INTERVIEWING AN ANARCHIST.

Balthazar Rau, the Chicago anarchist who was arrested night before last at the instance of the Chicago police, is still confined in the central police station. He has been removed from the iron cells where the common prisoners are generally confined and placed in the wooden cage, which is generally used for female captives. Rau passed a sleepless night, pacing restlessly to and fro in his cell. When seen by a reporter for the Herald he was seated in an arm chair calmly smoking a cigar. He was more cheerful than when first arrested, and was willing to talk quite freely.

House, May 29 .- The speaker laid before the house a letter from the secretary of state submitting an estimate of $106,100 for inaugurating the Bartholdi statute. Referred. Mr. Morrison of New York, from the committee on postoffices and postroads, reported a bill amending the status relating to transmission of obscene matter through the mails. The amendments proposed by this bill are intended to make its provisions so definite that they cannot be disobeyed with impunity. The nouse then went into committee of the whole on the oleomargarine bill, the pendng amendment being that offered by Mr. Townsend reducing the tax on oleomargarine from 10 to 2 cents per pound. Reected, 66 to 97. Mr. Daniel then offered his amendment abolishing the tax on tobacco, which was advocated by Mr. McAdoo of New Jersey. Mr. Buchanan of New Jersey, while he was in favor of the repeal of the tobacco tax, was opposed to the amendment as endangering the passage of the bill. Pending action the committee rose and the house adjourned until Tues-

House, June 4 .- The senate bill extending the eight-hour law to letter carriers was reported back by Mr. O'Neill, of Missouri. Placed on the calendar. The house then resumed consideration of the oleomargarine bill. Mr. Hatch, of Missouri, took the floor to close the debate in support of the measure. He defended the committee on agriculture, contending that it porting the revenue measure, and attributing much of the antagonism to it to the fact that it had not come from the ways and means committee. As to its constitutionality, he asserted there was not a provision in the bill which it was not within the constitutional power of congress to enact into law. He had no faith in the certificates of physicians to the wholesomeness of the compound, and said that a doctor who told him that he could eat three times a day for 365 days the uncooked product of oleomargarine without injurious effect, wrote himself down either a knave or an ass. Mr. Hatch then offered an amendment fixing the rate at five cents per pound. Agreed to-yeas 153, nays 122. The bill was then passed-yeas 177, nays 101. The announcement of the result was received with applause.

SENATE, June 4.-Ingalls offered a resolution, which was objected to by Beck and went over till to-morrow, calling on the secretary of the interior to inform the senate whether certain circulars have been issued by the commissioner of the general land office with the approval of the secretary of the interior. The Chinese indemnity bill was then placed before the senate and Cockrell took the floor. He argued strongly against the bill. He denied that it was required to extend to Chinese or any other foreigners any greater redress for wrongs than is given to citizens of the United States. At the conclusion of Cockrell's speech the bill was brought to a vote and passed-yeas 30, nays 10. The senators voting in the negative were Messrs. Beck, Berry, Cockrell, Coke, Eustis, George, Harris, Maxey, Mitchell, of Oregon, and Vest. The bill authorizes the president to ascertain the actual losses sustained by the Chinamen by the riot at Rock Springs, Wyo., in Sept. 1885, and to pay such losses. The amount appropriated by the bill for that purpose is $150,000.

HOUSE, June 4 .- The speaker laid before the house a communication from the secretary of war recommending that $50,000 of the amount appropriated by the act of March, 1883, for the armament of fortifications be appropriated and made available for the construction of guns. Boutelle introduced a bill r lating to duties on fish. Referred. Boutelle said in reference to this bill that the so-called retaliatory provision recently added by congress to the shipping bill, however proper and justifiable, will not be regarded with much concern by the Canadians, as they do not care much for the privilege of purchasing bait or supplies in our ports. He proposes, therefore, to deal with the fishery question practically by terminating the free importation of fish and increasing the import duties on all fish. thus compelling the Canadians to pay more for the privilege of selling fish in the United States.

In the convention of the Knights of Labor at Cleveland it was resolved to appoint at once and send to Washington a special committee of three to look after labor legislation now pending before congress. The committee on legislation presented the following proposition in the nature of demands of congress, which the convention ratified:

1. That patents for public lands begiven to actual settlers only.

2. That all lands owned by individuals or corporations in excess of 160 acres, whether improved or unimproved, shall be taxed to the full value of improved land. 3. Calling for the immediate forfeiture of all lands where the conditions of the grant have not been complied with.

4. That the order be issued forthwith so that taxation may take effect at once.

5. Calling for the removal of the fences from the public domain.

6. That after 1890 the government shall, by purchase and right of eminent domain, obtain possession of all lands held by aliens. 7. That after 1886 aliens shall be prohibited from acquiring title to land.

8. Asking the abolition of all laws requiring property qualification for voters. 9. Requesting the passage of a law levying a graduated income tax.

10. Protesting against the cutting down of the appropriation for the labor bureau. 11. Asking for the passage of the bills approved by the congressional labor committee.

12. Asking for the passage of a law prohibiting the employment in mines, shops, factories, etc., of minors for more than eight hours per day.

The committee on strikes and boycotts presented their report recommending that Il authority to order strikes and boycotts be vested in the executive committee.

The resolution in regard to election holilays is as follows:

Resolved. That it is the sense of this general assembly that the occupation of bribegivers and bribe-takers should be destroyed. To do this it will be necessary to educate those who suffer most through bribery and corruption that it is hurtful to the welfare of the nation to receive a bribe or give one. In order to deal with this question more effectually and intelligently we should use every means within our power to secure for the toiler the right to protect himself upon that day, which of all days is important to the American citizen -election day. That he may have the opportunity to protect his interests on that occasion, we should ask that election day be made a national holiday, on which no employer shall have the right to demand service at the hands of his employe. We furthermore recommend that workingmen leclare their intention to make election day "labor's national holiday," and that they devote their entire time on that day to looking after their own interests; that they shall on that day keep watch and ward over the destinies of the nation by guarding the polls from the influence of the bribe taker and bribe giver, and while we recognize the right of every man to indulge in the use of liquor to such an extent as he may deem necessary for his health and comfort, yet we do recommend that on that day each workman refrain from the use of liquor of all kinds, so

With these two powerful ageneies at his command it is no wonder that he could command the political situations of the metropolis. Whenever the democracy of New York sufiered defeat it was haid at Kelly's door. He was blamed for the defeat of the demotrats in the Garfield campaign. Kelly was born of poor parents, who sent him to the public school. He was employed as an office boy on the New York Herald, and probably got his liking for journalism there. He afterwards learned the trade of mason He accumulated considerable money at his business. He traveled through Europe for two years, and while there learned French and German under the tutleage of his wife. Upon his return the doings of the Tweed ring had incited revolution. That was Kelly's op portunity. Under his leadership Tweed was routed, and Tammany Hall fell into line as a reform organization. Kelley's first office was that of alderman. He served one term in congress and two terms as sheriff of New York. During 1876 he became comptroller of New York city. The debt of the city had increased from 1860 to 1876, when it reached $120,000,000. Under Kelley's management it was re duced $12,000,000. He was worth at least $1,000,000 at the time of his death. and was noted for his charitable bequests. Contrary to the general impression, he was a well read man, being deeply interested in history and the classics. As his constituents were for the most part not of the most intellectual order, this knowledge led to amusing incidents. In personal appear ance Kellev bore a strong resemblance to

NATIONAL CAPITAL GOSSIP.

Everybody, even those opposed to those oleomargarine bill, have been surprised at | OATS-No. 2 ...... the formidable proportions of the fight made against the measure. The tactics of the opposition have been centered in the direction of amendments. It has been steadily believed by the friends of impure and imitation butter that the bill can be amended to death. Failure to accomplish this in the house will not discourage the opponents. They will carry their fight into the senate and try to have the bill so amended there as to delay it in conference committees. A senator who is taking much interest in the bill says it cannot be defeated, however, and that it will be a law before July next. He thinks it is a terrible comment that the men who sell slaughterhouse offal, filthy grease, and those who produce cotton-seed oil, should be here spending thousands of dollars to defeat a bill in the interest of healthy food.

"The great increase of expenditures by the government during the past two or three years, and especially the increase of appropriations at this session, takes the advisability of reconstructing the navy clean out of the question so far as this congress is concerned," said a democratic member of the house committee on appropriations, to-day. "We will find that the total increase of appropriations this year will run well up to $40,000,000 by the time we get through. Well, the reconstruction of the navy contemplates fully that much, and we cannot afford to start in on an increase of expenses like $80,000,000 in one year, just at the beginning of the administration. This thing will have to be postponed."

at he may exercise with a clear head prerogative as a citizen in selecting proper men to represent the people.

During the alternoon session the legislative committee reported the demand that minors be prohibited from working over eight hours per day in mines, manufactories, etc. The following in the same report was also adopted:

Resolved, That we hold responsible at the ballot-box all members of congress who neglect or refuse to vote in compliance with these demands.

PUBLIC LAND LAWS.

Washington special: People who are anxious to see the land laws reformed need not delude themselves that anything great s going to be accomplished. The bill that he senate took up and passed so emphatically yesterday was a bill to prevent aliens hereafter from acquiring title to land n the territories. As aliens cannot get into ongress or even vote for people who can, he bill had no opponents. The efforts of epublican senators to protect the rights of he public, in the public domain, at this ate period in the session, is a new thing. I'wo years ago the public lands committee and the senate itself let all the public land ills, particularly the forfeiture bills, rest lacidly in pigeon holes until a late point n the session and then the senators had a caucus and voted to push them to their passage. It was so late that only one or two got through. The rest of them were crowded out by the appropriation and other bills. If the subservient friends of corporations in the senate can carry their programme through there will be the same esult this year.

and penalties imposed by the act shall go to the informer. The house would not. in his judgment, do itself justice if it enacted such an obnoxious piece of legislation. The motion was agreed to-76 to 23. Then, in accordance with the arrangements made on the afternoon of the 3d, the committee rose and reported the bill to the house, the understanding being that a vote should be taken to-morrow, and
