FARMER'S INTEREST IN SENIORITY.

While the managers and the shop hands are excitedly debating the question of seniority rights, filling the public ear with their claims, and disturbing the vitally necessary transportation service of the whole country, another group is doing some deep thinking.

Much emphasis has been laid on the loss of wages and the waste entailed by allowing rolling stock of railroads to go without repair.

Grain and live stock markets are all shot to pieces, because of the interrupted and uncertain conditions of the transportation service.

Also, the farmer is faced with the prospect of paying high prices and going on short rations for coal again, because of the combined effect of the miners' strike and that of the shop hands.

To further add to the confusion of the deplorable situation by a sympathetic strike on part of the "Big Four" brotherhoods would merely increase the losses already sustained by the nation.

Also, let us hope the president realizes what is involved in the danger of the nation drifting into winter with coal unmined and railroad rolling stock falling to pieces for lack of care.

SAME OLD GAME: SAME OLD ANSWER.

"The victims were told they couldn't lose." This is the explanation given the police to explain the success of a swindling contrivance which has just been unearthed, following complaints of some who were swindled.

Probably no trait of humanity endures longer than the desire to get something for nothing.

However, the sure-thing man is not a gambler; he will not take a chance.

RIGHT HERE IN OMAHA.

Last Sunday The Omaha Bee printed a classic on "jay walking," from a Grand Island reader.

At one place where a street is torn up to make street railway improvements, a narrow place is left for auto traffic.

In a waiting line at a popular cafeteria a woman discovered a friend with whom she had some business to transact.

sped, until the owner discovered them and cleared the way for waiting customers.

In neither of these cases did the ones who held up traffic think of what they were doing.

TARIFF BY COMMISSION.

President Harding has, it is reported from Washington, given the senate to understand that in his opinion the tariff should have some flexibility, and that points of much difference should be left to the decision of the tariff commission after examination.

Viewed from any point, the plan deserves some criticism. It has the effect of vesting the president with a legislative capacity, which is not in harmony with the theory of our government.

The tariff commission originally was a republican institution, designed to accomplish specific work connected with the preparation of tariff schedules.

Progress now being made on the measure pending in the senate gives the impression that a vote will soon be taken, and the passage of the bill is well assured.

REFORMING LAW COURT PRACTICE.

Chief Justice Taft, addressing the American Bar association at its San Francisco convention, suggested the naming of a commission to revise existing rules and produce a simple, uniform code.

The remarks of the chief justice were elicited by a report from a committee, headed by Federal Judge Wade of Iowa, which said:

ALL IN THE DAY'S WORK.

Omaha has not been afflicted greatly by costly fires within the last few months.

Omaha has not been afflicted greatly by costly fires within the last few months.

As long as the totals were finally properly adjusted, what difference does it make as to who made the mistake in addition?

Too bad the Douglas county republicans did not ask the democrats what to do;

Madame Ganna Waleska Cochran McCormick's picture looks like the label on the bottle of a certain well known face lotion.

Considerable of the typewriting done nowadays looks as if it might have been achieved by radio, so the air service has given no cause for special wonder.

A California boy scout is giving his skin to save a comrade, thus showing how scout lessons strike home.

Give the Los Angeles police a little credit; they killed two bandits who attempted to stage a holdup.

Mathilde may soon cease to be front page copy.

On Second Thought

Some people work themselves into a frenzy over something they will never have to face.

What Other Editors Say

Has Its Rewards, After All.

From the Fremont Tribune.

Main street, after all, has its rewards!

At the first shallow thought perhaps most of us would gladly accept the opportunity to leave our little town—our community of "hicks," as some metropolitan cynics may regard our neighbors and ourselves—

For Main street also has its virtues—its solid and lasting contentment!

More than 4,000 national guardsmen are on strike duty in the states in which labor disturbances are worst.

Overworking Our Words.

Ever notice the tendency of the average American citizen to use upon one single word, roll it about on his tongue and then proceed to work it overtime?

Must Fit Uniform and Job.

Where did you dig up that uniform, boy?

"These classes of employees," said Mr. Morgan, in his report on the apartment and large office buildings in his charge.

Money Talks.

Money talks. You may not have heard it whisper, but nevertheless it talks just as loudly as any other language.

Autumn.

There is a wonderful inspiration in an Iowa landscape these days.

with a pep that is unusual in the dog days of August.

Learn a Trade.

Why is it that in this day and age so few boys are taught a trade?

Costly.

Omaha, Aug. 10.—To the Editor of The Omaha Bee: Would like to write a few lines through your paper in regard to what some officials call "amateur" baseball.

Simply Impossible!

Whatever the cost of the high tariff will be, it won't be anything like the cost to the American people of the low tariff of the last few years.—Dubuque Times Journal ously? They reclassified their freight and instead of us getting a reduction, we got it in the neck for a 4 per cent increase in freight rates.

Defrauding the men from a fair wage calls from heaven for vengeance.

Now, the main question is: Who are the officials, and what do they do with the money? John Dennison is at the head of the umpire.
