Brown to Take Stand Monday in Own Defense

State Rests Case—County Attorney Charges Opposing Counsel Trying to Prejudice Jury.

The state rested in the trial of Fred Brown at noon Saturday and Brown is scheduled to take the stand Monday morning at first witness of the defense.

County Attorney Abel Shotwell Saturday morning charged that attorneys for the defense were trying to prejudice the jury by making "arguments" in the form of repeated and lengthy objections to questions he put to witnesses regarding Brown's flight after the kidnaping of which he is charged. Judge Leslie advised the attorneys to avoid cumbering the record.

Walter Schroeder, assistant state probation officer, told of his encounter with Brown in Lincoln three days after the alleged kidnaping of Jean Jenkins and Catherine Mc Manaman, May 27.

Tells of Escape.

"He was hidden between two buildings when I flashed my light on him. "He fired at me twice and I fired thrice at him. Then I went to summon help. He escaped."

Deputy Sheriffs Hoye and Welch, testified regarding the rescue of the girls.

Sitting in the corridor outside the court room, Jean Jenkins, 20, divorced, seemed to have forgotten the ordeal of the witness stand where her reputation was attacked, forgotten bright lights and cabarets.

Holds Baby

She held in her arms a tiny baby, belonging to Miss McManaman's sister. She was unconscious of the curious eyes that rested on her, the sensation seekers who pointed her out.

She crooned a little lullaby and in her eyes was the age-old look of love and tenderness. The innocent eyes of the babe looked up at her and suddenly the child laughed and extended a tiny hand and touched the girl's cheek. She hugged it tight.

"Oh, the baby is so sweet and so good," she said. "I just love to hold her in my arms."

27 Killed in Smelters in '21.

Washington, Oct. 14.—Metal mills and smelters, excluding iron blast furnaces, took a death toll of 27 employes in 1921, according to figures compiled today by the bureau of mines from statements of the operating companies. The companies reported 61 deaths in 1920.

Beauty Advice

By Ruth Roland

LOS ANGELES, CAL.—When Ruth Roland, the beautiful actress, was interviewed and asked if she would be willing to tell the readers of this paper how she kept her complexion so youthful and fresh looking she unhesitatingly and graciously replied, "I shall be more than delighted to do so. It is a very simple matter. First and foremost absolute cleanliness is an important factor. I cleanse my face thoroughly with Lieka cold cream, after which I use a simple toilet preparation called Derwilla. I always apply this before going out.

"Anyone can beautify their complexion if they will use these preparations. Derwilla and Lieka cold cream. I have no difficulty in securing them at almost every toilet counter.

"The first application of Derwilla will astonish you, as it gives the skin a youthful appearance and a clear baby softness every normal woman desires. If you wish to instantly have a beautiful rose-white complexion and soft unwrinkled skin, try Derwilla and you will be delightfully surprised. For sale at the toilet counters of all department and drug stores, including Sherman & McConnell (8) stores.

Wife Proficient in Swear Words, Husband Alleges

Three Witnesses Testify to Woman's Aversion to Housework in Her Suit for Divorce.

Papillion, Neb., Oct. 14.—(Special.)—"Shady stories" alleged to have been told by Mrs. Charles H. Harper in their presence at the Harper home were whispered this morning by three witnesses in district court here in the suit for divorce and $25,000 filed by Mrs. Harper against her husband.

All three witnesses testified for the defense. They were Charles H. Harper, the husband, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lawson, 3822 Gordon street. Mrs. Lawson is Mr. Harper's sister.

Harper testified his wife held an aversion for housework and was proficient in profanity, which he alleged had become a habit with her.

He denied ever having used profanity himself and said he never had threatened to commit suicide in their home as she alleged.

Alleges Poison Threats.

Harper declared there was no understanding between him and his wife, either before or after their marriage, that he would take his four children by another marriage and send them away.

"She threatened to poison 'every last one of them,'" he testified.

She wouldn't do housework, he alleged, and he had to take care of the four little girls as well as cook meals.

In the first week of October, 1921, he declared, she came home at 6 in the morning one day, and he saw a man drive away from in front of the house in an automobile.

When he asked her where she had been and what she had been doing, she told him it was "none of his business," slapped him, threw a vase which hit him in the head, and then ran to the kitchen where she got a big knife and was just rushing at him, he testified, when Robert Lawson stopped her and disarmed her.

Tell of "Scenes."

She continually declared she "wouldn't have those kids around," he declared.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawson told practically the same story on the witness stand as Harper, testifying they had witnessed a number of "scenes" when they visited the Harper home.

Mrs. Lawson related how, on one occasion when she went to the Harper home, she was telling of having completed all her housework and Mrs. Harper informed her she "wouldn't be a domestic for any damned cur."

Hearing today was held before Judge James T. Begley and was a continuance of the hearing started last Monday.

Mrs. Harper, nee Mary Wenonah Horrigan, daughter of Mrs. Edward Horrigan, 221 South Twenty-fifth street, was married to Harper, a brother of H. H. Harper, Omaha real estate man, in Omaha August 15, 1921 when she was 19.

Mrs. Harper sued for divorce and $25,000, alleging her husband is worth $100,000. Harper filed an answer and cross petition. He now lives on a farm at Bellevue.

The Tailor Who Sells BETTER Tailor-Made Clothes for Men for LESS Money

EVERY snappy dresser, every keen judge of tailoring values is staring in amazement at the clothing values offered to Omaha men by HARRY MASON, THE TAILOR. The young fellows, who want the keenest stuff going, are finding here styles and materials to delight the heart. Older men, who want the more conservative styles and materials, find their search ended when they come into our door, for here we carry merchandise to satisfy all.

Suits

The art of tailoring reaches perfection as practiced by Harry Mason the Tailor. The most skilled union labor only is employed to fabricate the suits turned out here. Perfect tailors, doing high-grade work perfectly! That's what you'll find when you come here to order your new fall suit.

Cleverly designed to fit your figure. A suit tailored by Harry Mason can't help making you look better, because it shows off your good points and covers up those less desirable. Harry Mason came to Omaha, knowing it to be a town of good dressers, but confident that he could show even Omaha a better grade of tailoring. AND HE'S DOING IT. ASK YOUR FRIENDS WHO WERE HERE SATURDAY. They'll tell you what a wonderful assortment of woolens and styles they saw. Don't believe us if you don't want to—just ask any of our customers. BETTER STILL, come in yourself and be convinced.

This Week Only

$32.50

Suit with an Extra Pair of

PANTS FREE!

An extra pair of trousers to match your suit is made and given to you without any charge whatsoever this week only. Practically two suits for the price of one—that's what we call doing the fair thing by our customers. Most of our suitings sell for only $32.50, though we have some at $45 and $55 if you prefer them, and the extra pants go with any suit you select. Come and make a choice today.

O'coats

Any man who wants an overcoat, for any purpose, whether it be a heavy coat to wear on stormy days, or a light topper for these cool fall mornings, is guaranteed the greatest satisfaction in this shop. It goes without saying that we offer only the finest materials, only the newest of this fall's woolens. But in addition to the best of material we make garments with that careful attention to draping that gives the much desired stylish swing and dash.

The same fine tailoring throughout goes in to HARRY MASON overcoats that you find in our suits. In fact, if you were to search the whole United States over you couldn't find better tailoring value for the money than a suit or overcoat made by us.

If you are the man whose coat collar does not fit we want to see you.

Harry's Editorial

Omaha men know good clothes. That's evident from the number that came in to see us yesterday. The fact that Harry Mason the Tailor hasn't been established in Omaha but a few days makes no difference. Somehow, the knowledge of unusual values slips through the city like lightning.

Men, I want to say that to the very best of our ability we are striving to give you values that surpass anything you can obtain anywhere in Omaha. The Harry Mason institution has been making tailored clothing for more than forty years, and, in my humble opinion, that experience is worth a lot to our customers.

A knowledge of merchandise, a skill in fitting and excellence in finishing is characteristic of this concern. We make no promises we cannot fulfil. When we tell you we make the best tailor-made clothing for men that can be made by anybody, and make it at 25% to 50% less than others, it's merely a fact that we can prove if called upon to do so. Come in and look us over today.
