

Russian Threat to Crimea and Ukraine Forces

Strong Russian Movements Threaten the Hold of Nazis in the South of Nation.

By EDWARD W. BEATTIE
 LONDON, Jan. 15 (UP)—A powerful Red army struck suddenly and ferociously today in a drive threatening the German armies of the Ukraine and the Crimea.

From Orel, 200 miles south of Moscow, through Kharkov to the shores of the Sea of Azov and the Crimea, the Russians smashed into the Germans on a 550-mile front.

From the north the armies of Moscow and Leningrad, still developing their own drives on the 41st day of their counter-offensive, struck tirelessly at the retreating Germans.

It was reported that the Russians had not only landed strong forces in new areas of the Crimea, in position to entrap an estimated seven-axis divisions or more than 100,000 men, but had landed a shock force on the Sea of Azov west of Taganrog, where the Germans had made a long stand along the Mius river.

Under the direction of Marshal Semyon Timoshenko, who after an emergency reorganization of the Russian southern army retook Rostov-on-Don and turned the tide against the Germans, the Russians were reported to have landed artillery as well as infantry west of Taganrog.

A Daily Herald dispatch reported that Taganrog was under heavy artillery fire and the Germans were preparing to evacuate it.

The Vichy radio broadcast a report that the Russians had landed men only 10 miles south of the town of Perekop, at the top of the Crimea, in the only path by which the axis Crimean army might hope to escape from the peninsula.

Stockholm reports said the Russians had landed on the northeastern Crimean coast as well, using flat-bottomed invasion boats, while Russian paratroopers and cavalrymen were attacking the Germans along the Sevastopol-Simferopol-Melitopol railroad, extending up through the Crimea to the west of Taganrog.

Russian troops advancing from the east end of the Crimea were reported nearing this railroad in an additional grave threat to the Germans.

The Russians who had been besieged at Sevastopol were reported to be fiercely fighting the Germans on the north side of Inkerman Bay near Sevastopol, scene of the ferocious battle of Inkerman in the Crimean war in 1854 when British and French troops defeated a Czarist army which outnumbered them more than three to one.

To the north, Russian forces were reported approaching Kharkov, industrial capital of the Donets river, driving from east and south.

Orel, midway between Kharkov and Moscow, was reported completely encircled and Russian broadcasts said ski troops, with sleigh-drawn artillery, were attacking the city.

Last night's war communiqué reported the recapture of numerous localities on the southern end of the Moscow front including the town of Medyn, 40 miles southwest of Mzhalsk and 25 miles west of Maloyaroslavets.

Russian forces were reported to be attacking both south and north of Lake Ilmen, on the Leningrad front, menacing the city of Novgorod, 95 miles south of Leningrad. Moscow reported that the Russians were attacking heavily in the Karelian Isthmus, north of Leningrad, and had killed or wounded 3,000 Finns in one sector.

The Red Cross—among its many welfare duties—frees fighting men from worry over conditions at home. Family crises are met and personal difficulties relieved. Give to the Red Cross War Fund. Now.

VISIT CASS COUNTY RELATIVES

A man who was born and reared in Cass county and possesses thirteen years' experience in the United States army came to Nebraska, visited briefly with his wife in Lincoln and relatives at Louisville. He is Staff Sergeant Lloyd "Toots" Gregory, who came from Honolulu.

He was at Louisville only one day, and was the guest of honor Monday at a dinner party, served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Terryberry. Others there were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Terryberry, Louisville, and J. R. C. Gregory of Omaha, father of the visitor. Mesdames Fred and Earl Terryberry are sisters of Mr. Gregory.

Mr. Gregory was in Honolulu when the Japs attacked Pearl Harbor on December 7. He accompanied a ship load of casuals and evacuees from Honolulu to the states and came on east for a few days leave. He returned to the coast Monday night and expects to get back into action in the near future.

Married just last June, the staff sergeant has spent six months in Singapore. When he entered the army several years ago his first three years were spent in Omaha. While he is away his wife resides in Lincoln, where she is majoring in a special medical course.

LUMBER MEN ELECT

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 15 (UP)—H. L. Rivett, president of the Rivett Lumber and Coal company here, was elected president of the Nebraska Lumber Merchants' Association at the close of its convention Wednesday.

Other officers elected include Harold Holmquist, Oakland, vice-president; C. E. Byers, Hastings, member of the advisory board of the Mid-West Lumbermen's Inter-Insurance Exchange.

Rivett, who has been vice-president, takes over the president's post from Hubert L. Kildare, Paxton, Neb.

PRICE ADMINISTRATOR LOCATED AT KANSAS CITY

OMAHA, Jan. 15 (UP)—Activities in Nebraska and a number of other midwestern states relating to the development of price policies will be handled by Jonathan Richards, who has been appointed regional representative of the Office of Price Administration in Kansas City.

Richards, formerly senior administrative officer of the Price Division, will also represent the OPA Commodity Division in the field.

An important part of his duties, according to J. K. Galbraith, assistant OPA administrator, will be to handle explanations of price actions to business men in Nebraska and other states in his area.

CRANBERRY POP-UPS

DELIGHTFUL quick rolls such as these tasty Cranberry Pop-Ups give an exhilarating lift to winter menus. They are excellent with thick chowders for simple suppers and pleasing with company dinners. The scarlet tartness of the cranberries rolled up in golden-crueted scones makes an eye-pleasing combination.

Rolls like these appeal to hungry men and starved, outdoor-active children. Made with enriched flour these quick rolls are economical contributors of those needed B-vitamins and iron. They are full of quick energy too, for Americans who must be on their productive toes.

Welcome too, are Cranberry Pop-Ups because seasonal foods are kind to war-pinched budgets. Plan to serve them often these tag-end winter days.

- CRANBERRY POP-UPS
- 2 cups sifted flour
 - 3 teaspoons baking powder
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1 tablespoon sugar
 - 4 tablespoons shortening
 - 2 eggs
 - 1/2 cup milk
 - Cranberry-Orange Filling

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut in short-

NEB. CITY HERE FRIDAY

By BEDNARD ULRICH
 Coach Hoffman is worrying plenty these days—mostly because the boys have outplayed their last three opponents but they have been unable to connect on their shots. The team has hit only 36 out of 90 free tosses but each boy takes 50 shots a night.

The following is how the boys have scored in six games. Ralph Hilt leads the scoring but the scoring is very closely bunched:

	G	FG	FT	PF	TP
Hilt, g	6	16	8-27	12	40
Bratt, f	6	16	5-12	7	37
Larson, f	6	13	2-8	9	28
Gayer, f	5	5	3-8	6	13
Slatsinsky, g	6	2	6-11	15	10
Dooley, g	6	3	3-4	7	9
Rice, c	6	2	4-9	3	7
Noble, f	6	2	1-2	2	5
Cole, f	2	1	1-1	1	3
White, g	5	0	2-5	6	2
Johnson, c	2	0	1-2	2	1

Local people have asked about the freshman five that I have so often talked about. They are in brief, the best yearlings that Coach Hoffman has had to work with. They are a team that is sparked by Sterling Cole, short boy, who pots them from anywhere. He and Joe Gradoville are the best shots on the whole team. Junior Boulden, 6 foot center is a great asset to his team because of his height and his pivot shots. Ed Bratt is the fourth and last freshman on the usual traveling squad. But Charles Wolever, Ray Simons and Dwight Atterberry help to make the team click.

RED CROSS ANSWERS CRITICISM

There has been some criticism of the Red Cross because it did not furnish free doughnuts and coffee to the soldiers in the last war. Upon examination of the facts it is doubtful if this criticism is warranted. During the last war the Red Cross did a far greater service by giving medical aid and care to those who were wounded. In war times, nine-tenths of all surgical dressings used by our army and navy is supplied by the Red Cross. The fact that the Red Cross failed to furnish doughnuts and coffee was undoubtedly due only to its lack of funds. If everyone will do his part this time, it will be possible to furnish every type of aid and comfort to our armed forces.
