NORTH DIVIDE NUBBINS.

Every thing is lovely.

Corn is ripening fast.

Rumor has it that we are to have an old folks wedding. So is it.

Farmers are busy hay making. The quality seems better than usual.

Will Johnson began work in his broom corn the first of the week; being on sod it is still very green.

The Unzicker eighty, joining James Brady on the west, was purchased by the latter; consideration $800.00.

One of James Robinson's horses, an old timer, having indulged too freely in a feed of oats, died the other day.

J. S. Modrell and P. O'Connor have disposed of their well making machinery to Frank Doyle and "Fatty" Bain; we wish them success.

The Stanton Rolla farm was bought by Mr. O'Connor recently and the latter has been moving the buildings there from the home place.

The little three year old daughter of Wash. Groves, has been seriously ill for the past week. Drs. Harlan and Davis have been in attendance.

Herr M. Moehler expects to dispose of his home place to some former acquaintance and intends to move onto and improve his tree claim.

"Jim" Thompson moved over from the Modie vicinity, and is at present occupying the Mooney place, which he intends to farm the coming year.

S. D. McClain departed on Friday morning, a week, for Illinois; being called there by a telegram announcing the sudden death of his aged mother.

Miss Irwin, of Harlan county, has commenced teaching in the North Divide school house. The attendance for the present is small, and yet the same old tiresome complaints are as prevalent as usual.

Some heartless boys have been making numerous raids on the Sanders melon patch, and judging from the hideous racket over there the other night, it would appear that Joe was there himself.

A right jolly crowd responded to the general invitation to the Modrell hop, which was held a few evening's since with gratifying pleasure and profit to all concerned, with the exception, of course, of the poor fiddlers.

Mike Dooley and one of his former, friends two of Erins most illustrious sons, have been waging war against one another for some time. The former, so we are told, carries all manner of rocks in his pockets and will make it lively for his neighbor on the hill.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Y. Johnson are happy over the event of a boy baby who made his appearance in a time when help is scarce. No wonder Bill is heard to say:

"Ven I look of dem little toes,
Und see dot funny leetle nose,
Und hear de vay dot rooster crows,
I shmile like I vos crazy."
CONNIE.

BANKSVILLE BUDGET.

It is very dry now and people are clamoring for rain.

Widow Berndt threshed her crop of wheat; it yielded 25 bushels per acre.

Almost everyone in this part is cutting and putting up hay, and it is dandy hay weather.

Miss Clara Benjamin, of Banksville, has gone to McCook to finish her course in shorthand and typewriting.

A. D. and Joe West have returned to Grant precinct; so reported, but we have not seen their smiling countenances yet.

The funeral of Jacob Ely, of Rawlins Co., Kan., was preached at the Dodge school, Sunday, by Elder Fitzgerald. He was a brother of Mrs. Sidney Dodge.

Wm. Relph returned from his Kansas trip since last writing; and is satisfied with this part of Neb., compared with what he saw in his trip through Kan.

The school board employed Mrs. E. L. Walker to teach the school west of Banksville, and some party or parties wrecked the school-house so that it was unfit for school; the majority of the board arranged so that the teacher could teach at S. R. Seaman's house.

Annual meetings of old settler's associations are being held in various parts of Nebraska. The Bee suggested recently that these associations make a point of preserving reminiscences of early times in the state with the view of enriching the fund of information upon which the future historian will have to draw. The early times in this state now seem to belong to the very recent past, and as there are thousands of people who remember all about them the need of written records is little appreciated, but the time will soon come when reminiscences of early days in Nebraska will possess great historic value. They should be recorded now, and the records of all these old settler's associations should be made treasuries of history. This state is yet young; everybody remembers everything now; but the time will come when all this will be changed. Attested records are worth worth, more than double tradition.—Bee.

The labor organizations which have decided to boycott the World's fair on account of the Sunday closing provision in the appropriation bill passed at the last session of Congress ought not to be hasty. Another session of Congress is to be held before the opening of the exposition, and if popular sentiment has anything to do with popular government, the obnoxious clause which proposes to exclude the public from the World's fair on Sunday will be repealed. The good sense of the people in this country usually prevails in the end. Let the trades assemblies keep on their coats until they learn how this thing is going to come out.

A GREAT deal of this "millionaire" racket is abominable rot. Senator Plumb was charged with being a "plutocrat" because he wore good clothes and smoked a pretty fair grade of cigars, but when the estate was settled and his debts paid, his life insurance was about all there was left to save the heirs from the poor house. He lacked $90,000 of being worth one-tenth of a million.

THE latest Nebraska weather crop bulletin says that a greatly increased acreage of fall wheat is being sown in this state. This is a result of excellent crops of this important cereal in various parts of the state this year and indicates that a belief in the advantages of diversified farming is becoming general among those who have hitherto depended almost entirely upon corn.

S. M. Cochran & Co. keep repairs for all kinds of machinery.

McCook attended the county fair yesterday en masse.
