Length of Trips.

The 5,664,811 passengers carried over Santa Fe system lines the last fiscal year traveled in the aggregate 514,037,-047 miles or a little more than 90 miles per passenger. Considering the fact that so many made long trips to California the percentage of "short-trippers" must have been quite large to bring the average down to less than a hundred.

It has been found that editors' journeys average only 50 miles, which fact effectually disposes of the musty joke about newspaper men riding on passes to save board bills. They apparently stay at home more than other folks do.

WARM CROSSFIRE

WHEELER AND GROSVENOR EX-CHANGE LIVELY WORDS.

FORMER ASSAILS PRESIDENT

He Denounces Our Attitude Toward England as "Flunkeyism"-Thinks it Proper that Lord Pauncefote Be Ordered Home.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 .- The monotony of a private pension day of the house was enlivened by an impassioned speech from Mr. Wheeler of Kentucky in denunciation of what he denominated "flunkeyism" to foreign countries. He took the recent statements emanating from the conti nental cabinets regarding the attitude of Great Britain during the Spanish-American war as a text for a wholesale attack upon the trend of the United States' recent diplomacy. He severely scored Secretary Hay and declared that if Lord Pauncefote had sought, as was alleged, to circumvent this country during the war of 1898, the sooner he was shipped across the seas the better.

He also criticised the president for his reported intention to send his daughter to the coronation of King Edward and protested against the official reception of Prince Henry.

His speech aroused the house to a high pitch of excitement and elicited from Mr. Boutell of Illinois a spiced defence of Secretary Hay, whom he eulogized in high terms. Several members took a hand and later in the afternoon Mr. Grosvenor of Ohio took Mr. Wheeler to task for his "inopportune protest" and rehearsed the history of the visit of the prince of Wales to this country in 1860 and his reception by President Buchanan.

Mr. Wheeler excoriated what he termed the modern disposition toward "European flunkeyism." Until 1896, he said, all Americans had gloried in the splendid isolation of the republic and its determination to hold aloof from foreign entangling alliances. Less than five years ago, he declared, a president, "goaded on by the pitlable flunkey in the State department," had stretched his arms across the seas in adulation to the people of Great Britain and today the government was hugging to its bosom that which since the battle of Yorktown had systematically and persistently plotted our

"I have respect for the present occupant of the White House, I frankly avow," said the speaker. "I think he is too honest to be palatable to the average republican partisan. A little Quixotic, it is true, hasty-tempered, full-blooded and not exactly desirable to many of our citizens, and I indulge the hope that the lingering element of Americanism will induce him at the first opportunity to boot out that man in the State department, who in my judgment has brought us to this humiliating condition."

He continued: "England a friend of the United States? I would to God she were, but what a spectacle have we presented in order to boast that we have the friendship of Great Brtain and have become a world power.

"For more than four years we have witnessed Great Britain maintaining military stations inside the borders of two republics. We have seen her agents going up and down this country enlisting men and buying materials of war, and I believe I will not travel outside the record when I assert that any member upon this floor who has served here as much as four years has received letters from his constituents protesting against the enforced enlistment of American boys by the English government to do battle in South Africa.

"We have swung further away from the democratic traditions, from republican ideas and republican principles in the last five years than in the previous 100 years."

House Committee and St. Louis Men Discuss Appropriation.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 .- The officials of the government board for the St. Louis exposition and a number of St. Louis men identified with that enterprise today were before the house committee on expositions relative to the amount required for the government exhibit.

Congress has heretofore appropriated $250,000 as a part of the amount for the building, but the amount for the exhibit itself was left open.

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Brigham, head of the government board, and his assistants calculate on $800,000 for the exhibit. They also desire a building to cost $450,000. Supervising Architect Taylor of the Treasury department stated that the building would cost from $50,000 to $75,000 more if built within the time originally set for opening the exposition than it would if another year was allowed.

The various officials explained the magnitude of the work and the plans to make this government exhibit in every way worthy of the enterprise as a whole.
