

Market, Financial and Industrial News of the Day

Omaha Grain
American grain markets opened higher this morning being influenced favorably by the strong foreign cables but the run of receipts over the holidays was heavy and prices declined. There appeared to be good buying on the break, however, which steadied the market.

Chicago Grain
By CHARLES D. MICHAELS.
Chicago, Nov. 13.—The grain markets were unsettled in keeping with the character of the news. The Turkish situation restricted operations on the lower side of wheat and the average was higher, with the finish within a fraction of the top, with net gains of 1/4 cent.

Financial
NEW YORK TIMES.
New York, Nov. 13.—The point of true financial interest today was not the stock or bond markets (though there was a good deal of commotion in both), but in foreign exchange, where the movement of rates again proved in what degree that market has been subject to extravagant speculation.

New York Bonds
New York, Nov. 13.—Heavy liquidation of foreign bonds, much of it on the part of investors who have become alarmed over the Turkish situation, and the failure of the Berlin reparations conference to reach an agreement, caused a widespread break in the prices of these securities in today's market.

N. Y. Curb Bonds
The New York curb bond market today was as follows:

WHEAT.
No. 1 dark hard: 1 car, $1.17; smutty: 2 cars, $1.16; 1 car, $1.16; 1/2 car, $1.16.

General sentiment was rather mixed. Export demand was weaker than yesterday with sales of around 500,000 bushels. American hard winter wheat, which was quoted as equal to 13 1/2 cents under the market, was in demand.

Big Speculative Movement.
We have tried to see whether this recovery of floor does not indicate the abandonment of the "bear campaign." It is speculative movement for the fall, and a financial exchange. Everyone knows what the circumstances were which led to the speculative movement for the fall, and a financial exchange.
