

Davis Discusses Farmers' Problem From Experience

Clean Government and Law Enforcement Emphasized by Candidate for Senate in Speeches in Nebraska.

(Following is the fourth of a series of articles from a staff correspondent of The Omaha Bee, describing the campaign of various candidates for office in Nebraska and endeavoring to picture the state of the public mind. The series will be published from day to day, covering republican, democratic and progressive activities.)

By PAUL GREER.

Hebron, Neb., July 8.—(Special Telegram.)—Clarence A. Davis is seeking the republican nomination for the United States senate with clean government, law enforcement and steady, consistent progress as his slogans.

He has back of him four years as attorney general of Nebraska and is willing to stand or fall by the record he has made. Setting out by automobile from Superior yesterday morning, Mr. Davis visited Nelson, Clay Center, Bruning and Hebron. Those who heard him talk regarded him as a shrewd, straightforward son of the short grass country.

His home is in Holdrege, where he has both farming and banking interests. Out of his double experience has developed ability to look at both sides of the problems of agriculture.

Favors Co-Operation.

"The federal reserve system is splendid," he told his audience of 60 at Nelson, "but it is unsuited to the needs of the farmers." He criticized the limitations put on loans and made the point that six months is too short a time for farmers who borrow. Not only should western agriculture be represented on the federal reserve board, he declared, but the directors of the district that includes Nebraska should not be tied down by rules suited only to manufacturing and commercial lines.

Encouragement of co-operative marketing, to enable farmers to hold their crops for gradual sale in the effort to stabilize prices, is another plan emphasized. He also opposes the issuance of tax exempt securities.

Combats Howell Ideas.

If the paths of Mr. Davis and of R. B. Howell ever cross, a most interesting debate might result. Without indulging in any direct references, Mr. Davis is combating the ideas of the manager of Omaha's municipal utilities.

"I am against municipal, state or national ownership," Mr. Davis declares. "I am definitely opposed to public ownership of all railroads, or of half of the railroads. As it is now, many localities secure a great part of their taxes from the railroad lines passing through them. To nationalize these lines would throw the entire burden of taxation on the residents of these communities. No private enterprise can compete with a publicly owned one so long as the publicly owned one is free from taxation."

There is a squariness about the jaw of Strike at General Davis that is correctly read as indicating courage. He wants the people to know where he stands, and he believes that prohibition is a real issue.

There are some parts of Nebraska in which the wets are in the majority. Mr. Davis takes joy in reading the riot act to violators of the liquor laws.

Enforced Dry Law.

"Two thousand liquor prosecutions have been carried on by my office," he begins. "Several local officials have been removed for failure to do their duty in prohibition cases. One of the reasons for trouble in enforcing the law is that so many men elected to office are politically dry, but personally wet."

"Just in proportion as you scoff at or violate the prohibition act, just so you strike at good government and all law," he continues.

"There is no more dangerous citizen than he who is encouraging or abetting the violation of the dry laws. In one of the countries where I spoke a few days ago, I saw a card that had been passed out by a candidate for sheriff. He had printed there the statement that he believed there were some laws which violated the constitution and which ought not to be enforced."

A phenomenon in many counties is the large number of candidates for the office of sheriff. In one county, in the northern part of the state, there are 10 republican candidates and five democrats. Two of these are rumored to be bootleggers. In another county the sheriff was asked why there are so many men competing to fill his position.

"I don't know," he said humorously, "unless it is about the only place a man can be sure of getting a drink."

Discusses Home Problems.

Some drys out in the state claim that law enforcement of the prohibition law is being promised by some county candidates. There are many places where interest in fights for county offices is keener than for state or national ones. In some of these the issue of lower taxes is to the fore. The realization has come that most of the burden of taxation is that imposed by local rather than state expenditures.

As Mr. Davis says to his hearers, some of the questions he discusses are not strictly those with which a United States senator has to deal, but simply those which good citizens must think about. He has prepared a nonpolitical address entitled "The Church and the Law," which he has already delivered from the pulpits of churches of various denominations in North Platte, Beatrice, Gothenburg and Lincoln.

Free, creed and class feuds, he holds, drive a spear at the heart of good government. On national issues, today, he registered opposition to the league of nations and to cancellation of the allied debt to the United States.

At the close of his remarks applause never fails. He steps into his car and is off for the next town.

Pioneer Resident Dies.
Mrs. Sam Finkenstien, 55, 2527 Blondo street, a resident of Omaha for 33 years, died at 7:30 this morning at her home. Funeral services will be held at 2 tomorrow afternoon from the home.
