

Dunphy Asserts Charges Against Him Are Untrue

Discord Due to Fact Pilots Not Allowed to Use Government Property, Says Superintendent.

This statement in regard to alleged discord within ranks of the air mail personnel was issued yesterday by A. R. Dunphy, superintendent of the central division, with headquarters at Omaha.

"Referring to alleged charges against myself and assistant, I wish to state that the majority of all of the personnel of the division is heartily in favor of our supervision; that statements of Pilot H. G. Smith, Frank R. Yager or others to the contrary are untrue; that the following pilots, representing the very cream of the service, did not sign the petition referred to above: E. Hamilton Lee, L. H. Garrison, Jack Webster, Jack Knight, J. P. Murray, H. A. Chandler.

Others Favorable.
"Other pilots assure me that their attitude is favorable."

"This movement was conducted by two pilots who were not allowed to take government property for their personal use. The petition would never have amounted to anything had it been circulated while I was on the division to protect myself, but the perpetrators passed it around while I was on my honeymoon and not here to defend myself."

"Relative to my attitude toward retaining the air mail for the city of Omaha, I need only invite attention to the fact that my wife is an Omaha girl; that I have worked diligently with the Aero club and the transportation committee of the Chamber of Commerce of this city for the landing field because the present Ak-Sar-Ben field is not large enough, and have spoken before the Chamber of Commerce and Rotary club in behalf of a new field. I am sure that any fair-minded man will agree that the new field is needed in order for Omaha to hold the position to which it is entitled. I expect to make Omaha my home in future and any charges that I desire the air mail moved from Omaha are without foundation."

Hopes for Investigation.

"No charges were made against me in Smith's petition because there are none to make. However, it was stated that my removal was desired because I 'lacked experience.' I have as much experience for the position I hold as any man in the United States, having already been division superintendent two years and was manager of the air mail fields at Chicago for nearly a year before being promoted to division superintendent. "I have requested postoffice inspectors be sent to this division because I am proud of the fact that my division has always operated for thousands of dollars less per month than either of the two other divisions for the same mileage. We also covered 700 more miles per day than either of the other divisions, and have completed a larger percentage of our possible mileage."

"The primary reason for the movement to replace me is that I have not permitted certain pilots to have their own way, which, if permitted, would have necessitated me betraying the trust imposed in me by the Postoffice department."

"I hope that a most thorough investigation will be made by the Postoffice department and suitable action taken in every case."

"The supreme court cannot crush the labor movement without endangering the foundations of society," declared the report. "The workers will not accept slavery. Therefore, they will find a way to preserve those liberties which they have and to gain more as time passes."

Radio an Asset to Every Farmer

Market and Weather Reports, News and Concerts Entertain Family Circles on Farm.

By JOHN E. KENNEDECK.
(This is the thirteenth installment of The New Story of Radio.)

The day of the "rube" is past. The telephone, the newspaper, the phonograph, the movies, the automobile and the mail-order catalog have made him quite worldly, as it were.

With the advent of the radio, the farm has become akin to a city home. He may sit at home evenings and listen to grand opera that may be broadcast from some distant city, or to the late news dispatches that would otherwise take days to reach him. The market and weather reports may come humming to his ears.

The radiophone is destined to establish a stronger link between the cities and the rural districts. A farmer with a receiving set in Fremont has no advantage whatever over a rancher with a receiver in the cattle ranges of the far west. Radio reaches them both at the same time.

Radio telephony will allow the farmer to keep up to the minute on the vital questions of politics, economics, and general news. Heretofore, the farmer generally received market reports at least one day late, while now with the aid of a receiving set he may learn the fluctuations of the market as they are given out from broadcasting stations four or five times a day.

The Bureau of Agriculture at Lincoln has had blanks for market reports printed for distribution among the farmers of the state, so well has radio taken the country.

Weather reports broadcast by radio is also an invaluable aid to the farmer in the far distant sections of the country.

Just as the farmer learned to start an automobile, so will he learn to manipulate the dials of a radio receiver. It is the last chapter in making a city of the country.

New Invention Assures Secrecy in Messages

John Hays Hammond, whose radio-controlled yacht caused a sensation several years ago, announces a new invention which practically will revolutionize radio communication. He has perfected secrecy in messages.

The new apparatus, technical details of which are for the present withheld, allows transmission simultaneously of scores of messages on the same wave length, while reception will be accomplished only by receivers attuned magnetically to each of the various transmitters.

Novel System.
Practically it works this way: If all the broadcasting stations in the country were located in Chicago, and all equipped with the Hammond apparatus were broadcasting concerts scriber by the broadcasting company. Spark stations located near the Hammond receivers do not cause interference it is said, yet tuning in on the new device is so selective that both code and voice messages can be sent simultaneously on a very slight variation of the same wave length without interfering with one another. Details will be made public when application is made to the patent office for patent rights.

Sparks

The April issue of the Radio Service Bulletin, issued monthly by the bureau of navigation, Department of Commerce, contains a full list of the broadcasting stations in the United States, together with their call numbers and locations. This should be of use to all radio operators.

A one wire antenna will be available for use for receiving. String your wire as high as possible and away from obstruction. Point the antenna in the direction that you wish to receive from for the most efficient results. The end of the antenna at which the lead-in is brought in is the pointer end and should be directed at the transmitting station you wish to listen to most regularly.
