Lives of poor men oft remind us that honest toil doesn't stand a chance; more work we leave behind us bigger patches on our pants. On our pants once new and glossy now are patches of different hue; all because subscribers linger, and won't pay up what is due. Then let all be up and doing; send in your mite, be it so small or when the snows of winter strike us we shall have no pants at all.

Here is a receipt for preserving ice in a pitcher of water. Fill the pitcher with ice and water and set it on the center of a piece of paper; then gather the paper up together at the top and place the ends tightly together, placing a strong rubber band around the air. A pitcher of ice water treated in this manner has been known to stand over night with scarcely a particle melting of the ice.

That the small grain is not a complete failure by any means is practically demonstrated by the samples of rye and oats left at this office, Saturday, by Andrew Carson, whose farm is located a few miles west of the city and on the south side of the Republican.

All uncertainty and fear of failure is removed by irrigation. The husbandman knows that his labors will be rewarded by bountiful yields beyond a peradventure. One acre under a ditch is worth ten acres not so located, and in any country. Talk up irrigation.

The residence of Supt. Meeker of the city water works was the scene of some startling electrical effects, Sunday night, during the rain storm. The programme was rather dazzling for a few seconds, but the damage is nominal; the appliances with which the house is provided carrying off the dangerous element in safety.

Workmen commenced this week, the job of cleaning and pointing the stone front of the Phillips-Meeker building. The Colorado red stone is thoroughly washed with an acid—a wire brush being used in the work, after which a red colored mortar, composed of a large admixture of Portland cement, is utilized in the pointing process. A marked improvement is already noticeable.

The family of M. V. Starbuck were taken down quite violently ill, Wednesday night, from having eaten a quantity of canned beef, evidently of a more or less poisonous nature. Dr. Davis was called in and succeeded in relieving the distressed, all of whom, (except Mrs. Starbuck, who still suffers some from the effects of the poison,) are about as usual at this writing. All agree that the experience was as disagreeable as dangerous, and none are ambitious to repeat it.

The Nebraska Loan and Banking Co. has sold the Banking Branch of its business to the Bank of McCook, which has been organized under the laws of the state of Nebraska, to transact an exclusive banking business. This new bank will be under the management of C. E. Shaw as President; Chas. A. Van Pelt, Cashier; P. A. Wells, Assistant Cashier. The Nebraska Loan and Banking Co. will still continue business in the rear rooms of the same building but as a Real Estate, Loan and Investment Co. only.

Judge Cochran is being assailed by several papers of the district upon several grounds. The Hitchcock Republican quotes him as saying that he would do all he could to acquit men arrested for selling mortgaged property, simply because the law did not meet his approval. The Republican was never more mistaken than in this instance. Judge Cochran stated at Stockville that he would not sentence a man for moving mortgaged property from one county to another without every doubt was removed as to the man's intention to defraud; The mere fact of the removal of mortgaged property from one county to another or one state to another does not prove fraudulent intent. The Farmer believes Judge Cochran is right; at least that is the humanity side of the case. If a mortgagor were always compelled to stay where the mortgage is filed, it would be an impossibility for him to meet the obligation. We shall ever believe every court a pure and impartial one until absolute and immutable proof of its guilt is established. When confidence in the judiciary of the country is lost, every hope for the republic is dead. Men may speculate and scheme in other branches of the government, but the benches of justice must be pure. Men may do bad acts in all other departments and the country and its citizens will suffer temporarily only as the effects upon governmental affairs would be transient, but let the judiciary for a single hour depart from the path of disinterested, impartial justice, then the social and political structure of the people and the government is crumbled to the foundation.—Stockville Farmer.

Red Willow County Teachers' Institute

McCook, Aug. 11-23, 1890. TO THE TEACHERS: I have the pleasure of announcing our Tenth Annual Institute. Instructors who are specialists in their several departments have been engaged and with your hearty cooperation, I believe it will be a meeting of marked interest and profit. Be promptly on hand at nine o'clock, Monday morning practicing the punctuality we preach. Mrs. Tucker of Lincoln, a lady of wide experience in Normal schools and institutes, will give instructions in drawing and in primary studies and methods. It is gratifying to note the improvement all along the line of our county schools; a gain which may be a stepping stone to something better. Believing the work of the Institute to be the most important factor in the bettering of our schools, all persons who intend to teach will be required to attend the full time. Certificates will not be granted to those who unexcused by the superintendent absent themselves from any part of the session. School boards have learned that the teachers who attend Institutes are the ones they wish. There is a growing demand for those who are advancing in scholarship and in the art of teaching. Those who are growing up into better places will reach them. Let us "conspire with the new works of the new days" and engage with zeal and enthusiasm in the work of self culture. All teachers wishing me to engage board for them should write me not later than July 16th. Examinations August 16 and 23. Cordially yours, ELIZA G. NETTLETON, Co. Supt.

A GALA DAY!

A Large and Juicy Time for the Multitudes Who Celebrated With Us.

There is a general feeling of satisfaction over the splendid success of the celebration at this place. The weather was favorable, the preparations complete, the crowd numerous and everybody comfortable and happy. The exercises opened auspiciously with a parade in which the business, civic societies, fire department, etc., were well represented. The procession wound up at the grand stand, where the multitudes had the pleasure of listening to an eloquent address from the lips of Senator Nesbitt of North Platte. In the afternoon, the amusement box was opened. Then followed foot races, bicycling, catching the greased pig, climbing the greased pole, etc., all in one continuous round of pleasure. All the while the alluring voice of the "red lomo" man was heard in the land and cat-gut and horse-hair invited the votaries of "Terp." to the West Dennis shrine. The fire-works at night was a charming scene—a fitting climax to a notable day, so replete with the elements of joyousness. Peace and harmony reigned. The various features of the day's programme passed off smoothly and everything was lovely and propitious.

Look the Matter Up.

C. H. Brock, a member of the Eighth Iowa cavalry, in rummaging through the old records of Marshall county, Iowa, last week, discovered among the proceedings of the board of supervisors in 1863, that on December 7 of that year, it passed a resolution granting $150 to every man who should enlist after that date. In January following the board passed another resolution and granted the aforesaid bounty to all who had entered before or should enlist after that date, due in $50 annual payments, with 6 per cent. interest on unpaid amounts. Brock accordingly has filed a claim amounting to over $600. He further discovered that it would take $60,000 to pay the claims to which the soldiers enlisting in Marshall county are entitled. The only thing that can prevent the collection of these claims is the statute of limitation, which it is said, does not apply to government debts to its defenders. It might be well enough for the "boys" to look up the official records of the counties where they enlisted and see if there are not more of the Marshall kind.

Its Legal Status.

The address by Hon. J. B. Cessna of Hastings, Neb., at the opera hall, Monday evening, was an able presentation of the legal right of prohibition, and of our duty in the premises. A large and intelligent audience gave the Judge wrapt attention during the hour and a half required in the delivery of the lecture; evincing marked interest in the important topic handled and keen appreciation of the masterful manner in which it was discussed. The legal aspect of the problem was reviewed at great length, and its status in law was very conclusively determined. The number in attendance, and the deep concern manifested, indicate an awakening among the people, a quickening of the public pulse, and a gradual growth of favorable sentiment, which we hope may continue until the end of the campaign, and result in swelling the vote for the amendment.

Banksville Budget.

Samuel Ellis and N. J. Johnson, were at Banksville, very recently. Ed Ackerman was in McCook, and he and family got a good soaking by a rain that passed through by Mr. Wade's. The rain did not come soon enough to save the rye, wheat and oats, but the corn and potato crops recognize the good wetting with many thanks. Banksville was blessed with a fine rain the night of the 26th inst. and the night of the 28th, another good rain. The people of this vicinity are happy in proportion. D. B. Barnes, our precinct committeeman, was on hand with his notice for the republican primary meeting at District 51 on July 11 at 4 P. M. What is the matter of G. L. Laws for the second term for congress. Grant precinct appears to be alert on the issues of the government but there is one problem that gets them, how the removal of the county seat will damage Indiana 40 per cent and benefit the McCook surroundings only 10 per cent. The most of the settlers here look down their noses with a very sorry look at the apparent outcome, but it takes lots of pickets put on a smile when every backing to a good crop is knocked out and are left to fall back on imaginary resources. OSKREYER.

Pleasant Prairie Posies.

Nice showers; make corn grow. J. M. Ford has the boss piece of corn in the neighborhood. Floyd Ford and his mother were visiting at Danbury, Saturday. Wm. Relph has traded his big team of horses to Matson for his black stallion. Sydney Dodge has enlarged his pasture taking in about 80 acres more. John Goodenberger took advantage of the shower and planted his sod corn. J. D. Gerver has ordered a Wind and Feed mill combined. That's right. Enterprise wins. Mrs. N. J. Johnson and Miss Eliza Lawther were calling through the neighborhood, the 24th. Rev. Cory spoke Sabbath afternoon at the Dodge school house on "The Rising Generation." Mrs. Ford and Merlie were blown out of the house during the storm, Friday evening, but received no injury. They were pretty badly frightened, however. The Young People's Literary Society at this place is a success. At the last meeting, the exercises were all well rendered. The society meets regularly at the Widow Ford's. The surprise at Mr. Ellis's last Friday night was not a success on account of the storm. Everybody had their baskets packed when the storm came up and kept them at home. Quite a goodly number listened to an admirable discourse by Rev. Martin at the Dodge school house, Sabbath afternoon. There will be a Temperance lecture at the same place, next Sabbath, at 3 o'clock. George Lincoln of Banksville has just returned from a long journey on foot in which he wore out the soles of his shoes. He has purchased a new pair of shoes and is ready for another tramp if she is.
