regards the use of public storage in the grain trade, the commission asserted, would be so generally beneficial to the trade and to the public as to justify such legislation.

Regarding the practice of "scaling" cash grain, the commission declared that "as conducted at Minneapolis," it has been to a large degree at the expense of the consignee business and of the consumers and recommended that the employment of the practice by concerns or individuals in any way connected

Strong Strike Vote Cast Here, Says Official

Overwhelming Majority of Rail Shopmen Balloting in Favor of Walkout, Asserts Johnson.

An overwhelming majority of votes are being cast in favor of a strike by Omaha, Council Bluffs and South Omaha railway shopmen, according to J. A. Johnson, secretary and treasurer of the Union Pacific System federation.

Blacksmiths and boiler-makers started balloting Wednesday night in Omaha, following specially called meetings. Union officers say they are determined to get the vote of the full membership, and the balloting of these two organizations has not been closed.

Start Vote.

Machinists were to start balloting Friday night, and results should be known some time Saturday, according to Tom Wilson, business agent. Electricians started voting Saturday night and sheet metal workers will cast their ballots Tuesday night.

Carmen voted Wednesday night in South Omaha and Thursday night in Omaha. Council Bluffs boiler-makers cast their votes Wednesday night, carmen Thursday night and machinists Friday night.

Men Show Enthusiasm.

Mr. Johnson, who has been a speaker at several of the meetings which were called for balloting, asserts that these meetings were quiet and orderly, but that the men showed enthusiasm.

"The vote will be heavy for the strike on the ballot pertaining to wage cuts," said Johnson. "I believe a majority will vote to strike on the other two ballots, pertaining to overtime and contracting out of shops, as well. I have nothing definite regarding how the vote is going in the Union Pacific system as yet, but I would predict it will favor a strike at almost every point."
