REPUBLICAN TICKET.

- NATIONAL. For President, BENJAMIN HARRISON, of Indiana. For Vice President, LEVI P. MORTON, of New York. CONGRESSIONAL. For Member of Congress, JAMES LAIRD. STATE. For Governor, JOHN M. THAYER. For Lieutenant Governor, GEORGE D. MEIKLEJOHN. For Secretary of State, GILBERT L. LAWS. For State Treasurer, J. E. HILL. For Attorney General, WILLIAM LEASE. For State Auditor, THOMAS H. BENTON. or Superintendent of Public Instruction, GEORGE B. LANE. Commissioner Public Lands and Buildings, JOHN STEEN. SENATORIAL. For Senator, 29th Senatorial District, J. P. LINDSAY. COUNTY. For Representative, JUSTIN A. WILCOX. For County Attorney, R. M. SNAVELY. For Commissioner, 2nd District, C. T. BLACKMAN.

SENATOR TELLER hit the nail on the head when he said that the present administration had played into the hands of Wall street. From the moment that Mr. Cleveland wrote his anti silver letter, before his inauguration, the whole purpose and policy of his administration has been to put the interests of Wall street before those of the rest of the country. No wonder that Secretary Fairchild had an immense audience of New York bankers and their satellites.

CONNECTICUT is proving a bad job for democrats, this year. Their national committee is accused of openly joining hands with the noisy free trade element and is also charged with putting its money into channels where it has been cordially advised that it is worse than wasted. That is the way the Hartford correspondent of the democratic Springfield Republican puts it, and doubtless he would make the best showing possible. It is to be feared that Consul General Waller's efforts to save the state will be all in vain.

AS WE have heretofore remarked, the people of this country need not trouble themselves over the bread question. The great corn crop should settle that, and we observe that the substitution in part of corn bread for wheat bread is being widely suggested. A Philadelphia paper reminds its readers that not only is corn bread nutritious; it is delicious when properly made, and it can be made in many excellent and attractive varieties. A great many people, we know, would find it necessary to cultivate a taste for corn bread, but they would be in every way better off for having done so.

THE Chinese exclusion bill may raise questions of international importance in which England and not China will be drawn into the controversy. The case of Fong Tang, who walked across the suspension bridge at Niagara Falls, but was compelled to go back to Canada by the customs officers of the United States, is a case in point. The merchant, Tye Chong, who wanted to come to New York on business, but was permitted only after considerable delay, to put foot on American soil, is likewise in point. These Chinamen are naturalized citizens of Canada and subjects of Great Britain. To refuse them and others of like political status the right to enter the confines of this country is an affront to England, not to China. It may be that Great Britain would accept America's explanation, in case the question becomes one of international inquiry, that the fact of naturalization or of British citizenship does not alter the legal conditions for the exclusion of Chinamen. But it is highly probable that the foreign office would demand a uniform treatment of British subjects on American soil, irrespective of the fact whether they are white or yellow, native or naturalized.

THE Iowa prohibitionists may congratulate themselves upon a victory won in the supreme court of the United States, which was not generally expected. The court has decided that the prohibition law of Iowa, in so far as it prohibits the manufacture and sale of liquors except for medicinal, medicinal and sacramental purposes, is not in conflict with the provision of the federal constitution which gives congress the sole power to regulate inter state commerce, and sustains the decision of the Iowa supreme court. The distiller against whom the case was brought took the position that, as he was manufacturing liquors solely for exportation to other states, the law in prohibiting such manufacture interfered with inter-state commerce, and was therefore in conflict with the constitution. The supreme court decides that there is no such conflict, and thus disposes of a very important question. The decision of course will apply to all states having prohibitory laws similar to that of Iowa, so that manufacturers of liquor in any of these states except for the purpose specified—medicinal, medicinal and culinary—may as well without further ado prepare to transfer their business to states where there is no such restriction. It is not in the power of a state to prohibit the importation of liquors, but this appears to be the only consequential limitation on its authority to deal with the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors.

THE anti Mosker resolutions of the 6th representative district met in convention at Wauwata, Tuesday, and after what is described as a stormy session, decided to support the democratic candidate. While the provocation for this action may be great and seemingly sufficient the wisdom and expediency of the course is certainly doubtful and perhaps open to criticism. THE TRIBUNE does not want to be understood as supporting and encouraging trickery and sharp practice in securing nominations, but simply desires to warn the people of the district of the danger of sending a democratic representative therefrom, this year, when a United States senator is involved, in a measure, in the outcome. "Better bear the ills ye have than to flee to others ye know not of."

THE navy department is said to be waking up in a wonderful way, and is proposing to send some of the admirals, rear admirals and full commanders to sea when the new cruisers are finished. It is said that these old salts feel very creepy in the region of the stomach already, before they have fortified themselves with their morning nip. Not having sailed the briny for fifteen or twenty years, they know that they will be sea sick when they ever were before in all their lives. They are too fat for active service. Probably a good many of them will apply to be transferred to the retired list.

THE unusual precaution taken by Chairman Quay of the republican national committee to ensure an honest vote in New York City is highly significant. The large rewards offered for the arrest and conviction of ballot stuffers and repeaters and the careful canvass of the votes of that city, will have a tendency to check illegal voting. But New York is not the only large city where the demerits depend for success on crookedness at the ballot box. Chicago, San Francisco, Boston and other leading cities of the country have time and again been stolen by the democrats on election day.

TATE SPRINGS, TENN., July 4, 1888. The Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga.: During the spring of 1871, while working in the field at my home in Morgan county, Ga., I pulled out a poisonous oak tree. Unfortunately, I walked into a clump of poison oak, and in a few days my feet were in a terrible condition, and I could not put on a shoe because of the soreness and swelling. I was treated as poison oak cases usually are, and everything was healed up. About the same time the following spring, 1872, my feet became sore again, as at first, and every succeeding spring for five years brought back the same condition of the case, only each time it became more distressing, because I began to think it was a lifetime trouble. Finally, I was induced to try Swift's Specific. I took six bottles, and to-day am entirely well. My improvement was gradual from the first, and no evidence of the disease remains. I shall take pleasure in testifying as to its curative properties. It is the greatest blood purifier in existence. Yours truly, J. L. MORGAN.

The foregoing certificate is taken at random from thousands of letters in possession of the Swift Specific Co., and presented simply as a sample. It is a voluntary statement, giving facts and results of the case. Its accuracy and genuineness are beyond question. A valuable Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free. Address THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO.,

Their Business Booming. Probably no one thing has caused such a general revival of trade at A. McMillen's drug store as their giving away to their customers of so many free trial bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Their trade is simply enormous in this very valuable article from the fact that it always cures and never disappoints. Coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, croup and all throat and lung diseases quickly cured. You can test it before buying by getting a trial bottle free, large size $1. Every bottle warranted.
