LONGMONT, Colorado, is to have a beetsugar factory to handle the crop of 1903. The full capacity of the factory will be 1,200 tons of beets a day, but it will start, this year, with a 600-ton-per-day capacity. The plant will ultimately cost a million dollars, and it will be dominated by the American Sugar Refining Co., be ter known as the sugar trust-the Havemeyers. Guaranteed acreage of sugar-beets, this year, is 6,000 acres.

ONE of the vital interests of the Southwest Nebraska Industrial Association will be the promotion of irrigation. Nothing will sooner assure the location of the sugar-beet factory in the Republican Valley than the increasing of the irrigation facilities and capacities of the Frenchman and Republican rivers. The matter rests upon the building of dams and the impounding of the large amount of water which now flows past us un utilized. There are splendid opportunities for dam building on both rivers and especially on the Frenchman.

Last Sunday evening in the Methodist | replied Abner cheerfully. church of Nebraska City, Miss Lida Tice, a young woman, suddenly fell to the floor vomiting blood and showing alarming signs of possible dissolution. While the summoned medics were working over the sick woman, the assembled brethren and sisters gathered about and sang, "We Will Meet in Heaven." This prospect was too much for the ailing of a sermon under such circumstances," woman and she soon showed signs of improvement, and seems destined for some time to disappoint the brethren on on that score. Ulcerated stomach caused the hemorrhage.

Poet Laureate of Republican Valley. James Franklin Forbes of McCook, the poet laureate of the Republican Valley, sends in these lines in response to a question lately propounded in these columns: You ask "who on this earth can find

The key to that which we call mind And hold it where it can be seen, This thing you call the thought machine?" The solving of life's sums, dear Bix, Is not found in the "almanix." or is it found in schools of thor Nor round the joints where booze is bought. But man may truly "pierce the dim Dark veil that hides himself from him" When once he grasps the thought that he Is something more than what you see, That this, the thing you call the man, Is simply part of some wise plan To clothe the soul with human mien, And evolute a "thought machine," You cannot see the "raging wind, Nor penetrate with finite mind "The riddle of the universe." Although you can write peerless verse. But as you read these punky lines, Just look within and note the signs That may advise you how to find The spot where dwells the human mind, And how the subtle essence sends Its messages to foes and friends. It is not in your teeming brain You find the spark that lights the train, Nor thinking oft of Adam's sin-But look within, just look within And some day you'll not have to fix For warmer times across the Styx.

Mrs. August Wesch has had a long siege of sickness, but is reported much better.

Fine winter weather again with snow mostly gone and the stock have a chance to rustle their own living which is a very important condition on the divide lands of southwestern Nebraska. The stock have pulled through the 30 days cold snap in very good condition so far as the writer is informed.

A Scientific Discovery. Kodol does for the stomach that which it is unable to do for itself, even when it is but slightly disordered or overloaded. Kedol supplies the natural juices of digestion and does the work of the stomach, relaxing the nervous tension, while the inflammed muscles of that organ are allowed to rest and heal. Kodol digests what you eat and enables the stomach and digestive organs to transform all food interich, red blood. McConnell & Berry.

A SERMON TO SUIT.

The Folks Who Paid For the Discourse Got What They Wanted.

Many Maine people who live in a OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER, certain part of Cumberland county will well remember one Abner-so he was always called in his town. Abner was the wit of the village, and he was commonly selected to take ch rge of funerals because he was about the only man in town who had time hanging on his hands. A citizen died, a man who never amounted to much, who was never positively wicked, because that would have required more of an effort than he was willing to make. He was, however, far enough from being a good citizen, and Abner knew it as well as anybody else.

Abner was requested to ask a certain minister to conduct the service, and he hitched up his old horse and drove to his house. The minister said he would attend and then tried to get a little information concerning the late lament-

"What sort of a man was he?" he

"Well, about the same as no sort of a man at all," replied Abner frankly. "I suppose his loss will be deeply felt in the community?" said the min-

"They're all bearing up well under it," said Abner slowly. "Was he a Christian?" asked the minister. "If he'd been accused of it, the verdict would have been not guilty and the jury wouldn't have left their seats,"

"Did he attend church?" asked the minister a bit anxiously.

"I never heard of his doing it," said

"How did be die?" continued the

"Just the same as he lived, sort of naturally," said Abner. "I don't see how I'm to preach much said the minister. "The neighbors all said they didn't think they wanted much of a sermon, and so they sent me over to see you,' said Abner. The minister pocketed his wrath and a five dollar bill, and after the funeral family. the satisfied Abner said, "Well, we got just what we wanted, b'gosh."-Lewiston Journal.

"I am glad they moved away," remarked the good housewife, speaking of a family of borrowing neighbors who had just left the neighborhood. "I was willing to lend them a loaf of bread occasionally or half a dozen eggs or the washboard or the lemon pennies to give the organ grinder I began to think it was nearly time to draw the line; and, to cap the climax, one day they actually asked me to come over and take care of the baby while they went out to do the shopping!"

Uncertain About Her Age. A Boston servant, like many of her class, does not know her age. Orleans to St. Francis.

ORLEANS, Neb., Jan. 15, 1903-Special to THE TRIBUNE.)—The Burlington turn tables at Atwood and St. Francis, Kansas, are to be reconstructed and enlarged to accommodate engines of the "Pig" class which will replace the small locomotives now running on the branch. Increased traffic and heavier tonnage demand more powerful machines to haul long and heavy trains so freight will not be delayed and save doubling heavy grades. The only objection seems that the steel rails of the St. Francis branch are too light to stand the weight of these Material to rebuild the Atwood turntable has arrived at that point.
