Austin Everist and John Cruts were visitors at our office this week.

Don't forget that Rogers' has received a fine line of new goods.

For melons and sweet potatoes the McCook market beats the world.

Charles Love, editor of the Culbertson Sun, was in the city on Wednesday.

D. Hawksworth, G. M. M. of the B. & M. Railway was in the city on Sunday.

It was so cold on Saturday and Sunday that overcoats and furs were in demand.

S. H. Colvin and wife of the McCook House are visiting friends in Plattsmouth.

Geo. J. Frederick dropped into our office last week, and subscribed for the TRIBUNE.

J. P. Israel returned home from the Re-union Monday night.

Freight traffic has been heavy for several days, and extra trains came in at all hours.

The blonde damsels at the Re-union seemed to be very attractive to several of our young men.

Mr. W. H. Hayden, of our enterprising firm, Hayden & McCartney, was in the city on Saturday.

Mrs. J. E. Berger and her sister, Miss Flora Shaw, are visiting friends in Lincoln and other points.

Mrs. Laws and Mrs. Bosley were admitted to the fellowship of the Congregational church on Sunday.

It required one dray all day to haul to J.E. Berger's business place the new goods he received on Wednesday.

H. B. Straut and Noah Mishler, of Culbertson, were down taking in the attractions of McCook on Monday.

The handsome residence of Mr. G. L. Laws is nearing completion, and will be ready for occupancy at an early date.

Dr. And. J. Willey, who was indisposed for a few days the first of the week, we are glad to say, has entirely recovered.

Jacob Daniels, Jr., of Beverly, West Va., father of G. W. Daniels, of this city, arrived in McCook on No. 39 Tuesday.

We are in receipt of a card from Father J. A. Fanning, stating that he would say mass in McCook, on Tuesday, the 25th inst.

Hayden & McCartney received a car load of dry goods on Monday night, and have been busy this week in putting them to place.

County Treasurer Goodrich, was in the city on Tuesday. Mr. Goodrich is a candidate for re-election with a good chance of getting there.

Mrs. John Sanders, who has been visiting friends at Friend, this state, returned home on Sunday evening. She was accompanied by Master Ray.

H. M. Ashmore and J. W. Maiken of Indianola, were in town on Wednesday. Both gentlemen are interested in the growth of Red Willow county.

Rt. Rev. Bishop Clarkson, Episcopal Bishop of this state, will conduct services in McCook at an early date. Let no one miss the opportunity to hear him.

Mr. Harry Clark, operator at Strat and sister, Miss Lou, of this city, returned from Hastings, Monday night, where they had been attending the Re-union.

It is said that at the Re-union there were 256 musicians with brass instruments and 75 with fifes and drums. No wonder that the boys could not sleep.

T. W. Hughen, Cashier of State Bank of McCook, parted for his old home in Iowa, last week. Mr. H. thinks of returning to Nebraska and going into the stock business.

Among the exchanges that came to our office this week was a fac smile of the first number of the New York Sun, published September 3rd, 1833. The first publisher still lives.

Rev. Stuart Crockett held services at the church on Friday evening, but as most of the church-going people of McCook were at the Hastings Re-union, the congregation was quite small.

We would like to receive a weekly communication from each section of the county. If you know any news that will interest the readers of the TRIBUNE, send it in, and give them the benefit of it.

A state organization of the Brass Bands of Nebraska, was formed at Hastings, last Friday morning, and the efficient young Cashier of the Citizens Bank of McCook, W. F. Wallace, was elected Chairman of the Board of Directors.

As No. 39 was pulling out on Sunday, a tramp was discovered on a truck under the sleeper attempting to steal a ride. The train was signalled by a passenger who thought he was dead, and stopped. As soon, however, as the train stopped, the aforesaid tramp made awful lively tracks down toward the river for a dead man.

GRAND OPENING!

After this week we will have the largest and best stock of dry goods and groceries ever in the Republican Valley and at prices that defy competition. Before buying call and see our goods and get prices. Respectfully,

HAYDEN & MCCARTNEY.

Mr. Tom McCartney had the pleasure of showing his mother, who stopped off to see him on her way home from San Francisco, and his beautiful little niece around the city on Saturday. He accompanied them as far as Indianola and remained there over Sunday.

The B. & M. band of Plattsmouth, Nebraska, passed through the city on No. 1, Tuesday evening, en route for Denver and the mountains. This is what is termed General Manager Holdredge's band, it being composed of the painters in the B. & M. shops. They were provided with passes and a special car and seemed to be enjoying themselves. They discoursed a couple of beautiful pieces at our depot, and promised to stop over a day in McCook on their return. Our boys must prepare to give them a suitable reception.

Work was resumed on the tank to supply McCook with water on Saturday last, and the indications are fair that it will be pushed until the water works are completed. The completion of the water system will give our little city a new impetus, and will attract strangers into our midst. It will be but a short time until McCook will do the largest business, and contain the largest population in the valley. The rapid growth of McCook, the enterprise of her citizens, and the natural beauty of her location are matters of wonder to the strangers who daily get off at the station. McCook possesses all the natural advantage necessary to the growth of a large city, and there can be no doubt but that she will grow at such a rate in the next two years that her population will run up into the thousands. Live, energetic men are wanted here, and they will be warmly welcomed and well treated.

The Bridge Assured.

Pursuant to call in last week's TRIBUNE, the subscribers to the BRIDGE Fund met at the office of J. B. Meserve on Saturday afternoon, and, after canvassing the ground thoroughly, voted to locate the bridge on the half section line just south of the town. That evening a party consisting of the County Surveyor, the B. & M. Engineer and J. E. Berger, went down to the river and made a preliminary survey. They found an eligible location about twenty-five rods east of the line, with good banks and approaches on both sides, and a distance of only two hundred and seventy feet across. At the meeting a committee consisting of J. B. Meserve and C. F. Babcock, was appointed to go to Lincoln and confer with the Lincoln Land Company. Mr. Meserve, of that committee, returned home on Tuesday evening, and he stated to the writer that there was every prospect of the bridge being built at an early date, that the indications were fair that the B. & M. Railroad Co. would build the bridge, the absence of Mr. Holdredge in Dakota leaving the question open, but that if the Railroad company could not spare the men to build the bridge, it would haul the timbers free. The Lincoln Land Company also agreed to increase their subscription $200, if necessary, and otherwise aid in its construction. Our readers will readily see that the bridge is assured, and the advantages to be derived from it are so many that we will not stop to particularize.

A Fowl Assassination.

As a young man, connected with the Train Dispatchers office in this city, was wending his way home on Monday night, he was attacked by some unknown foe in a manner that threatened his life. Knowing that self preservation was one of the inalienable rights of mankind, he quietly drew his weapon of defense and with one blow, slew his assailant. Remorse then capturing his soul, he carried it into the B. & M. Eating House, and the following day he and the genial landlord dined off of it. The query now is, was it one of Mr. Sander's chickens, or did it belong to somebody else.

McCook, Sept. 13th '83.

All Odd Fellows of good standing are requested to meet at B. & M. Pharmacy, next Thursday evening, Sept. 20.

The Hastings Re-Union.

The G. A. R. re-union at Hastings, last week, attracted the largest crowd of the people that was ever in Adams county at any time since its organization. The trains leading to that city were crowded to their full capacity from Monday until Thursday, with ex-soldiers, civilians, women and children. The number of bands, too, which were in attendance was wonderful, and the sound of music never ceased. The camp was pitched on a level plain about two miles from the city, and the snowy tents as seen when approaching it presented a pleasing appearance. The men and children, however, on the broad avenues robbed it of the marked distinction of a military camp, and many an old veteran remarked that it was not much like war times. The attendance was variously estimated at from thirty-five to sixty thousand people, the larger majority of whom came from Nebraska, but there was quite a fair sprinkling from other states, some few coming from as far as New York. The B. & M. management sent 20,000 trip tickets from Hastings to the encampment grounds, supposing that would be sufficient. Thursday morning the agent at that point was obliged to re-issue 18,000 tickets, and expressed the opinion that 50,000 tickets would be required before Saturday night, making the receipts for the plug train $6,000. That the re-union was a good advertisement for Nebraska is patent, and a number of parties who came from eastern states returned home to pack up and move to prosperous Nebraska, where the willing workman can always line his pockets with money.

The G. A. R. post at Indianola, under the command of C. D. Cramer, turned out in strength, and together with the McCook Light Guard Band, represented Red Willow county in a manner that was creditable to themselves and the county.

The re-union itself was a success in numbers, but there was a lack of entertainment which detracted from its pleasures. A year ago at Grand Island a great many of the prominent men of the state, not a few of whom had political aspirations, took an active part, and different ingenious means were taken to entertain the crowd; this year that element was missed, and the labor devolved upon younger men who lacked the experience necessary to meet the requirements of the occasion. The action of the people of Hastings was far from creditable. Instead of hospitably opening their doors, and endeavoring to entertain the strangers they had invited to come to their city, they each one vied one with another to see how much money they could fleece from the crowd. The city officials also showed their moral turpitude by allowing gambling devices of various kinds to be conducted openly on her streets and in public places. Hastings has made some money, but she has established a reputation that will be hard to live down.
