Upon request of Secretary McCook, Sherman was escorted to the chair by Edmunds and Voorhees and took the oath of office, administered by Edmunds. The credentials were read, and Logan and Blair were at once sworn in by the president, pro tempore. Resolutions on the death of Hendricks were passed, after which "out of respect to the memory of the late vice president" adjourned.

House.-In the house the chamber presented a pleasant scene, the bright red car- be taken down in half a day to be used elsepet leading to an air of cheriness to the hall, which had been thoroughly renovated since last spring, while a number of desks, including that of the speaker, were decorated with flowers. SENATE.-In the senate, after the reading of the journal, the president's message was delivered by Pruden, his assistant private secretary, and, at 12:15, its reading was begun. The most impressive silence marked the reading, many senators leaning forward on their desks to catch the words of the message. The reading was concluded at 1:25 p. m. and the message was, as customary, ordered printed and to lie on the table. The chair laid before the senate the annual report of the secretary of the treasury; also a statement from the secretary of the court of claims showing the judgments rendered by that court for the past year; also the statement of the secretary of the senate, showing the receipts and expenditures of his office for the past year. The chair also laid before the senate a memorial from the legislature of New Hampshire, which requests congress to pass legislation that may secure exclusively to the American people the public lands of the United States and prevent their sales to persons other than citizens and those intending to become such. The memorial was read and referred to the committee on public lands. A large number of bills were introduced, among others one by Manderson to increase the efficiency of the infantry branch of the army; also aniring noti of deficiency in accounts of principals to be given to sureties upon bonds of United States officials, and fixing a limitation of the time within which suits shall be brought against sureties on such bonds; also re- hobble around as best they can and get quiring the transcripts of judgments of the very little or no sympathy on account of United States courts to be filed with county | their healthful look, and from the fact that officers; also to require United States it is only rheumatism and they always writing where state judges are required to have it. House.-The session of the house opened W. H. Milburn. At 12:25 the committee to wait upon the president appeared at the bar of the house and announced that it had performed its duty and been requested by the president to inform the house that he would transmit a communication forthwith. A Hegira of Near-Sighted People.

"I never realized how many near-sighted people there are in the world until I was stationed here," remarked Maj. Kenzie, who has command of the guard at the tomb of Gen. Grant at Riverside. "On Sundays there are more of them than on any other day. They come from all parts of the country--from Maine to Texas. The invariable inquiry is: "I wish you would give me a permit to go up to the grating of the tomb. I am near-sighted and can only see the bare brick-walls from the lines." Capt. Fessenden when stationed here drew the line of permits at governors of states, major generals and foreign ministers, and I have to adhere to that rule."

Many people visited Riverside yesterday, notwithstanding the threatening weather. The guard is now comfortably quartered in the frame structures which the government has put up for the troops. They were put up in sections by a patent process, and can where. Chewing Gum.

The habit of chewing gum causes certain uices which aid digestion to flow freely, unmixed with any injurious substance. The habit of chewing tobacco also causes these juices to flow freely, but the tobacco chewer either expels them from his mouth, or swallows them mixed with the poisonous juice rule now. Southern women are not physically equalled in all North America. Any physician who is as well informed as he ought to be will tell you that this is true. This change is due to the habit of chewing gum. You may smile, you may even laugh, if you please, but I am telling you a plain fact. As to Southern men, they are as thin and gaunt as they ever were, and so they wiil remain until they cease to chew tobacco
