New Post-Office and Route.

An effort is now being made by the people in and about the store at Center Denver visitor, first of the week. Point, Frontier county, to have a postoffice established at that place, with F. F. Garlick as postmaster. The petition has been largely signed and it is hoped that the same will soon receive favorable guest of his brother, Mayor Barnett. consideration and action by the department.

At the same time there is a movement on foot to secure an extension of the McCook-Hayes Center star route from a point at Stevens post office to Quick post-office, and incidentally the discontinuance of the star route from Stockville to Quick. The plan proposed will make a "circle" route, supplying Quick close of last week. from Stevens on the out trip and circling around to Osburn on the return trip.

This will not increase the mileage of the star route nor the expense to the government, but will give the people of Center Point and Quick a much better ver, Sunday on I, on a visit to her service.

Both plans are meeting with general support and encouragement from the people who will be pa rons of the two post-offices.

Wood-Doan Wedding.

The pre-eminent social affair of the week, and one of the happiest and cleverest in McCook's history, was the wedding of Mr. Arthur B. Woods and Miss Maude L. Doan, Wednesday evening, and the attendant reception. The wedding was a quiet affair and was witnessed by the relatives of the contracting parties, those ladies who assisted and their husbands, but the following reception was on an elaborate scale and was very largely attended by a brilliant gathering of our towns-people.

The wedding occurred at six thirty in the evening at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Doan, on Melvin street, Rev. W. J. Turner performing the ceremony. As the inspiring strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march from "Lohengrin" were on the sick-list for some time, returned played by Miss Hattie Yarger on the piano, Rev. Turner entered the parlor from the hallway, Myra Conner and Helen Lawson strung ribbons from the floral wedding canopy formed of roseberries and autumn leaves to the diningroom, the brides-maid and best-man, Miss Nina Doan and Mr. Roy Kleven, marched in and assumed positions on each side of the wedding station, and the bride approached on the groom's arm, followed by relatives and guests; and in the use of the impressive and beautiful ring service the estimable young couple were united in the holy bonds of wedlock.
