

The laundress is sure of satisfactory results in her work if she uses Ivory Soap. Linens are of immaculate whiteness; no dirt or streaks anywhere. There's no room for criticism in the work when brought home. Ivory Soap is cheaper than common soaps in the end.

A WORD OF WARNING—There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the Ivory," they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeiters, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

The Way to go to California

Is in a tourist sleeper, personally conducted, via the Burlington route. You don't change cars; you see the finest scenery on the globe; you make fast time.

Your car is not so expensively furnished as a palace sleeper, but it is just as comfortable, just as good to ride in, and nearly $20 cheaper. It has wide vestibules, Pintsch gas, high-back seats, a uniform Pullman porter, clean bedding, spacious toilet rooms, tables and a heating range. Being strongly and heavily built, it runs smoothly—is warm in winter and cool in summer.

In charge of each excursion party is an experienced excursion conductor, who accompanies it right through to Los Angeles.

Cars leave Omaha, St. Joseph, Lincoln and Hastings every Thursday, arriving in San Francisco on the following Sunday, Los Angeles on Monday—only three days from the Missouri river to the Pacific coast, including a stop-over of 1½ hours in Denver and 2½ hours in Salt Lake City—two of the most interesting cities on the continent.

SOME DRINKS OF OLDEN TIMES

The Egyptians Made Beer and the Romans Drank Sea Water.

When the question of the moment is how to allay our thirst the beverage of history are of more than ordinary interest. The Egyptians, who have been ungallant enough to leave behind them delineations of the fair sex in a state of intoxication, had several kinds of wine more than 6,000 years ago, in addition to a beer called hega, made from barley. The ancient Assyrians too loved their wine. The earliest mention of wine in the Bible is a reference to Noah planting a vineyard and getting drunk with the wine. The drinks of antiquity were sometimes, to say the least, peculiar. The Greeks and Romans, whose customary drink was wine, often mixed it with sea water. Other ancient beverages were honey and rain water; honey, salt water and vinegar, and a mixture of honey and myrtle seed. Homer speaks of a wine to which twenty times as much water could be added. The Roman lover, when drinking to his lady, often drank as many cups of wine as there were letters in her name. Warm water was sometimes regarded by the Romans as an agreeable drink at the conclusion of the chief meal. It is safe to assume that this was not in summer time. Famous among drinkers were the Vikings, whose liquors were ale, beer, wine and mead. Quaffing ale from the skulls of their enemies formed one of the chief attractions of the promised Valhalla. An English drink much in demand in the time of Chaucer was bracket, made of the worst of ale, honey and spices. By the time of Edward IV. drinking had become so productive of crime that few places were allowed more than two taverns. London had to be content with forty. Under the Stuarts drunkenness was at its height. Thirst provokers were largely taken, and a man's claim to distinction was his bottle capacity, while ladies of the court thought it no shame to become inebriated. The three or five bottle man was an object of envy to his fellows. Indeed, the scenes of Hogarth are but a sidelight on the times. Signs were hung out side taverns informing the thirsty wayfarer that he could get "drunk for a penny" and "dead drunk for two-pence." Such notices often ended with the significant words: "Clean straw for nothing." With the reign of George IV. disappeared fashionable intemperance and "drunk as a lord" was no longer a correct simile. The aerated waters now so largely used were first made on a large scale by Schewpe of Geneva, in 1787, and ten years later a factory was established in England. There is a fortune awaiting the man who can invent a summer drink devoid of the shortcomings possessed by those at present in the market.

Do You Want a Calendar?

The biggest—and best—calendar ever issued by the American railroad is now being distributed by the Burlington Route.

It has twelve sheets, one for each month of the year. On each sheet is a striking illustration of some feature of the Burlington's service or of the territory reached by its lines.

The government fast mail running at full speed; a tourist car on its way to California; engine 1591, the largest passenger engine in the world; a library car; a compartment sleeper; the Burlington station at Omaha; a dining car; a monster freight train; Estes Park, Colo., the plunge bath at Hot Springs, S. D., Yellowstone Falls, etc.

The drawings from which the pictures were made are by Louis Brannhoff, of Chicago, and cost several hundred dollars.

The size of the calendar is 22x28. The dates are in big type which can be read at a distance of 50 feet. For business offices the Burlington calendar is simply invaluable.

Purchased in large quantities, the calendars cost the Burlington Route 27 cents apiece. With postage, packing, etc., they represent an investment of about 35 cents. Our price is 25 cents—10 cents less than cost. Write for one stamp will do. If it is not satisfactory, send it back and your money will be promptly refunded. 2-2-6t.
