PUBLIC FREE LIBRARY NOTES.

As children insist upon being told true stories, so their elders prefer to hear about events that actually happened. The requisites of greatness in all imitative work is that it shall resemble, as nearly as may be, the original. A painting is famous when it is a faithful production. A statue is noted when the model is recognizable in the marble. A book is great when the author records what he sees as he sees it.

However immature our minds, however inexperienced we may be, we are able to distinguish this merit if it exists. Whatever other faults the result of a man's labor has, let it not lack this one element. Let it be as imperfect as it may in other respects, if it be realistic then it is the work of genius.

Nothing is more difficult in writing than to describe accurately. The books that have the quality of accuracy are few, and among the output today it is rare to find a volume that meets the requirements. One of the more recent productions that is quite satisfactory is The Log of a Cowboy, by Andy Adams. It is an account of a cattle drive made in the summer of 1882 from the Mexican border to the Blackfoot Indian Reservation in Montana. The author makes no pretensions to literary perfection, but the story is good and wholesome, and breathes of the freedom and of the ineffable charm of the prairies. The book is of especial interest to us of this western region for the reason that we—at least those of us who have lived here longest—are not wholly unfamiliar with the life of which it tells. The herd passed not many miles west of here—probably not far from Culbertson, as that town is mentioned as having been near the trail.

Fourteen men, all told, comprised the party, each man had ten horses, and the herd numbered three thousand head. There was, besides, a "chuck wagon," drawn by mules. The drive consumed five months, from April to September, and was made through a country which, at that day, was unsettled except for frontier posts and cattle towns scattered at wide distances along the trail.

The tale though simply told, touches in places the very heights—or depths—of sentiment. It is fascinating because it is real. It is worthy, because it is intensely human.

End of Bitter Fight.

"Two physicians had a long and stubborn fight with an abscess on my right lung," writes J. G. Hughes of DuPont, Ga., "and gave me up. Everybody thought my time had come. As a last resort I tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. The benefit I received was striking and I was on my feet in a few days. Now I've entirely regained my health." It conquers all coughs, colds and throat and lung troubles. Guaranteed by L. W. McConnell's drug store. Price 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

Coming as it does, in the busiest season, when a man can least afford to lose time, a sure and quick cure for diarrhea is very desirable. Watch For a Chill.

However slight at this time of year and in this climate, it is the forerunner of malaria. A disposition to yawn, and an all tired out feeling even comes before a chill. Herbine, by its prompt stimulative action on the liver, drives the malarial germs out of the system, purifies the blood, tones up the system and restores health. 50c at A. McMillen's, druggist.

The Board of Managers of the Nebraska State Fair, which will be held in Lincoln from September 4th to 11th, inclusive, are confident that the fair of 1903 will be the greatest fair in the history of the organization. The new buildings erected are ready for occupancy, and in the stock department there are buildings to accommodate 1,300 head of hogs, 500 head of cattle, and 200 head of horses. Already the entire space for hogs has been taken, and cattle and horses are practically on the same basis. County exhibits of agricultural products will be larger than ever, and the Horticultural Society, notwithstanding the fact that it is a poor fruit year in the state, expects to have a great showing of what Nebraska can do in this line. For entertainment the fair people have doubled their purses in Speed this year, and have $8,000 in purses, which gives three strong races every day of the fair. On Tuesday, at the expense of $1,000, the managers have secured Cresceus, the greatest trotter of the world, who holds the world's record. This great horse will trot against his record on Tuesday, and if the track is bad and the weather not in condition, he will be held for the next day. Wednesday has been set apart for Fraternity Day, and thousands of members of fraternal organizations in the state will be present. Competitive drills and prizes will be a feature of this day. Every day will be made strong and interesting with band concerts and special attractions, so that any day in the week will be a good day to visit Lincoln and the state fair. One fare for the round trip from all points in Nebraska has been granted by the different railroads. Tickets will be sold from September 7th to 11th, inclusive, good to return on the 12th.

Indigestion Causes Catarrh of the Stomach.

For many years it has been supposed that Catarrh of the Stomach caused indigestion and dyspepsia, but the truth is exactly the opposite. Indigestion causes catarrh. Repeated attacks of indigestion inflame the mucous membranes lining the stomach and excite the nerves of the stomach, thus causing the glands to secrete mucus instead of the juices of natural digestion. This is called Catarrh of the Stomach.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

relieves all inflammation of the mucous membranes lining the stomach, protects the nerves, and cures bad breath, sour risings, a sense of fullness after eating, indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles.

LIQUID KOAL TRADE-MARK
The Scientific Germ Killer.
It contains every antiseptic known to science.

Hog Cholera
Is a germ disease of the intestines. The cholera bacteria finds its way into the animal through the drinking water or filth, passing into the stomach and finally down along the intestines it sets up fermentation and from there filters through the blood, liver and other organs. Hog cholera cannot be treated successfully unless treatment is commenced before the germ has reached the period of rapid multiplication. If taken in time it can be cured, and in all cases prevented by the use of Liquid Koal, because it is the only known germicide that will pass through the stomach into the intestines and from there into the blood, permeating the whole system, and still retain its germ killing properties. All other so-called cholera cures lose their potency by the acid reaction of the gastric juices of the stomach; hence have no value.
