

Havelock Poor Place to 'Spoon', Residents Warn

Federal Judge Remands Railway Searchlight Case to Lancaster County Court.

Following their failure to obtain relief in United States district court here Wednesday, residents of Havelock, Neb., warned lovers that their town should be shunned as a woeing place.

"Searchlights play over all the city at most unexpected moments," one of the residents said, "and front porch parties are subject to embarrassing interruptions."

Judge Woodrough remanded the case to the district court of Lancaster county and the application of several citizens for restraining order to stop the Burlington railway from using its powerful searchlights will be argued there.

Many affidavits were presented to Judge Woodrough showing that the searchlights were in use. One said the beams aggravated the illness of a child.

The projector throws its rays principally over the 100 acres covered by the Burlington's 1,000 shops and yards and is a defense against possible strike violence.

Small Twister Sweeps Strip Near Bloomfield

Bloomfield, Neb., July 26.—(Special.)—A small twister swept through the country five miles east of here Sunday evening. The barns on the Hans Sass and John Bucholz farms were destroyed and also many small outbuildings. A granary on the John Hambleth farm was wrecked and many trees were blown down. The "high line" of Tri-State Utilities company was hit by a storm and 35 poles were blown down.

Bloomfield was without electric service until Monday evening, when the current was turned on. A big force of men worked all day to get the damage repaired.

Several places northeast of here are reported to have been badly damaged by hail. Two-tenths of an inch of rain fell here. The storm struck at 7:30.

Tri-State Showers Playing Favorites

Abundant Rain Falls in Localities in Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota.

Sioux City, Ia., July 26.—Rain has been playing favorites during the last week, crop reports from Iowa, South Dakota and Nebraska indicate. Rain has fallen abundantly in some localities while passing up others altogether.

Threshing is in full swing in Iowa, reports indicate. The corn is in good condition with many localities begging rain. Tasseling of corn is in full progress. Iowa's early potatoes are on the market.

Although the oats straw is short, the yield will be up to average, reports from Nebraska indicate. Despite the fact that the ground is dry, the corn crop is in good condition yet, having approached the tasseling stage. Threshing is under way and harvesting is nearly completed. Winter wheat is making 30 bushels to the acre.

Shortage of labor in many South Dakota localities, with an epidemic of hog diseases in Jerrald county, are outstanding features in Dakota reports. Many small grains will show a light yield. The apple crop is said to be the best in years. Haying is still on and livestock is reported to be doing well.

Road conditions in the three states are reported to be in fair shape.

Pioneer Omaha Teacher Dies at Cambridge, Neb.

Mrs. Kate Parker Fodrea, who died Saturday at her home in Cambridge, Neb., and was buried in Wuyka cemetery, Lincoln, Monday afternoon, was a resident of Omaha in her girlhood and again in 1892. The Parker family home in the 60s was on Dodge street, west of the high school.

Born February 1, 1851, at Columbus, O., she came with her parents overland to Omaha in 1863. Later she was a school teacher here and married Nathan Fodrea, also a pioneer educator. The Fodrea family resided at various Nebraska points, including West Point, Cambridge, Beaver City, Cedar Rapids, Grand Island and Lincoln.

Mrs. Fodrea was a member of the Nebraska Territorial Pioneer association, Daughters of the American Revolution, Order of the Eastern Star and Lincoln First Baptist church.

Aged Couple Stranded on Wagon Trip to Dakota Town

Norfolk, Neb., July 26.—(Special Telegram.)—Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Shaw, 87 and 86, respectively, are stranded here. The old couple are en route in a covered wagon from Missouri to Aberdeen, S. D., where they have relatives.

Mrs. Shaw is suffering from a broken hip and is in the hands of local charitable organizations. Shaw, who is a civil war veteran and a former circus clown, says he could have made the trip unassisted, but Mrs. Shaw became ill and he could go no farther.

Station WIAK will operate on a 485-meter wave length. It is a 250-watt station, the transmitter being equipped with five 50-watt oscillating tubes and five 50-watt modulators. It is run with a 2,000-volt generator. The poles bearing the aerial rise to a height of 100 feet and are connected by a cage aerial. To insure service under adverse weather

SPARKS

Amateurs are writing to The Omaha Bee asking how they may connect a loud speaker to a set that uses a crystal detector. This cannot be done unless the signals are already received so loud that the receivers can not be worn with comfort.

The average loud speaker will not make the signals any louder; it will simply concentrate the sound to a certain extent and take away some of the tinny sound as heard in the receivers when they are put on the table.

Another thing that can not be done with any degree of success is adding amplifiers to a crystal set. If the beginner is going to add the amplifiers he may just as well install a vacuum tube detector also, as the battery will have to be purchased anyway. Using amplifiers with a crystal set is very apt to make the set "noisy" and the operator will hear all kinds of squeaks and squeals. This is especially true when the detector is being put in adjustment.

Orange or white shellac may be used to fasten tin foil on the rear of the panel. Be sure to cut the foil away around all parts that are fastened directly to the panel except the ground binding post, as the foil must be grounded.

Strikers Forfeit Seniority Rights, Rail Heads Hold

Privileges Should Go to New Employees, Southwestern Executives Declare—Increase in Wages During War.

St. Louis, Mo., July 26.—The demand of strikers for the restoration of their seniority rights when they return to work was looked upon as unreasonable by the southwestern railroad executives, who issued a lengthy statement on the strike situation here yesterday.

"The new employees and those remaining should receive the benefit of the rules," the statement says in part, "and are entitled to the protection of every department of the government. Certainly if the shop employees are to be rewarded for their defiance of the government by the restoration of their seniority rights, there will be no incentive for men to stay at work in the face of future strikes and it will be impossible to get new men to fill their places."

The executives held that the strikers were not entitled to an increase in wages, on the grounds that they received three general increases in wages during the war and were given a raise by the United States Labor board May 1, 1920, and at the time they went on strike were receiving wages from 40 to 113 per cent higher than in 1917.
